century's most extravagant social experiments and what we have to learn from them not only what they ought to learn from us Caryl Emerson Princeton University Win or Else Larry E. Holmes, 2024-04-30 In Win or Else Larry E. Holmes shows us how Soviet football culture regularly disregarded official ideological and political imperatives and skirted the boundaries between socialism and capitalism In the early 1920s the Soviet press denounced football as a bourgeois sport that was injurious to both mind and body Within that same decade however it blew up becoming the most popular spectator sport in the USSR and growing into a fiercely competitive business with complex regional and national bureaucracies a strong international presence and a conviction that victory on the field was also a victory of Soviet supremacy Writing as both historian and fan Holmes focuses his study on the provincial Kirov team Dinamo from 1979 to 1985 when the club played at both its worst and its best Spurred by a dismal 1979 season the team's administrators and regional authorities had two options obey Moscow's edict to reduce expenditures on professional sports or seek out new and often illicit funding sources to fill out a team of champions Drawing on rich archival materials as well as newspapers and interviews with former players Win or Else reveals the foundations of Soviet sports culture and the hazards that teams faced both in victory and in loss seeks to demonstrate an entire range of what voices may do and how they are experienced

Musical Spaces James Williams, Samuel Horlor, 2021-11-29 There is growing recognition and understanding of music's fundamentally spatial natures with significances of space found both in the immediacy of musical practices and in connection to broader identities and ideas around music Whereas previous publications have looked at connections between music and space through singular lenses such as how they are linked to ethnic identities or how musical images of a city are constructed this book sets out to explore intersections between multiple scales and kinds of musical spaces It complements the investigation of broader power structures and place based identities by a detailed focus on the moments of music making and musical environments revealing the mutual shaping of these levels The book overcomes a Eurocentric focus on a typically narrow range of musics especially European and North American classical and popular forms with case studies on a diverse set of genres and global contexts inspiring a range of ethnographic text based historical and practice based approaches
