Nature, Cognition and System II M.E. Carvallo, 2012-10-08 is both a player and a spectator is explained here illuminatingly With regard to logical ambiguities and paradoxes which may show up in all these topics he like Locker is of the opinion that philosophically speaking all apory of a lower level have to be accepted an a higher level of thinking After the above expositions of a more general purport we turn now to two contributions which are particularly focused on Bohr s concept of complementarity First is the article of Hilgevoord who briefly and non technically describes a short curriculum vitae of the concept beginning with Planck through Bohr to Heisenberg and Schrodinger Included in this short story of course is the famous wave particle duality and the paradox inherent in it many physicists are still saddled with How this paradox was solved is explained here simply and clearly first generally by quantum mechanics where the disturbance theory of measurement was supposed to be of some relevance and secondly where this theory is further refmed leading to Bohr s conclusion of the essential unsolvability and accordingly the completeness of the statistical element of quantum mechanics The reading of this short article may arouse questions and surmises whether complementarity has been ruminated by Bohr to tame the law of excluded middle dividing the well defined content of position measurement from that of momentum measurement just to mention one Whatever it may be the idea of complementarity betrays the perplexity of the observing system in dealing with nature s complexity

Nature, Cognition and System I M.E. Carvallo, 2012-12-06 usually called the classical scientific attitude according to which there is a dichotomy between nature and cognition and suggestions for better understanding of their mutual encroach ment The authors belong more or less to the non standard systems science the third order cybernetics or find themselves already beyond the third stage in the history of artificial intelli 1 gence They take the inescapability of the mutual implication of the description of nature and that of cognition seriously Fourth ly closely linking up with the previous it emphatically calls attention to the forgotten microscopic dimension of science If I am not mistaken we have at this moment reached the historic stage where the tremendous renascence of the mechanistic structural paradigm remarkably enough calls for its functional dynamic counterparts The volume strives to respond to this secret trend in various disciplines and to put into words that which is tacitly alive in the minds of the ever increasing number of people in this systemsage The investigation on the intertwinement of nature and cognition finds itself in this very paradoxical niche structured by those two opposite developments

Nature, Cognition and System II M.E. Carvallo, 2013-03-07 is both a player and a spectator is explained here illuminatingly With regard to logical ambiguities and paradoxes which may show up in all these topics he like Locker is of the opinion that philosophically speaking all apory of a lower level have to be accepted an a higher level of thinking After the above expositions of a more general purport we turn now to two contributions which are particularly focused on Bohr s concept of complementarity First is the article of Hilgevoord who briefly and non technically describes a short curriculum vitae of the concept beginning with Planck through Bohr to Heisenberg and

Schrodinger Included in this short story of course is the famous wave particle duality and the paradox inherent in it many physicists are still saddled with How this paradox was solved is explained here simply and clearly first generally by quantum mechanics where the disturbance theory of measurement was supposed to be of some relevance and secondly where this theory is further refined leading to Bohr's conclusion of the essential unsolvability and accordingly the completeness of the statistical element of quantum mechanics The reading of this short article may arouse questions and surmises whether complementarity has been ruminated by Bohr to tame the law of excluded middle dividing the well defined content of position measurement from that of momentum measurement just to mention one Whatever it may be the idea of complementarity betrays the perplexity of the observing system in dealing with nature's complexity Nature, Cognition and System II M.E. Carvallo,1988-07-31 Nature, cognition and systems Marc E. Carvallo,George J. Klir,1988 Cybernetics and Applied Systems Constantin Virgil Negoita,2018-10-08 In light of the enormous interest in building intelligent systems this volume blends theory applications and methodology of cybernetics taking it out of the realm of the abstract and explaining how cybernetics can contribute to an improved understanding of intelligence Among the topics of the 17 The Nature and Function of Intuitive Thought and Decision Making Lauri Järvillehto,2015-05-09 This book focuses on the very nature and function of intuitive thought It presents an up to date scientific model on how the non conscious and intuitive thought processes work in human beings The model is based on mainstream theorizing on intuition as well as qualitative meta analysis of the empirical data available in the research literature It combines recent work in the fields of philosophy of mind cognitive psychology and positive psychology While systematic research in intuition is relatively new there is an abundance of positions advocating more or less imaginative ideas of what intuition is about ranging from quantum mechanical phenomena to new age ideologies Research in the past few decades in particular by proponents of the dual processing theory of thought such as Daniel Kahneman and Jonathan Evans offers powerful tools to address and evaluate the question of intuition without the need to resort to spiritual entities Within the framework of the dual processing theory backed up by findings in positive psychology intuition turns out to be the capacity to carry out complex cognitive operations within a specific domain of operations familiar to the agent

Nature, Metaphor, Culture Judit Baranyiné Kóczy, 2017-11-03 This book analyses the emotional message of Hungarian folksongs from a Cultural Linguistic perspective employing a wide range of empirical devices It combines theoretical notions with analytical devices and has a multidisciplinary essence it relies on the latest Cultural Linguistic findings employing spatial semantics cognitive linguistics cognitive psychology and ethnography The book addresses key questions including How is nature conceptualized by a folk cultural group How are emotions and other mental states expressed via nature imagery with respect to metaphors and construal schemas The author argues that folksongs reflect the Hungarian peasant communities specific treatment of emotions captured in an underlying cultural schema reservedness This schema is grounded in principals of morality and tradition and governs the various levels of representation The main topics discussed are related to two core issues cultural metaphors and cultural schemas of construal in folksongs It provides a detailed example based on over 1000 folksongs of how a cultural group's cognition can be analyzed and better understood through a representative corpus based linguistic approach The research is also pioneering in constructing a comprehensive analysis framework adapted to folk poetry and offers an example of how cultural conceptualizations can be investigated in various discourse types Last but not least the book offers insights into the work of Hungarian linguists and folklorists concerning cultural conceptualizations which have largely been unavailable in English

Evolutionary Systems G. Vijver, Stanley N. Salthe, M. Delpo, 2013-04-17 The three well known revolutions of the past centuries the Copernican the Darwinian and the Freudian each in their own way had a deflating and mechanizing effect on the position of humans in nature They opened up a richness of disillusion earth acquired a more modest place in the universe the human body and mind became products of a long material evolutionary history and human reason instead of being the central immaterial locus of understanding was admitted into the theater of discourse only as a materialized and frequently out of control actor Is there something objectionable to this picture Formulated as such probably not Why should we resist the idea that we are in certain ways and to some degree physically biologically or psychically determined Why refuse to acknowledge the fact that we are materially situated in an ever evolving world Why deny that the ways of inscription traces of past events and processes are co determinative of further evolutionary pathways Why minimize the idea that each intervention of each natural being is temporally and materially situated and has as such the inevitable consequence of changing the world The point is however that there are many more or less radically different ways to consider the mechanization of man and nature There are in particular many ways to get the message of material and evolutionary determination as well as many levels at which this determination can be thought of as relevant or irrelevant
