Of God And Pelicans:

Of God and Pelicans Jay Byrd McDaniel, 1989-01-01 Jay McDaniel's book discusses the understanding of God's relationship to all living things, the foundations and guidelines for a life-centered ethic, the understanding of Christian spirituality and feminism. It is a powerful statement on justice, peace, and respect for the integrity of all creation. Holy Dogs and Asses Laura Hobgood-Oster, 2008 Recognizing animals in the Christian tradition. The Greening of Protestant Thought Robert Booth Fowler, 2000-11-09 The Greening of Protestant Thought traces the increasing influence of environmentalism on American Protestantism since the first Earth Day which took place in 1970. Robert Booth Fowler explores the extent to which ecological concerns permeate Protestant thought and examines contemporary controversies within and between mainline and fundamentalist Protestantism over the Bible's teachings about the environment. Fowler explores the historical roots of environmentalism in Protestant thought, including debates over God's relationship to nature and the significance of the current environmental crisis for the history of Christianity. Although he argues that mainline Protestantism is becoming increasingly green, he also examines the theological basis for many fundamentalists' hostility toward the environmental movement. In addition, Fowler considers Protestantism's policy agendas for environmental change as well as the impact on mainline Protestant thinking of modern eco-theologies, process and creation theologies, and ecofeminism. Whole-Earth Ethics for Holy Ground Stephen L. Hastings, 2016-10-19 Over the last fifty years, Western Christianity has been criticized as a cause and enabler of Earth's ecological crisis. It has been said that Christianity promotes a spiritual-material dualism where the material side of life has little sacred value. Also noted in the critique is the hesitancy of many Christians to embrace modern scientific understandings of creation, especially evolution. Some Christian writers have responded by accepting modern cosmology and evolution and advocating for a sacramental creation spirituality, oftentimes supported by fresh readings of earlier Christian writings. In Whole Earth Ethics for Holy Ground, Dr. Stephen Hastings begins by offering a genre-defining overview of late 20th-century and early 21st-century writings that he calls sacramental creation spirituality. These writings are characterized by their acceptance of the scientific creation story of cosmogenesis and evolution and their recovery of authentic Christian nature mysticism. Hastings then looks at Teilhard de Chardin (1881-1955 CE), Maximus the Confessor (c. 580-662 CE), and Nicholas of Cusa (1401-1464 CE). Together, the teachings of Maximus and Nicholas support Teilhard's call for a theology of a Creator God robust enough to encompass the most expansive and complicated propositions about creation made by science while remaining as close as the real presence of Christ in the Eucharist. The integrated teachings of these three figures suggest the consecration of creation as its condition of being, meaning that God is present in all things. This consecration or presence inspires sacramental experiences that are revelations of God in and through creation. These complement the sacramental experience of Christ in the Eucharist. Together, these sacramental encounters converge to support the conclusion that just as one receives and responds to Christ present in the elements of the communion table so one ought to receive and respond to oneself one's neighbors and all creation as the universal consecrated and sacramental neighborhood This is a whole Earth sacramental ethic that is what we need today centered on all life and ecosystems

Playing with Leviathan: Interpretation and Reception of Monsters from the Biblical World Koert van Bekkum, Jaap Dekker, Henk R. van den Kamp, Eric Peels, 2017-01-16 Since ancient times Leviathan and other monsters from the biblical world symbolize the life threatening powers in nature and history They represent the dark aspects of human nature and political entities and reveal the supernatural dimensions of evil Ancient texts and pictures regarding these monsters reflect an environment of polytheism and religious pluralism Remarkably however the biblical writings and post biblical traditions use these venerated symbols in portraying God as being sovereign over the entire universe a theme that is also prominent in the reception of these texts in subsequent contexts This volume explores this tension and elucidates the theological and cultural meaning of Leviathan by studying its ancient Near Eastern background and its attestation in biblical texts early and rabbinic Judaism Christian theology Early Modern art and film

Encountering Earth Trevor George Hunsberger Bechtel, Matt Eaton, Tim Harvie, 2018-05-14 One day Matthew Eaton was walking through an impromptu animal shelter display at his local pet store when suddenly an eight month old kitten dug his claws into Eaton's flesh Eaton recognized that the eyes of this cat and the curve of his claw compelled a response analogous to those found in the writings of Buber Levinas and Derrida And not just Eaton but a whole community of theologians have found themselves in an encounter with particular places and animals that demands rich theological reflection Eaton enlisted fellow editors Harvie and Bechtel to collect the essays in this volume in which theologians listen to horses rats snakes cats dogs and the earth itself who become new theological voices demanding a response In this volume the voice of the more than human world is heard as making theology possible These essays suggest that what we say theologically represents not simply ideas of our own making subsequently superimposed onto the natural world through our own discovery but rather flow from an expressive Earth With additional contributions from Kimberly Carfore Lisa E Dahill Celia Deane Drummond Heather Eaton Nathan Kowalsky Abigail Lofte Jame Schaefer Cristina D Vanin Mark Wallace Grace Y Kao Chris Carter John Berkman Laura Hobgood

Discerning the Body Jason Byassee, 2013-09-13 Where in the world is the church These articles essays opinion pieces and blog posts gather around that question If we quit on the question in despair we are lost If we answer it too quickly we are not digging deeply enough But if we hunt hard with the help of the Holy Spirit we ll find Christ s body alive active working growing and making things new In Discerning the Body Jason Byassee goes hunting for the church guided by a singular conviction God has promised there will be a church until Christ s return So it s out there it s just slightly hard to find Where is a batch of Jesus disciples gathering around his Word and Sacraments living out his mission in the world Byassee spends time among Catholics evangelicals mainliners and a few non Christians looking for signs of Christ s body He also looks in less likely places among athletes in institutions in popular culture in the craft of writing It is very hard to expect to be surprised Doesn t the expectation ruin the surprise Yet it s Jesus who surprises us in the church Every time we find him we have to expect to be surprised to find him anew in some counterintuitive guise This book is about the author s learning to expect to be astounded anew by Christ

Down to Earth Richard Floyd, 2015-08-18 In the face of climate change and ecological diminishment how can we hope that creation itself good and beautiful marked by tragedy and chaos is taken up rather than left behind Can a Christian vision which has at times been drunk on eschatological dreams or nightmares that consign this world and most of its creatures to destruction foster an earthly hope Jurgen Moltmann and Sallie McFague offer two contemporary possibilities for an ecological eschatology Floyd critiques both of these theological visions and traces an alternative that is both humble grounded in the humus the dirt and hopeful grounded in divine creativity arguing that a down to earth hope is grounded finally in beauty the beauty of the other that draws out the self the beauty of the redeemed self coming out to meet the other and the beauty of God that lures forth ever new possibilities and gathers up all the beautiful and broken creatures into the deepest possible harmony

Jane Goodall On Animals David L. Clough, 2012-02-02 This volume is a project in systematic theology a rigorous engagement with the Christian tradition in relation to animals under the doctrinal headings of creation reconciliation and redemption and in dialogue with the Bible and theological voices central to the tradition The book shows that such engagement with the tradition with the question of the animal in mind produces surprising answers that challenge modern anthropocentric assumptions For the most part therefore the novelty of the project lies in the questions raised rather than the proposal of innovative answers to it The transformation in our thinking about animals for which the book argues results in the main from looking squarely for the first time at the sum of what we are already committed to believing about other animals and their place in God's creation
