Creation and Composition Jeffrey L. Rubenstein, 2005 The contributors to this book analyze how the redactors of the Talmud transformed and reworked earlier aggadic non legal traditions Critical study of the Babylonian Talmud is founded on the distinction between two literary strata traditions attributed to named sages the Amoraim c 200 450 CE and setam hatalmud the unattributed or anonymous material The conclusion of modern scholars is that the anonymous stratum postdates the Amoraic stratum and should be attributed to the Talmudic redactors also known as Stammaim c 450 700 CE The contribution of the Stammaim to the aggadic non legal portions of the Talmud to midrash narratives ethics and theology has received minimal scholarly attention The articles in this book demonstrate that the Stammaim made a profound contribution to the aggadic portions of the Babylonian Talmud and illustrate the processes by which they created and composed many aggadic traditions

Anti-Judaism and Christian Orthodoxy Christine Shepardson, 2008 A critical reading of Ephrem's numerous poetic writings demonstrates that his sharp anti Jewish and anti Judaizing language helped to solidify a pro Nicene definition of Christian orthodoxy cutting off from that community in the very act of defining it his so called Judaizing and Arian Christian opponents both of whom he accused of being more like Jews than Christians Through carefully crafted rhetoric Ephrem constructed for his audience new social and theological parameters that reshaped the religious landscape of his community

Judaism and Christianity Alan Jeffery Avery-Peck, Jacob Neusner, 2009 This volume treats the interrelationship between Judaism and Christianity from the first centuries and into modern times paying particular attention to these faiths' social cultural and theological interactions The issues covered range from the formation of Jewish and Christian ideology in the context of Roman paganism to the ways in which Christian culture and theology of the medieval and modern periods form a backdrop to the creation of Jewish identity While the historical periods and issues discussed are diverse the result is to suggest the importance of our recognizing the close development of Judaism and Christianity Written by top scholars in Judaic and Christian studies these essays reflect on how the two faiths related to and were shaped by each other as they evolved in shared historical and cultural contexts even as each maintained its own distinctive ideologies and beliefs

Peters, 2018-05-22 F E Peters a scholar without peer in the comparative study of Judaism Christianity and Islam revisits his pioneering work Peters has rethought and thoroughly rewritten his classic The Children of Abraham for a new generation of readers at a time when the understanding of these three religious traditions has taken on a new and critical urgency He began writing about all three faiths in the 1970s long before it was fashionable to treat Islam in the context of Judaism and Christianity or to align all three for a family portrait In this updated edition he lays out the similarities and differences of the three religious siblings with great clarity and succinctness and with that same remarkable objectivity that is the hallmark of all the author's work Peters traces the three faiths from the sixth century B C when the Jews returned to Palestine from exile in Babylonia to the time in the Middle Ages when they approached their present form He points out that all three faith groups whom the Muslims themselves refer to as People of the Book share much common ground Most notably each embraces the practice of worshipping a God who intervenes in history on behalf of His people The book's text is direct and accessible with thorough and nuanced discussions of each of the three religions Footnotes provide the reader with expert guidance into the highly complex issues that lie between every line of this stunning edition of The
