Siegfried Kracauer An Introduction:

Siegfried Kracauer Gertrud Koch,2000-03-27 Siegfried Kracauer has been misunderstood as a naïve realist appreciated as an astute critic of early German film and noticed as the interesting exile who exchanged letters with Erwin Panofsky But he is most widely thought of as the odd uncle of famed Frankfurt School critical theorists Jürgen Habermas Theodor Adorno Walter Benjamin and Max Horkheimer Recently however scholars have rediscovered in Kracauer's writings a philosopher sociologist and film theorist important beyond his associations and perhaps one of the most significant cultural critics of the twentieth century Gertrud Koch advances this Kracauer renaissance with the first ever critical assessment of his entire body of work Koch's analysis which is concise without sacrificing thoroughness or sophistication covers both Kracauer's best known publications e.g. From Caligari to Hitler in which he gleams the roots of National Socialism in the films of the Weimar Republic and previously underexamined texts including two newly discovered autobiographical novels Because Kracauer's wide ranging works emerge from no rigidly unified approach instead always remaining open to unusual and highly individual perspectives Koch resists the temptation to force generalization She does however identify recurring tropes in Kracauer's lifetime effort to perceive the basic posture and composition of particular cultures through their visual surfaces Koch also finds in Kracauer a surprisingly contemporary cultural commentator whose ideas speak directly to current discussions on film urban modernity feminism cultural representation violence and other themes This book was long awaited in Germany as well as widely and well reviewed Now translated into English for the first time it will fuel already growing interest in the United States where Kracauer lived and wrote from 1941 until his death in 1966 It will attract the attention of students and scholars working in Film Studies German Studies Comparative Literature Critical Theory Cultural Studies Philosophy and History

The City Cultures Reader Malcolm Miles,Tim Hall,Iain Borden,2004 Cities are products of culture and sites where culture is made By presenting the best of classic and contemporary writing on the culture of cities this reader provides an overview of the diverse material on the interface between cities and culture

Symons,2024-12-12 What happens when the world around us feels fragmented How can a person continue to respond positively to their environment when it seems to have lost its internal coherence These questions lie at the heart of this innovative interpretation of some of the most influential German philosophers of the twentieth century The key figures in this study are the young Georg Luk cs 1885 1971 Ernst J nger 1895 1998 Ernst Bloch 1885 1977 Theodor Adorno 1903 1969 Max Kommerell 1902 1944 and Siegfried Kracauer 1889 1966 By establishing an intellectual dialogue among these otherwise diverse thinkers this study identifies a common interest the question whether an unworldly fragmented universe can nonetheless elicit a creative response from individuals Together these authors offer an alternative to what is considered the dominant trend in twentieth century German philosophy the phenomenological emphasis on humans lived interactions with a shared and unified lifeworld Special attention is given to six distinct interpretations of Miguel de Cervantes s novel Don Quixote and the unworldly actions of its main character Unworldliness in Twentieth Century German Thought will appeal to researchers and advanced students interested in twentieth century continental philosophy German intellectual history critical theory and literature and philosophy Weimar Cinema, Embodiment, and Historicity Mason Kamana

Allred,2017-01-20 In its retrieval and re construction the past has become interwoven with the images and structure of cinema Not only have mass media especially film and television shaped the content of memories and histories but they have also shaped their very form Combining historicization with close readings of German director Ernst Lubitsch s historical films this book focuses on an early turning point in this development exploring how the medium of film shaped modern historical experience and understanding how it moved embodied audiences through moving images Modernity and the Construction of Sacred Space Aaron French,Katharina Waldner,2024-07-01 This volume focuses on the connection between modern design and architectural practices and the construction of sacred spaces Not only language and ritual but space place and architecture play a significant role in constructing special or religious spaces However this concept of a constructed sacred space remains undertheorized in religious studies and the history of art and architecture in general This volume therefore revisits the question of a modern sacred space from an interdisciplinary perspective focusing on religion space and architecture during the emergence of the modern period and up until contemporary times Revisiting the ways in which modern architects and artists have endeavored to create sacred spaces and buildings for the modern world will address the underlying questions of how religious ideas especially those related to esotericism and to alternative religiosities have transformed the way sacred spaces are conceptualized today Reframing the Past Mia E. M. Treacey,2016-02-26

