The Oddball Gypsy Raconteur Jennifer Mason, 2005-05 The gentleman who used to write all those columns for the Chronicle he called Stafford a two bit tourist trinket trail transplanted from Canton That s good enough You ll find it In the middle of the block a narrow gap separates a pawnshop known as the Electric Voice House from Low s Import Export Emporium In the space between hidden by a corrugated screen a cast iron circular staircase takes you down two full turns to a passageway that leads back twenty paces to the edge of a deep drop to an alley running parallel to Stafford The alley fronts the service entrances to restaurants on Weaver Place the next block over from Stafford Functionally the alley is a dump for the apartments stacked five high over the street level businesses on Weaver Somewhere in the chasm there is always the misery of a plate scraped or a bucket thumped laundry lines squeaking and the vaporized aroma of cooling fat A thousand radios come out and roost in window ledges in the summer The view of all this is free The arched door to your left is the English Department On the other side you tell me what you want to pay for I am the owner I live in back I could describe myself as a professional dominatrix or shorten that to pro dom or add a few letters pro homme or drop the hyphen prodom or graduate a notch to a European designation la maitresse or die domina or go flat American affect with a straight businesslike punctuation management consultant but what s important is I may be able to help you If you are tall dark and handsome with a trust fund and a yen for canings and a polite intelligent mode of expressing this yen you might still have some troubles The women in your life think they can fix your quirk and you can count on it your quirk is fun to talk about It is going to get discussed at the office At the English Department you receive the professional s touch Your secret stays in this room and we do it your way She was in tight faded jeans a Western long sleeved shirt tucked in hard with a cowboy belt The outfit looked like an effort at some virtual disguise The shirt bore the vertical creases from the box like it was bought on the way over She was around forty and African American a light to medium black and habituated to what would be an embarrassing gesture if she knew anyone was watching Three times she unbuckled her belt got the flaps of her pants open smoothed the edges of the shirt down to her crotch and resealed the package It s as stylized and as prim and proper as that kind of thing can be done in public or in private and when it was finished I wasn t sure I d noticed anything different in kind than if she had bent over to tie her shoe But twice and then a third time I caught the faint nervous anguish that accompanied the gesture a sense of futility that she d never get the technique down perfect I don t know if it s love or what Love is in there somewhere or you wouldn t have asked about my husband You re not Mrs Clement or you would ve had the nurse sealed up and hauled off as a ton of medical waste You re maybe dreaming about it You seem to be mixed up Either you work for Clement or you don t You don t seem to know You have a son who needs a father The professor Love There s a twelve step program for it Get a sponsor Go to meetings Take it day by day Minute by minute some days Get your life back Then you don t have to slum around with money strapped to your arm in a dump like this I clapped my hands but only once and let my breath out in a slow sad signal the answer was still no And that s final Never in a million years I was ready for sparks or drops of blood to break out on her eyebrows but she hardened as if to stiffen her muscles but she didn t use them to get violent I was ready for that too Plus tears But that wasn t in her reper
