A Short History of the American People: The development of American nationality, by C.R. Fish ,1919      Corporate History and the Chemical Industries Jeffrey Louis Sturchio,1985 Three essays on the historiography of the chemical process industries on business archives and on oral history in the corporate setting provide the context for extensive annotated bibliographies in the three areas      The Fall of the Roman Republic: a Short History of the Last Century of the Commonwealth Charles Merivale (Dean of Ely.),1853      Building the Worlds That Kill Us David Rosner,Gerald Markowitz,2024-11-05 Across American history the question of whose lives are long and healthy and whose lives are short and sick has always been shaped by the social and economic order From the dispossession of Indigenous people and the horrors of slavery to infectious diseases spreading in overcrowded tenements and the vast environmental contamination caused by industrialization and through climate change and pandemics in the twenty first century those in power have left others behind Through the lens of death and disease Building the Worlds That Kill Us provides a new way of understanding the history of the United States from the colonial era to the present David Rosner and Gerald Markowitz demonstrate that the changing rates and kinds of illnesses reflect social political and economic structures and inequalities of race class and gender These deep inequities determine the disparate health experiences of rich and poor Black and white men and women immigrant and native born boss and worker Indigenous and settler This book underscores that powerful people and institutions have always seen some lives as more valuable than others and it emphasizes how those who have been most affected by the disparities in rates of disease and death have challenged and changed these systems Ultimately this history shows that unequal outcomes are a choice and we can instead collectively make decisions that foster life and health      The Social and Cultural Construction of Risk B.B. Johnson,V.T. Covello,2012-12-06 The Social and Cultural Construction of Risk Issues Methods and Case Studies Vincent T Covello and Branden B Johnson Risks to health safety and the environment abound in the world and people cope as best they can But before action can be taken to control reduce or eliminate these risks decisions must be made about which risks are important and which risks can safely be ignored The challenge for decision makers is that consensus on these matters is often lacking Risks believed by some individuals and groups to be tolerable or accept able such as the risks of nuclear power or industrial pollutants are intolerable and unacceptable to others This book addresses this issue by exploring how particular technological risks come to be selected for societal attention and action Each section of the volume examines from a different perspective how individuals groups communities and societies decide what is risky how risky it is and what should be done The writing of this book was inspired by another book Risk and Culture An Essay on the Selection of Technological and Environmental Dangers Published in 1982 and written by two distinguished scholars Mary Douglas a British social anthropologist and Aaron Wildavsky an American political scientist the book received wide critical attention and offered several provocative ideas on the nature of risk selection perception and

Cowie,Joseph Heathcott,2003 The immediate impact of deindustrialization the suffering inflicted upon workers their families and their communities has been widely reported by scholars and journalists In this important volume the authors seek to move discussion of America s industrial decline beyond the immediate ramifications of plant shutdowns by placing it into a broader social political and economic context Emphasizing a historical approach the authors explore the multiple meanings of one of the major transformations of the twentieth century The concept of deindustrialization entered the popular and scholarly lexicon in 1982 with the publication of The Deindustrialization of America by Barry Bluestone and Bennett Harrison Beyond the Ruins both builds upon and departs from the insights presented in that benchmark study In this volume the authors rethink the chronology memory geography culture and politics of industrial change in America Taken together these original essays argue that deindustrialization is not a story of a single emblematic place such as Flint or Youngstown or a specific time period such as the 1980s Nor is it limited to the abandoned factory buildings associated with heavy industry Rather deindustrialization is a complex process that is uneven in its causes timing and consequences The essays in this volume examine this process through a wide range of topics from worker narratives and media imagery to suburban politics

Of Bicycles, Bakelites, and Bulbs Wiebe E. Bijker, 1997-01-03. This book crystallizes and extends the important work Wiebe Bijker has done in the last decade to found a full scale theory of sociotechnical change that describes where technologies come from and how societies deal with them. Of Bicycles, Bakelites, and Bulbs integrates detailed case studies with theoretical generalizations and political analyses to offer a fully rounded treatment both of the relations between technology and society and of the issues involved in sociotechnical change. The stories of the safety bicycle, the first truly synthetic plastic and the fluorescent light bulb each a fascinating case study in itself reflect a cross section of time periods, engineering and scientific disciplines and economic, social and political cultures. The bicycle story explores such issues as the role of changing gender relationships in shaping a technology; the Bakelite story examines the ways in which social factors intrude even in cases of seemingly pure chemistry and entrepreneurship; and the fluorescent bulb story offers insights into the ways in which political and economic relationships can affect the form of a technology. Bijker's method is to use these case studies to suggest theoretical concepts that serve as building blocks in a more and more inclusive theory which is then tested against further case studies. His main concern is to create a basis for science, technology and social change that uncovers the social roots of technology making it amenable to democratic politics.
