Sbs Culture And Identity:

Australian Television Culture Tom O'Regan, 2020-07-24 Australian television has been transformed over the past decade. Cross media ownership and audience reach regulations redrew the map and business culture of television leading business entrepreneurs to acquire television stations and then sell them in the bust of the late 1980s and new television services were developed for non English speaking and Aboriginal viewers. Australian Television Culture is the first book to offer a comprehensive analysis of the fundamental changes of this period. It is also the first to offer a substantial treatment of the significance of multiculturalism and Aboriginal initiatives in television. Tracing the links between local, regional, national and international television services, Tom O'Regan builds a picture of Australian television. He argues that we are not just an outpost of the US networks and that we have a distinct television culture of our own. A truly innovative book. The author ambitiously strives for a large scale synthesis of policy, program analysis, history, politics, international influences and the Australian television system's place in the world. Associate Professor Stuart Cunningham, Queensland University of Technology. 'For those who've come across the seas...' Andrew Jakubowicz, Christina Ho, 2014-02-15

Reinventing Public Service Communication P. Iosifidis, 2015-12-26 These essays address one of the most challenging debates in contemporary European media studies: the transition of the traditional Public Service Broadcasters into Public Service Media as they widen their remit to produce and distribute public service content across more delivery platforms to meet the requirements of the digital age

Global Perspectives on the Politics of Multiculturalism in the 21st Century Fethi Mansouri, Boulou Ebanda de B'éri, 2014-06-05 Multiculturalism is now seen by many of its critics as the source of intercultural and social tensions, fostering communal segregation and social conflicts. While the cultural diversity of contemporary societies has to be acknowledged as an empirical and demographic fact, whether multiculturalism as a policy offers an optimal conduit for intercultural understanding and social harmony has become increasingly a matter of polarised public debate. This book examines the contested philosophical foundations of multiculturalism and its often controversial applications in the context of migrant societies. It also explores the current theoretical debates about the extent to which multiculturalism and related conceptual constructs can account for the various ethical challenges and policy dilemmas surrounding the management of cultural diversity in our contemporary societies. The authors consider common conceptual and empirical features from a transnational perspective through analysis of the case studies of Australia, Canada, Columbia, Germany, New Zealand, the United Kingdom and Uruguay. This book will be of interest to students and scholars of political science comparative politics international studies multiculturalism migration and political sociology

Between Care and Criminality Helena Zewer, 2023-12-15 Between Care and Criminality examines social welfare's encounter with migration and marriage in a period of intensified border control in Melbourne Australia. It offers an in-depth ethnographic account of the effort to prevent forced marriage in the aftermath of a 2013 law that criminalized the practice. Disproportionately targeted toward Muslim migrant communities, prevention efforts were tasked with making the family relations and marital practices of migrants objects of policy knowledge in the name of care and community empowerment. Through tracing the everyday ways that direct service providers, police, and advocates learned to identify imminent marriages and at-risk individuals, this book reveals how the domain of social welfare becomes the new frontier where the settler colonial state judges good citizenship. In doing so, it invites social welfare to reflect on how migrant conceptions of familial care, personhood, and mutual obligation become structured by the violence of displacement, borders, and conditional citizenship.

Understanding the Eurovision Song Contest in Multicultural Australia Jessica Carniel, 2018-11-02 This book presents the first in-depth study of the Eurovision Song Contest from an Australian perspective. Using a cultural studies approach, the study draws together fan interviews and surveys with media and textual analysis of the contest itself. In doing so, it begins to answer the question of why the European song contest appeals to viewers in Australia. It explores and challenges the dominant narrative that links Eurovision fandom to post-WWII European migration, arguing that this Eurocentric narrative presents a limited view of how contemporary Australian multicultural society operates in the context of globalized culture. It concludes with a consideration of the future of the Eurovision Song Contest as Australia enters into the Asian century.

The Postcolonial City and Its Subjects Rashmi Varma, 2011-08-05 This book considers twentieth and twenty-first century literary and cultural formations of the postcolonial city and the constitution of new subjects within it. Varma offers a reading of both historical and contemporary debates on urbanism through the filter of postcolonial fictions and the cultural fields surrounding and containing them. In particular, she presents a representational history of London, Nairobi, and Bombay in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries and engages three key theoretical frameworks: the city within postcolonial theory and culture, its troubled salience in the construction of postcolonial public spheres and identities, from local, rural, ethnic, tribal, and regional to national, cosmopolitan, and transnational subjects and spaces. Postcolonial fictions as constituting a new world literary space and as a site of the articulation of contending narratives of urban space, global culture, and postcolonial development and postcolonial feminist citizenship as a universal political project challenging current neo-liberal and post-neo-liberal contractions and eviscerations.

of public spaces and rights      Our Voices Bindi Bennett, Sue Green, 2019-02-13 The second edition of Our Voices is a ground breaking collection of writings from Aboriginal social work educators who have collaborated to develop a toolkit of appropriate behaviours interactions networks and intervention The text explores a range of current and emerging social work practice issues such as cultural supervision working with communities understanding trauma collaboration and relationship building and the ubiquity of whiteness in Australian social work It covers these issues with new and innovative approaches and provides valuable insights into how social work practice can be developed taught and practiced in ways that more effectively engage Indigenous communities      Language, Nation and Development in Southeast Asia Lee Hock Guan, 2003-08-01 Language policies in Southeast Asia have been shaped by the process of nation building on the one hand and by political and economic considerations on the other The early years of nation building in Southeast Asia generated intensive language conflicts precisely because state policies privileged the idea of a monolingual nation and thus endeavoured to co opt or even do away with troublesome ethnic identities In recent years language policies are increasingly influenced by pragmatic considerations especially globalization and the awareness of a linkage between language and economic development such that Southeast Asian states in varying degrees have become less insistent on promoting monolingual nationalism This book evaluates the successes and drawbacks of language policies in Indonesia Malaysia Singapore the Philippines Thailand Vietnam and Myanmar especially the ways in which these policies have often been resisted or contested It is an invaluable primer on this linguistically complex region and a resource for scholars policy makers civil society activists and NGOs in various parts of the world facing equally challenging ethnic language issues      The Oxford Handbook of Language Contact Anthony P. Grant, 2020-01-10 Every language has been influenced in some way by other languages In many cases this influence is reflected in words which have been absorbed from other languages as the names for newer items or ideas such as perestroika manga or intifada from Russian Japanese and Arabic respectively In other cases the influence of other languages goes deeper and includes the addition of new sounds grammatical forms and idioms to the pre existing language For example English s structure has been shaped in such a way by the effects of Norse French Latin and Celtic though English is not alone in its openness to these influences Any features can potentially be transferred from one language to another if the sociolinguistic and structural circumstances allow for it Further new languages pidgins creoles and mixed languages can come into being as the result of language contact In thirty three chapters The Oxford Handbook of Language Contact examines the various forms of contact induced linguistic change and the levels of language which have provided instances of these influences In addition it provides accounts of how language contact has affected some twenty languages spoken and signed from all parts of the world Chapters are written by experts and native speakers from years of research and fieldwork Ultimately this Handbook provides an authoritative account of the possibilities and products of contact induced linguistic change      Encyclopedia of the Documentary Film 3-Volume Set Ian
