Printing and Painting the News in Victorian London Andrea Korda,2017-07-05

Printing and Painting the News in Victorian London offers a fresh perspective on Social Realism by contextualizing it within the burgeoning new media environment of Victorian London. Paintings labelled as Social Realist by Luke Fildes, Frank Holl and Hubert Herkomer are frequently considered to typify the sentimental Victorian genre painting that quickly became outdated with the development of modernism. Yet this book argues that the paintings must be considered as the result of the new experiences of modernity: the urban poverty that the paintings represent and most importantly the advent of the mass-produced illustrated news. Fildes, Holl and Herkomer worked for The Graphic, a publication launched in 1869 as a rival to the dominant Illustrated London News. The artists' illustrations, which featured the growing problem of urban poverty, became the basis for large-scale paintings that provoked controversy among their contemporaries and later became known as Social Realism. This first in-depth study of The Graphic and Social Realism uses the approach of media archaeology to unearth the modernity of these works, showing that they engaged with the changing notions of objectivity and immediacy that nineteenth-century new media cultivated. In doing so, this book proposes an alternative trajectory for the development of modernism that allows for a richer understanding of nineteenth-century visual culture. Edward Ruscha: 1983-1987 Edward Ruscha, 2003

The British Jesus, 1850-1970 Meredith Veldman, 2022-04-05 The British Jesus focuses on the Jesus of the religious culture dominant in Britain from the 1850s through the 1950s: the popular Christian culture shared by not only church, kirk and chapelgoers but also the growing numbers of Britons who rarely or only episodically entered a house of worship. An essay in intellectual as well as cultural history, this book illuminates the interplay between and among British New Testament scholarship, institutional Christianity and the wider Protestant culture. The scholars who mapped and led the uniquely British quest for the historical Jesus in the first half of the twentieth century were active participants in efforts to replace the popular image of Jesus in a white nightie with a stronger figure and so they hoped to preserve Britain's Christian identity. They failed. By exploring that failure and more broadly by examining the relations and exchanges between popular artistic and scholarly portrayals of Jesus, this book highlights the continuity and the conservatism of Britain's popular Christianity through a century of religious and cultural transformation. Exploring depictions of Jesus from over more than one hundred years, this book is a crucial resource for scholars of British Christianity in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. A Concise History of the Middle East Ibrahim Al-Marashi, Arthur Goldschmidt Jr., 2018-09-03 A Concise History of the Middle East provides a comprehensive introduction to the history of this turbulent region. Spanning from pre-Islam to the present day, it explores the evolution of Islamic institutions and culture, the influence of the West, modernization efforts in the Middle East, the struggle of various peoples for political independence, the Arab-Israel conflict, the reassertion of Islamic values and power, the issues surrounding the Palestinian Question and the Middle East post 9/11 and post-Arab uprisings. The twelfth edition has been fully revised to reflect the most recent events in and concerns of the region, including the presence of ISIS and other non-state actors, the civil wars in Syria and Yemen and the refugee crisis. New parts and part timelines will help students grasp and contextualize the long and complicated history of the region With updated biographical sketches and glossary and a new concluding chapter this book remains the quintessential text for students of Middle East history
