The Idea of Prison Abolition Tommie Shelby, 2024-08-20 An incisive and sympathetic examination of the case for ending the practice of imprisonment Despite its omnipresence and long history imprisonment is a deeply troubling practice In the United States and elsewhere prison conditions are inhumane prisoners are treated without dignity and sentences are extremely harsh Mass incarceration and its devastating impact on black communities have been widely condemned as neoslavery or the new Jim Crow Can the practice of imprisonment be reformed or does justice require it to be ended altogether In The Idea of Prison Abolition Tommie Shelby examines the abolitionist case against prisons and its formidable challenge to would be prison reformers Philosophers have long theorized punishment and its justifications but they haven't paid enough attention to incarceration or its related problems in societies structured by racial and economic injustice Taking up this urgent topic Shelby argues that prisons once reformed and under the right circumstances can be legitimate and effective tools of crime control Yet he draws on insights from black radicals and leading prison abolitionists especially Angela Davis to argue that we should dramatically decrease imprisonment and think beyond bars when responding to the problem of crime While a world without prisons might be utopian The Idea of Prison Abolition makes the case that we can make meaningful progress toward this ideal by abolishing the structural injustices that too often lead to crime and its harmful consequences Philippine Prisons Review, 1928

Justice Committee: Older Prisoners - HC 89 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Justice

Committee,2013-09-12 The number of older prisoners is now very high and is likely to remain so partly caused by the increase in convictions for historic sexual offences The growth of the older prison population and the severity of the needs of that population warrant a national strategy in order to provide for them effectively Older and disabled prisoners should no longer be held in institutions which cannot meet their basic needs nor should they be released back into the community without adequate support There are some excellent prison officers and charity workers who are providing essential social care but an ad hoc system means that too often older prisoners have to rely on the goodwill of officers and their fellow inmates to fulfill the most basic of care needs The responsibility to adapt the prison environment so that it suits less able prisoners lies with a prison s senior management team and the National Offender Management Service NOMS NOMS should conduct a comprehensive analysis of prisons physical compliance with disability discrimination and age equality laws The Committee does not believe there is a need for the expansion of segregated older prisoner units or wings However NOMS should ensure all prisons have an older prisoner policy that provides age and ability specific regimes Furthermore older prisoners who are released after a long period of incarceration must have a resettlement and care plan At present older prisoners are frequently released to no fixed abode undermining all work that has been made towards resettlement
