

Garrett Hardin

From Darwin to the present, all scientific thought has been based on the view of the world as a system of natural laws. But what if the world is not a system of natural laws, but a system of natural laws that are themselves subject to change? This is the question that Hardin asks in this book. He argues that the world is not a system of natural laws, but a system of natural laws that are themselves subject to change. This is the question that Hardin asks in this book. He argues that the world is not a system of natural laws, but a system of natural laws that are themselves subject to change.
