Performing Collaborative Research With Nontraditional Military Suppliers:

   Performing Collaborative Research with Nontraditional Military Suppliers Kenneth P. Horn,1997 This report discusses what the Army needs to do to attract more nontraditional military suppliers NTMSs and what specific Army organizations and associated technologies are best suited for a pilot program designed to attract NTMSs   Performing Collaborative Research with Nontraditional Military Suppliers. Volume II. ,1997 Despite conducting substantial research and development the Army is facing a series of constraints in maintaining its technological edge 1 future reductions in science and technology S 2 commercial domination of many of the important technological areas for the Army such as information technologies 3 growth in international technology capabilities and in competition from European and Japanese companies and 4 a changing research climate within the government with a growing ideological shift away from big government involvement in R D At the request of the Army Materiel Command AMC the Arroyo Center was asked to study promising options for the Army to consider in conducting collaborative research with nontraditional military suppliers NTMSs defined as U S profit making companies that are accepted leaders in their technological fields and that have not historically worked for the Army   An Analysis of Collaborative Research Opportunities for the Army Carolyn Wong,Arroyo Center,1998 The Arroyo Center has developed a methodology to identify opportunities for the Army to use collaboration with industry to more effectively achieve its research and development goals The framework prioritizes technologies by Army utility and by market breadth and it allows superimposition of different management approaches The author applies the framework to Army technologies and identifies those that are the most appropriate candidates for collaborative development with the commercial sector   Report of the Defense Science Board Acquisition Workforce Sub-Panel of the Defense Acquisition Reform Task Force on defense reform ,1998 This report provides three policy recommendations based on the overarching theme of more closely integrating DoD with industry The Sub Panel believes that improved integration with industry is the critical element that will enable the acquisition system to perform better faster and cheaper in support of the warfighter The recommended policy initiatives are that DoD should 1 Restructure its Research Development Test and Evaluation RDT E organizations and associated workforce to enable the Department to make better use of the capabilities of industry and other government agencies to concentrate in house capabilities in areas where there is no external capability and to eliminate duplicative capabilities 2 Expand the use of price based forms of contracting to reduce the cost of doing business with Department of Defense DoD for existing Defense contractors and to give DoD access the segments of industry that currently choose not to do business with the Department because of the costs and complexities associated with cost based contracts 3 Expand the oursourcing of sustainment activities to eliminate duplicative capabilities between DoD and industry to enable the Department to capitalize on industry s advancements in applying technology to these functions and to provide better support to the user   The United States Army George D.
