Bamidis, 2010-05-28 Over the past three decades the exploding number of new technologies and applications introduced in medical practice often powered by advances in biosignal processing and biomedical imaging created an amazing account of new possibilities for diagnosis and therapy but also raised major questions of appropriateness and safety The accelerated development in this field alongside with the promotion of electronic health care solutions is often on the basis of an uncontrolled diffusion and use of medical technology The emergence and use of medical devices is multiplied rapidly and today there exist more than one million different products available on the world market Despite the fact that the rising cost of health care partly resulting from the new emerging technological applications forms the most serious and urgent problem for many governments today another important concern is that of patient safety and user protection issues that should never be compromised and expelled from the Biomedical Engineering research practice agenda The Theatre of Form and the Production of Meaning Richard Paul Knowles, 1999 How do dramatic forms shape social formations This study of Canadian dramatic structures asks this question of an extraordinarily wide range of contemporary plays Knowles begins with a look at inherited naturalistic and modernist forms based respectively on time and space He then uses this division to extend his inquiry first into post naturalist forms of collective and collaborative creations community plays and historical metadramas and then into postmodernist structures of environmental theatre and dialogic monologue The book ends with a brief epilogue on the structures of spacetime as Canadian theatre moves towards a quantum dramaturgy From Michael Cook and David French through George F Walker Judith Thompson and Sally Clark to Monique Mojica John Mighton and feminist performance art this book revolutionizes the study of contemporary Canadian drama It's a thoughtful and timely advance in our ways of thinking about dramaturgical form and meaning in Canadian theatrical production and in Canadian society
