NASA Roger D. Launius,1994 When future generations review the history of the twentieth century they will undoubtedly judge humanity s movement into space space with both machines and people as one of its seminal developments Even at this juncture the complex nature of spaceflight and the activity that it has engendered on the part of many peoples and governments makes the U S civil space program a significant area of investigation People from form all avenues of experience and levels of education share an interest in the drama of spaceflight This book is the most up to date synthesis of the American civil space program available and the only one designed especially for use as a college textbook Written by NASA s chief historian itit describes the history of this effort from its earliest origins to the early 1990s and offers a powerful analysis of the space program that merges political economic technological scientific and foreign affairs into a meaningful whole As in all the Anvil Series texts it has both a sound historical narrative and a set of key documents which suggest other aspects of the story     Exploring the Unknown ,1995     Exploring the Unknown Roger D. Day,1996 Coming after the successful first volume the second volume covers the important topics of NASA relations with the military foreign space agencies and NASA industry university relations Organized in a similar format as volume I this book should be very useful to students of space exploration     Exploring the Unknown ,1995     Exploring the Unknown -

Perspectives Steven J. Dick,National Aeronautics and Space Administration,2010-07-07 On 29 July 1958 President Dwight D Eisenhower signed the National Aeronautics and Space Act creating the National Aeronautics and Space Administration NASA which became operational on 1 October of that year Over the next 50 years NASA achieved a set of spectacular feats ranging from advancing the well established field of aeronautics to pioneering the new fields of Earth and space science and human spaceflight In the midst of the geopolitical context of the Cold War 12 Americans walked on the Moon arriving in peace for all mankind Humans saw their home planet from a new perspective with unforgettable Apollo images of Earthrise and the Blue Marble as well as the pale blue dot from the edge of the solar system A flotilla of spacecraft has studied Earth while other spacecraft have probed the depths of the solar system and the universe beyond In the 1980s the evolution of aeronautics gave us the first winged human spacecraft the Space Shuttle and the International Space Station stands as a symbol of human cooperation in space as well as a possible way station to the stars With the Apollo fire and two Space Shuttle accidents NASA has also seen the depths of tragedy In this volume a wide array of scholars turn a critical eye toward NASA's first 50 years probing an institution widely seen as the premier agency for exploration in the world carrying on a long tradition of exploration by the United States and the human species in general Fifty years after its founding NASA finds itself at a crossroads that historical perspectives can only help to illuminate NASA Historical Data Book: NASA launch systems, space transportation, human spaceflight, and space science, 1979-1988 Jane Van Nimmen, 1988 NASA Historical Data Book, 1988 NASA Historical Data Book: NASA launch systems, space transportation, human spaceflight, and space science, 1989-1998, 1988 NASA Historical Data Book: NASA launch systems, space transportation, 1988

Research in NASA History Steven J. Dick, 2009 As the National Aeronautics and Space Administration NASA celebrated its 50th anniversary in 2008 historians as well as scientists and engineers could look back on a record of accomplishment Much has been written about the evolution of NASA's multifaceted programs and the people who carried them out Yet much remains to be done and we hope this publication will facilitate research in this important field Page 1 NASA historical data book, Volume 7: NASA Launch Systems Space Transportation/Human Space Flight, 1988 Exploring the Unknown: Selected Documents in the History of the U.S. Civil Space Program ... Nasa United States. National Aeronautics and Space Administration, 2000* Exploring the Unknown: Selected Documents in the History of the U.S. Civilian Space Program John M. Logsdon, 1996 NASA Historical Data Book, V. 7, 1976 This volume of the NASA Historical Data Book is the seventh in the series that describes NASA's programs and projects Covering the years 1989 through 1998 it includes the areas of launch systems human spaceflight and space science continuing the volumes that addressed these topics during NASA's previous decades Each chapter presents information much of it statistical addressing funding management and details of programs and missions Exploring the Unknown National Aeronautics and Space Administration, John M. Logsdon, Amy Paige Snyder, Roger D. Launius, Stephen J. Garber, 2014-02-01 One of the most important developments of the twentieth century has been the movement of humanity into space with machines and people The underpinnings of that movement why it took the shape it did which individuals and organizations were involved what factors drove a particular choice of scientific objectives and technologies to be used and the political economic managerial and international contexts in which the events of the space age unfolded are all important ingredients of this epoch transition from an Earthbound to a spacefaring people This desire to understand the development of spaceflight in the U S sparked this documentary history series The extension of human activity into outer space has been accompanied by a high degree of self awareness of its historical significance Few large scale activities have been as extensively chronicled so closely to the time they actually occurred Many of those who were directly involved were quite conscious that they were making history and they kept full records of their activities Because most of the activity in outer space was carried out under government sponsorship it was accompanied by the documentary record required of public institutions and there has been a spate of official and privately written histories of most major aspects of space achievement to date. There is no lack of material for those who aspire to understand the origins and evolution of U S space policies and programs. This reality forms the rationale for this series. Precisely because there is so much historical material available on space matters, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration decided in 1988 that it would be extremely useful to have available to scholars and the interested public a selective collection of many of the seminal documents related to the evolution of the U S civilian space program. While recognizing that much space activity has taken place under the sponsorship of the Department of Defense and other national security organizations within the U S private sector and in other countries around the world, NASA felt that there would be lasting value in a collection of documentary material primarily focused on the evolution of the U S government's civilian space program, most of which has been carried out since 1958 under the Agency's auspices. As a result, the NASA History Office contracted with the Space Policy Institute of George Washington University's Elliott School of International Affairs to prepare such a collection. This is the fifth volume in the documentary history series; three additional ones detailing programmatic developments with respect to aspects of space science not covered in the current volume and to human spaceflight will follow. The documents in this volume are presented in three major sections, each covering a particular aspect of the origins, evolution, and execution of the U S space science program. Chapter 1 deals with the origins, evolution, and organization of the space science program. Chapter 2 deals with solar system exploration. Chapter 3 deals with NASA's astronomy and astrophysics efforts. Vol I covered the antecedents to the U S space program as well as the origins and evolution of U S space policy and of NASA as an institution. Vol II dealt with the relations between the civilian space program of the U S and the space activities of other countries, the relationship between the U S civilian and national security space and military efforts, and NASA's relations with industry and academic institutions. Vol III provided documents on satellite communications, remote sensing, and the economics of space applications. Vol IV covered various forms of space transportation. Future volumes will cover solar and space physics, earth science and life and microgravity science, and human spaceflight.

The Spacelab Story Ben Evans, 2024-04-24. Between 1983 and 1998, Spacelab provided NASA with a vital short-term laboratory in space. Across more than a dozen missions, Spacelab's pressurized research modules and science pallets supported hundreds of experiments from the life to microgravity sciences, from Earth science to astrophysics, and from materials processing to fluid dynamics. For the first time, The Spacelab Story sheds light on all the Spacelab missions that served as pathfinders for the eventual International Space Station, along with all the flights that never came to be. The book chronicles over two decades of service and international partnership with Germany, Japan, Canada, Russia, the member states of the European Space Agency, and others. The very same international co-operation that led to Spacelab's genesis also conspired to create its end. Science writer Ben Evans chronicles this tumultuous history, showing how as tensions between the superpowers cooled in the 1990s and the Shuttle came to be increasingly used to fly joint missions to Mir many Spacelab missions were delayed and eventually cancelled This book is a must read for anybody interested in the science conducted aboard the Shuttle the experimental precursors of the ISS and the international politics surrounding NASA's pioneering space endeavors     Exploring The Unknown: Selected Documents In The History Of The US Civil Space Program ...
