Permanence And Family Support Changing Practice In Group Child Care:

Family Centred Group Care: Model Building Frank Ainsworth, 2018-10-26 Published in 1997 this study focused on building and empirically validating a model of family centred group care This is an alternative to the traditional model of group child care that is primarily child centred and which reflects the notion of group care as a substitute for parental care The model represents a step forward in the conceptualization of group care practice as both child centred and family affirming The Family Centred Group Care instrument used in the study is unique in that this is the first to measure a model of group care empirically The book will be of interest to child welfare practitioners social workers child care workers and other human service personnel as well as managers of agencies that provide group care services for children and at risk youth Researchers and policy makers will also find this book useful as the study advances the application of empirical methodology to human service programs

Permanence and Family Support Richard William Small, 1988 Group Care Practice with Children and Young People Revisited Leon C. Fulcher, Frank Ainsworth, 2012-12-06 Find out how group care for children has changed in the last 20 years Group Care Practice with Children and Young People Revisited focuses on the core issues that shape the quality of care that is provided in institutional and residential care settings as well as day care services that rely on the group process Leading authorities on residential group care practice from around the world examine practice concepts centered on three broad themes working directly with children working indirectly to support children and their families and organizational influences on practice This unique book offers valuable insights for dealing with the daily challenges of working with young people in responsive group care Group Care Practice with Children and Young People Revisited builds on contemporary themes that were explored by the editors more than 20 years ago in Group Care for Children Concept and Issues and Group Care Practice with Children both out of print Contributors to this updated collection put a fresh spin on the original material as well as cross cultural analysis from both sides of the Atlantic Australia and New Zealand Malaysia China and the United Arab Emirates They revisit the key issues identified in the earlier books and provide personal and professional reflections on what has happened to their practice themes since the early 1980s Special attention is paid to how social policy imperatives normalization de institutionalization mainstreaming least restrictive environment minimal intervention and diversion have reshaped the field group care methods and skills needed for direct and indirect care and group care as an occupational Group Care Practice with Children and Young People Revisited examines and re examines the relationships between group care practice and education how group care programs can become hostile to families primary care in secondary settings the importance of shared language in a group care center group development how group composition can influence the overall functioning of the group managing occupational stresses in group care practice patterns of career development in child and youth care economic influences that impact group care challenges facing the future of group care services for children and much more Group Care Practice with Children and Young People Revisited is a must read for youth case workers child and youth care educators and anyone working in child welfare including youth justice managers administrators and policymakers Crisis Intervention in Residential Treatment William C Morse, 2013-04-15 All settings where disturbed children spend time such as camps or residential schools are periodically faced with crisis situations Methods for dealing with these crises and for counseling the children involved are continually needed Crisis Intervention in Residential Treatment is both a demonstration of how essential Fritz Redl's treatment concepts remain today and a tribute to his genius The authors bring order and reason to the quest for better ways to understand and respond to confrontation and aggression in residential treatment settings They provide practical and successful strategies to cope with these situations and prevent them from occurring By exploring and expanding some of Redl's most important theories and practices the authors encourage a new generation of child care workers to find the same stimulation and satisfaction in his work as his original followers found The contributors each deeply affected and influenced in his or her own way by Redl provide not only a moving tribute to a great child care worker and innovator but also a rejuvenation of some of the most valued ideas in the field Sharing Redl's concern for daily practice with very difficult youngsters this understanding book focuses on the action setting and the development of theory from practice not the application of theory to practice By concentrating on such topics as the use of life space interviewing aggression and counter aggression in staff and the contrast of interpersonal and ecological perspectives with current get tough approaches Crisis Intervention in Residential Treatment is an eminently useful guide for everyone dealing with children in group settings Psychiatrists psychologists social workers teachers and residential personnel will all learn effective ways of coping with and preventing crisis situations

Family-focused Practice in Out-of-home Care Dennis J. Brazier, 1996 Family Focused Practice in Out of Home Care provides practical hands on support to help agencies bring a family focus to their policy administrative and program structures It goes further to describe an agency's process of change from a traditional out of home care agency to one that develops and improves relationships with families of children in care Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965-70 National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1990 Family Support Services Ilene Wolcott, 1989 This document contains a literature review and annotated bibliography on family support services in Australia and overseas Literature relating to services for families with dependent adolescent children as well as young children is included The review and bibliography concentrate primarily on community based services defined in the literature as family support services to families with children The review focuses on the following issues 1 definition of family support services 2 aims and objectives of family support programs 3 trends in the development and delivery of family support services in Australia and overseas 4 model programs aimed at maintaining family unity providing specialist and intensive input to families with specific difficulties and preparing families for reintegration of members who have been in alternative forms of care 5 evaluation of family support services and 6 policy implications The review and bibliography show that family support services are multifaceted difficult to define and even more difficult to evaluate in terms of their effectiveness The bibliography contains some Australian and European sources but the majority of references are American The 123 citations are arranged alphabetically by author A list of 96 references and a set of indexes arranged by country source subject and program names are included NB Children and Youth in Limbo

Nadia E. Finkelstein, 1991-09-30 The American family structure is complicated and only becoming more so as time goes on Finkelstein attributes this complexity with its accompanying value confusions and inconsistencies to the voluntary and involuntary uprooted migrant immigrant multiethnic and multicultural origins of the country itself As people of different cultures intermarry the complexities surrounding communications and expectations increase dramatically with each ensuing generation These changes coupled with the pressures of a rapidly changing world place the American family and therefore American children in jeopardy This unique volume does not just examine the troubles that American families face or demand that changes be made Finkelstein approaches family problems from a direct practice perspective and speaks to the implementation of needed services The author designs an array of family focused programs emphasizing wellness strengths and assets She calls on communities as well as individual agencies to organize themselves to create services from the ordinary such as housing day care education and family counseling to the very special which includes outreach preventive services for families in trouble family foster care adoption and a variety of residential options for youths with severe problems Finkelstein stresses that these programs must be family centered they must be linked to past family connections and they must build connections into the future This work will offer students and scholars in social work child welfare and public policy a complete overview of the systemic difficulties of the American family as well as compatible and practical programs designed to meet current family needs Illinois-- It's 1993, Do We Know where Our Children Are?