Reframing the Past traces what historians have written about film and television from 1898 until the early 2000s. Mia Treacey argues that historical engagement with film and television should be reconceptualised as Screened History, an interdisciplinary international field of research to incorporate and replace what has been known as History and Film. It draws from the fields of Film, Television and Cultural Studies to critically analyse key works and connect past scholarship with contemporary research. Reconsidered as Screened History, the works of Pierre Sorlin, Marc Ferro, John O'Connor, Robert Rosenstone and Robert Toplin are explored alongside lesser-known but equally important contributions. This book identifies a number of common themes and ideas that have been explored by historians for decades: the use of history on film and television as a way to teach the past; the challenge of filmic and televisual history to more traditional historiography; and an ongoing battle to find an appropriate historical way to engage with Film Studies and Theory. Screened History offers an approach to exploring History, Film and Television that allows room for future developments while connecting them to a rich and diverse body of past scholarship. Combining a narrative of historical research on film and television over the past century with a reconceptualisation of the field as Screened History, Reframing the Past is essential reading both for established scholars of History and Film, Film History and other related disciplines, and to students new to the field. The Mathematical Imagination Matthew Handelman, 2019-03-05 This book offers an archeology of the undeveloped potential of mathematics for critical theory. As Max Horkheimer and Theodor W. Adorno first conceived of the critical project in the 1930s, critical theory steadfastly opposed the mathematization of thought. Mathematics flattened thought into a dangerous positivism that led reason to the barbarism of World War II. The Mathematical Imagination challenges this narrative, showing how for other German Jewish thinkers such as Gershom Scholem, Franz Rosenzweig and Siegfried Kracauer, mathematics offered metaphors to negotiate the crises of modernity during the Weimar Republic. Influential theories of poetry, messianism and cultural critique, Handelman shows, borrowed from the philosophy of mathematics: infinitesimal calculus and geometry in order to refashion cultural and aesthetic discourse. Drawn to the austerity and muteness of mathematics, these friends and forerunners of the Frankfurt School found in mathematical approaches to negativity strategies to capture the marginalized experiences and perspectives of Jews in Germany. Their vocabulary, in which theory could be both mathematical and critical, is missing from the intellectual history of critical theory, whether in the work of second-generation critical theorists such as Jürgen Habermas or in contemporary critiques of technology. The Mathematical Imagination shows how Scholem, Rosenzweig and Kracauer's engagement with mathematics uncovers a more capacious vision of the critical project, one with tools that can help us intervene in our digital and increasingly mathematical present. The Mathematical Imagination is available from the publisher on an open access basis. Jacques Offenbach and the Making of Modern Culture Laurence Senelick, 2017-09-21 Offenbach's operas were a significant force for cultural change both in his own time and in the decades to follow. In this book, Laurence Senelick demonstrates the ways in which this musical phenomenon took hold globally with Offenbach's work.

offering an alternative irreverent sexualized view of life which audiences found liberating both personally and socially In the theatre the composer also inspired cutting edge innovations in stagecraft and design and in this book he is recognized as a major cultural influence with an extensive impact on the spheres of literature art film and even politics Senelick argues that Offenbach's importance spread far beyond France and that his provocative and entertaining works often seen as being more style than substance influenced numerous key artists writers and thinkers and made a major contribution to the development of modern society

Siegfried Kracauer Graeme Gilloch, 2015-03-31 This major new book offers a much needed introduction to the work of Siegfried Kracauer one of the main intellectual figures in the orbit of the Frankfurt School of Critical Theory It is part of a timely revival and reappraisal of his unique contribution to our critical understanding of modernity the interrogation of mass culture and the recognition of both the dynamism and diminution of human experience in the hustle and bustle of the contemporary metropolis In stressing the extraordinary variety of Kracauer's writings from scholarly philosophical treatises to journalistic fragments from comic novels to classified reports and the dazzling diversity of his themes from science and urban architectural visions to slapstick and dancing girls this insightful book reveals his fundamental and formative influence upon Critical Theory and argues for his vital relevance for cultural analysis today Kracauer's work is distinguished by an acute sensitivity to the surface manifestations of popular culture and a witty eminently readable literary style In exploring and making accessible the work of this remarkable thinker this book will be indispensable for scholars and students working in many disciplines and interdisciplinary fields sociology and social theory film media and cultural studies urban studies cultural geography and architectural theory philosophy and Critical Theory

Exile, Science and Bildung D. Kettler, G. Lauer, 2016-09-23 The history of American universities is punctuated by shifts in the terms on which the mission of higher education is defined and debated A dramatic moment with lasting effects came with the introduction of German speaking exile intellectuals in the Hitler era In Germany the academic culture of the early twentieth century was torn by the struggle between Wissenschaft and Bildung two symbolic German terms whose lack of precise English equivalents is a sign of the different configuration in America The studies in this book examine the achievements of numerous influential migr intellectuals against the background of their mediation between the two cultural traditions in science and liberal studies In showing the richness of reciprocal influences the book challenges claims about the disruptive influence of exile culture on the American mind

Realist film theory and cinema Ian Aitken, 2019-01-04. Realist film theory and cinema embraces studies of cinematic realism and 19th century tradition, the realist film theories of Lukács, Grierson, Bazin and Kracauer and the relationship of realist film theory to the general field of film theory and philosophy. This is the first book to attempt a rigorous and systematic application of realist film theory to the analysis of particular films. The book suggests new ways forward for a new series of studies in cinematic realism and for a new form of film theory based on realism. It stresses the importance of the question of realism both in film studies and in contemporary life. Aitken's work will be of interest to scholars and advanced students of film studies, literary studies, media studies, cultural studies and philosophy.

Major Realist Film Theorists Ian Aitken, 2016-05-31. From the 1910s to the emergence of structuralism and post-structuralism in the 1960s the writings of John Grierson, Siegfried Kracauer, André Bazin and Georg Lukács dominated realist film theory. In this critical anthology the first collection to address their work in one volume a wide range of international scholars explore the interconnections between their ideas and help generate new understandings of this important if neglected field. Challenging preconceptions about classical theory and the nature of realist representation and in the process demonstrating how this body of work can be seen as a cohesive theoretical model this invaluable collection will help return the realist paradigm of film theory to the forefront of academic enquiry.
