Risking Faith:

Risking Faith John Guest, 1993 Risking Truth Scott A. Ellington, 2008-09-01 Ours is a world characterized by change. Often the most fundamental changes in our lives result from experiences of profound suffering and loss as we are wrenched from our familiar world and driven into one that is alien. In the midst of such loss we are compelled to choose between trying to cling to the remnants of a reality that is passing away and trying to make a home in a strange new world. Biblical prayers of lament wait for us at this crossroad of loss and newness. Prayers of lament are marked both by loss and by the inexplicable silence of God. Everything we believe about God's justice and goodness is placed in doubt by his hiddenness. The cry of lament is an act of tremendous risk. To lament is to abandon the sinking ship of religious certainty and strike out in a small dingy amidst stormy seas in search of a hidden God. Faced with God's silence the biblical writers are willing to place at risk their most fundamental beliefs and to lament. The Psalm writers risk the loss of the Exodus story by crying out to a God who has failed to save, demanding that he once more part the chaotic waters and make a way in the desert. Job risks the loss of a moral God by confronting God with his injustice. Jeremiah risks the loss of the covenant by calling out for God to return yet again to a faithless partner and a failed marriage. Matthew and John the Revelator recognize that the coming of Messiah is impelled by the cries of innocent sufferers. Throughout the Bible lament risks the possible loss of relationship with God and presses for a new though uncertain experience of God's presence.

Risking Intimacy Nancy Groom, 2000-05-01 The longing for relational intimacy is met by yielding first to the Lord who provides the grace from which genuine oneness with others can flow.

Faith: Security and Risk Richard W. Kropf, 2003-06-20 Is faith a search for security? Is faith the reason for taking risks? The answer to these questions will ultimately determine the quality of our faith, whether it will be a faith that flourishes and grows or a faith that is stunted and limited. Author Richard Kropf analyzes these faith choices with a unique approach. He combines the psycho-dynamics of Viktor Frankl, the faith analysis of Avery Dulles and the faith stages researched by James Fowler to provide a provocative foundation for understanding our spiritual life. Kropf then takes us through each faith level and highlights the challenges and pitfalls along the way. He covers the broad range of topics from compulsive religious behavior, fundamentalism and various enthusiasms to adolescent and mid-life crises of faith and the risks of trying to achieve sainthood. Faith: Security and Risk is ideal for pastors, spiritual directors and professional counselors and is particularly designed to complement spiritual workshops and retreats. Each chapter ends with a series of questions that provide excellent stimulus for small group discussion as well as personal reflection. This book has also proved most helpful for college professors as an excellent text for their students seeking to understand their own faith struggles.
