Theory Construction in Second Language Acquisition Geoff Jordan, 2004 Recently many SLA researchers have adopted a postmodernist approach which challenges the assumption that SLA research is a rationalist scientific endeavour The resulting epistemological arguments plus problems of theory proliferation contradicting theories and theory domain hinder progress towards a unified theory of SLA Theory Construction in SLA addresses these problems by returning to first principles it asks whether there is such a thing as reliable knowledge what is special about scientific method and how we can best explain SLA It is the first book to use the philosophy of science in order to examine the epistemological underpinnings of SLA research and evaluate rival theories of SLA Part One explores the central issues in the philosophy of science defends rationality against relativists and offers Guidelines for theory assessment Part Two examines different theories of SLA and evaluates them in terms of how well they stand up to the Guidelines

A Philosophy of Second Language Acquisition Marysia Johnson, 2008-10-01 How does a person learn a second language In this provocative book Marysia Johnson proposes a new model of second language acquisition SLA a model that shifts the focus from language competence the ability to pass a language exam to language performance using language competently in real life contexts Johnson argues that current SLA theory and research is heavily biased in the direction of the cognitive and experimental scientific tradition She shows that most models of SLA are linear in nature and subscribe to the conduit metaphor of knowledge transfer the speaker encodes a message the hearer decodes the sent message Such models establish a strict demarcation between learners mental and social processes Yet the origin of second language acquisition is located not exclusively in the learner s mind but also in a dialogical interaction conducted in a variety of sociocultural and institutional settings says the author Drawing on Vygotsky s sociocultural theory and Bakhtin s literary theory she constructs an alternative framework for second language theory research teaching and testing This approach directs attention toward the investigation of dynamic and dialectical relationships between the interpersonal social plane and the intrapersonal individual plane Johnson s model shifts the focus of SLA away from a narrow emphasis on language competence toward a broader view that encompasses the interaction between language competence and performance Original and controversial A Philosophy of Second Language Acquisition offers an introduction to Vygotsky s sociocultural theory and Bakhtin s literary theory both of which support an alternative framework for second language acquisition an examination of the existing cognitive bias in SLA theory and research a radically new model of second language acquisition
