Nancy J. Blomberg,1994-07-01 William Randolph Hearst s collection of Navajo textiles is one of the most complete gatherings of nineteenth century Navajo weaving in the world Comprising dozens of Classic Period serapes chief blankets Germantown eyedazzlers and turn of the century rugs the 185 piece collection was donated to the Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History in 1942 but for the next forty years was known only to a handful of scholars Hearst began acquiring textiles from the Fred Harvey Company after viewing an exhibit of Indian artifacts Over four decades he amassed a collection spanning more than a century of Navajo weaving and including nearly every major type produced from 1800 to 1920 Hearst s passion for American Indian artifacts was so strong that he had originally visualized his now famous castle in San Simeon as a showplace for his Navajo textile collection At a time when the Harvey Company was itself influencing the development of Indian handicrafts by opening up the tourist market Hearst contributed to this influence by expressing his own artistic preference for rare and unusual pieces This catalogue raisonnA c featuring nearly 200 illustrations provides the general public with the first look at this important collection Nancy Blomberg s narrative introduces the reader to the history of Navajo weaving and documents Hearst s role in its development The heart of the book provides a detailed analysis of each textile fibers yarn types dyes and designs Navajo Textiles thus constitutes an invaluable reference for scholars and collectors and will be enjoyed by anyone who appreciates these beautiful creations from the Navajo loom Navajo Weaving Way Noel Bennett,Tiana

Bighorse,1997-07 This revision of the authors Working with the wool with much Navajo tradition and many photos added is a guide to Navajo rug weaving from carding spinning through set up and weaving Patterns of Exchange Teresa

Wilkins,2008 The Navajo rugs and textiles that people admire and buy today are the result of many historical influences particularly the interaction between Navajo weavers and the traders who guided their production and controlled their sale John Lorenzo Hubbell and other late nineteenth century traders were convinced they knew which patterns and colors would appeal to Anglo American buyers and so they heavily encouraged those designs In Patterns of Exchange Teresa J Wilkins traces how the relationships between generations of Navajo weavers and traders affected Navajo weaving The Navajos valued their relationships with Hubbell and others who operated trading posts on their reservation. As a result they did not always see themselves as exploited victims of a capitalist system. Rather because of Navajo cultural traditions of gift giving and helping others the artists slowly adapted some of the patterns and colors the traders requested into their own designs. By the 1890s Hubbell and others commissioned paintings depicting particular weaving styles and encouraged Navajo weavers to copy them reinforcing public perceptions of traditional Navajo weaving. Even the Navajos came to revere certain designs as the weaving of the ancestors. Enhanced by numerous illustrations including eight color plates this volume traces the intricate play of cultural and economic pressures and personal relationships between artists and traders that guided Navajo weavers to produce textiles that are today emblems of the Native American Southwest.
