Conservation and Management of Biological Resources in Himalaya, 1996 Proceedings of Regional Seminar on Conservation and Management of Biological Resources in the Himalaya organized by G B Pant Institute of Himalayan Environment and Development held at Srinagar Almora from 21-30 September 1993 Sustainable Natural Resource Management in the Himalayan Region Roshan Man Bajracharya, Bishal K. Sitaula, Smriti Gurung, Nani Raut, 2021 The greater Himalayan region stretching from Afghanistan in the west to Myanmar in the east is home to about a quarter of a billion people who greatly depend on available natural resources for their survival and livelihoods The ever increasing population pressure and changing climate have grave implications for the sustenance of human health and habitation in the foreseeable future The region is confronted with numerous challenges related to forest degradation land productivity disaster risk water management biodiversity loss erratic climatic patterns as well as socio political capacity The limits of arable land have essentially been reached while the need for enhancing production to sustain human nutritive requirements and livelihoods continues to increase Hence the intensification of agriculture has become a necessity rather than a choice Yet producing greater numbers of crops and quantities of food fiber and other materials on the same parcel of land runs the risk of degrading the soil fertility productivity and overall quality Therefore means to achieve this without irreversibly damaging the soil and land resource base have become imperative To this end agro forestry agro silvi pastoral systems and the adoption of a variety of regenerative crops soil and water management and conservation practices offer the potential to deliver multiple benefits without sacrificing the very resource upon which the human population depends The need for ecologically sound and sustainable management of natural resources in the Himalayan region as well as the adaptation of local communities to the impacts of climate change and measures for its mitigation cannot be over emphasized This book presents findings on approaches to sustainable land management and the intensification of agriculture and animal husbandry related to soil organic matter management and carbon sequestration for multiple benefits and the agroforestry as a crop diversification strategy with livelihood and climate mitigation adaptation benefits along with other aspects of forest biodiversity and water resources management The book deals with technical socio economic policy and biodiversity issues related to the sustainable use and management of natural resources namely forests soil land water crops animal husbandry and diversity of flora fauna as well as disaster risk and vulnerability of communities in the Himalayan region There is a continuing need to study and research approaches for harmonizing human needs and lifestyles with natural ecosystems and processes so that both may co exist in a mutually beneficial manner
