Science, Race, and Religion in the American South Lester D. Stephens, 2003-07-11 In the decades before the Civil War Charleston South Carolina enjoyed recognition as the center of scientific activity in the South By 1850 only three other cities in the United States Philadelphia Boston and New York exceeded Charleston in natural history studies and the city boasted an excellent museum of natural history Examining the scientific activities and contributions of John Bachman Edmund Ravenel John Edwards Holbrook Lewis R Gibbes Francis S Holmes and John McCrady Lester Stephens uncovers the important achievements of Charleston s circle of naturalists in a region that has conventionally been dismissed as largely devoid of scientific interests Stephens devotes particular attention to the special problems faced by the Charleston naturalists and to the ways in which their religious and racial beliefs interacted with and shaped their scientific pursuits In the end he shows cultural commitments proved stronger than scientific principles When the South seceded from the Union in 1861 the members of the Charleston circle placed regional patriotism above science and union and supported the Confederate cause The ensuing war had a devastating impact on the Charleston naturalists and on science in the South The convention on priority a ruling that gives origination of any science theory to the first to publish Matthew has been illicitly denied his priority on the grounds he never influenced anyone with his breakthrough Today Big Data research has uncovered Darwin's science fraud by plagiarism revealing evidence which proves beyond all reasonable doubt that he and Alfred Wallace both independently plagiarised the theory of evolution by natural selection from Patrick Matthew Books have been newly unearthed in the publication record to show that at least 30 people cited Matthew's work in published literature before 1858 and that several were known influencers of Darwin's and Wallace's work in the field Additionally several people in Darwin's and Wallace's social circles were first to be second into print using original terms coined by Matthew in his bombshell breakthrough book This book reveals all the newly unearthed data and essentially explains it alongside the deplorable treatment of Patrick Matthew in scholarly historical context Dr Mike Sutton further reveals using social science participatory observation methods and experimental results how members of the so called Darwin Industry enabled and facilitated by the deliberate publication of falsehoods and other grossly misleading editing on Wikipedia have disgracefully worked to re bury these newly unearthed facts by means of knee jerk blind sight ignorant rejection blatant and deliberate fact denial censorship persistent and serious workplace harassment obscene social media abuse poison pen emails lies mischievous misrepresentation and repeat research plagiarism

Charleston circle never fully recovered from the blow and a century would elapse before the South took an equal role in the pursuit of mainstream scientific research
