Matthew Schultz, 2016-05-16 The spectres of history haunt Irish fiction In this compelling study Matthew Schultz maps these rhetorical hauntings across a wide range of postcolonial Irish novels and defines the spectre as a non present presence that simultaneously symbolises and analyses an overlapping of Irish myth and Irish history By exploring this exchange between literary discourse and historical events Haunted historiographies provides literary historians and cultural critics with a theory of the spectre that exposes the various complex ways in which novelists remember represent and reinvent historical narrative It juxtaposes canonical and non canonical novels that complicate long held assumptions about four definitive events in modern Irish history the Great Famine the Irish Revolution the Second World War and the Northern Irish Troubles to demonstrate how historiographical Irish fiction from James Joyce and Samuel Beckett to Roddy Doyle and Sebastian Barry is both a product of Ireland's colonial history and also the rhetorical means by which a post colonial culture has emerged
