Syriac Perspectives on Late Antiquity Sebastian P. Brock, 1984

Missionary Stories and the Formation of the Syriac Churches Jeanne-Nicole Mellon Saint-Laurent, 2015-06-19 Missionary Stories and the Formation of the Syriac Churches analyzes the hagiographic traditions of seven missionary saints in the Syriac heritage during late antiquity Thomas Addai Mari John of Ephesus Simeon of Beth Arsham Jacob Baradaeus and Ahudemme Jeanne Nicole Mellon Saint Laurent studies a body of legends about the missionaries voyages in the Syrian Orient to illustrate their shared symbols and motifs Revealing how these texts encapsulated the concerns of the communities that produced them she draws attention to the role of hagiography as a malleable genre that was well suited for the idealized presentation of the beginnings of Christian communities Hagiographers through their reworking of missionary themes asserted autonomy orthodoxy and apostolicity for their individual civic and monastic communities positioning themselves in relationship to the rulers of their empires and to competing forms of Christianity Saint Laurent argues that missionary hagiography is an important and neglected source for understanding the development of the East and West Syriac ecclesiastical bodies the Syrian Orthodox Church and the Church of the East Given that many of these Syriac speaking churches remain today in the Middle East and India with diaspora communities in Europe and North America this work opens the door for further study of the role of saints and stories as symbolic links between ancient and modern traditions

History and Religion in Late Antique Syria H. J. W. Drijvers, Hendrik Jan Willem Drijvers, 1994 These studies deal with the complex and variegated phenomenon of Syriac Christianity as a cultural system in and through which the many religious communities in Late Antiquity in the Syriac East identified themselves and came to terms with other religions and changing historical situations

A Memory of Violence Christine Shepardson, 2025

A Memory of Violence traces the rhetorical strategies of religious radicalization that encouraged fifth and sixth century miaphysite Christians to be willing to suffer physical deprivation and harm rather than abandon the church that the late Roman Empire defined as heresy after the Council of Chalcedon in 451 These Syriac texts created genealogies of orthodoxy and heresy represented their heroes as martyr saints and reminded their followers of God's coming judgment. Later they gained renewed relevance when they were copied and translated under the emerging Umayyad caliphate of Islam. This book reshapes representations of late antiquity by centering Syriac Christianity in these complex and politicized doctrinal conflicts. Tracing these rhetorical strategies not only sheds light on early Christian history in the Middle East but also provides a rich case study of religious schism, devotion and survival that continues to resonate today. Syrian Christians under Islam, the First Thousand Years David Thomas, 2021-12-28. This volume contains papers from the Third Woodbrooke Mingana Symposium on Arab Christianity and Islam, September 1998, on the theme of Arab Christianity in Bilad al-Sham (Greater Syria) in the pre-Ottoman period. It presents aspects of Syrian Christian life and thought during the first millennium of Islamic rule. Among the eight contributing scholars are Sidney Griffith on ninth-century Christological controversies, Samir K. Samir on the Prophet Muhammad seen through Arab Christian eyes, Lawrence Conrad on the physician Ibn Butlun and Lucy Anne Hunt on Muslim influence on Christian book illustrations. There is also a foreword by the Syrian Orthodox Archbishop of Aleppo. The picture that emerges is of community life developing in its own way and finding a distinctive character as Christians responded to the social and intellectual influences of Islam.

From Ephrem to Romanos Sebastian P. Brock, 1999. It is often forgotten that many people in Late Antique Syria were bilingual in Syriac and Greek. The 16 articles in this volume explore different aspects of the interaction between these two literary cultures exemplified in the works of two of the greatest Christian poets and hymnographers of the period: Ephrem the Syrian and Romanos the Melode. Among the topics covered are the legend of King Abgar and the origins of Christianity in Edessa; Syriac texts on the finding of the Cross; translations from Syriac into Greek and Greek into Syriac with specific studies on the Aristotle commentary tradition and Hunayn's translation of Hippocrates' Aphorisms. The volume concludes with the case of a distinctive topos employed by Greek and Latin scribes but whose earliest and latest attestations are to be found in colophons of Syriac manuscripts.

Studies in Syriac Christianity Sebastian P. Brock, 1992. The main concern of these articles is the interaction of Syriac with Greek culture in Late Antiquity. The book includes an examination of the process of translation from Greek into Syriac; studies of a number of unusual Greek texts in Syriac and inter-church relations in the 5th-7th centuries.
