Contemporary Irish Poetry Elmer Andrews, 2016-04-30 Contains 14 essays dealing with the poetry that has come out of Ireland since the mid 1960s The first half of the book is devoted to general issues and themes and takes account of the interrelationships of contemporary Irish poetry The second half concentrates on the work of individual poets New Poems

Edmund Gosse, 1879 The Dial Francis Fisher Browne, 1897 The New Poet Richard Danson Brown, 1999-01-01 This gracefully written and well thought out study deals with a neglected collection of poems by Spenser which was issued in 1591 at the height of his career While there has been a good deal written in recent years on two of the poems in the collection Mother Hubbard's Tale and Muipotmos Brown innovatively addresses the collection in its entirety He urges us to see it as a planned whole with a consistent design on the reader he fully acknowledges and even brings out further the heterogeneity of the collection but he examines it nevertheless as a sustained reflection on the nature of poetry and the auspices for writing in a modern world distancing itself from the traditions of the immediate past The strength of this work lies both in the originality of its project and in the precision and enterprise of the close reading that informs its argument Interest in the concern of Spenser's poetry with the nature of poetry is in the current critical mainstream but here the attentiveness is both unusually focused and unusually sustained Brown garners more than would be expected from the translations in the Complaints while at the same time including striking and individual chapters on the better known Mother Hubbard's Tale and Muipotmos he advances understanding of these extremely subtle texts and fully justifies his wider approach to the collection as a whole Arguing that Spenser's relationship to literary tradition is more complex than is often thought Brown suggests that Spenser was a self-conscious innovator whose gradual move away from traditional poetics is exhibited by the different texts in the Complaints He further suggests that the Complaints are a poetics in practice which progress from traditional ideas of poetry to a new poetry that emerges through Spenser's transformation of traditional complaint Historicizing Modernists Matthew Feldman, Anna Svendsen, Erik Tønning, 2021-06-17 Focussing upon both canonical figures such as Woolf Eliot Pound and Stein and emergent themes such as Christian modernism intermedial modernism queer Harlem Renaissance this volume brings together previously unseen materials from various archives to bear upon cutting edge interpretation of modernism It provides an overview of approaches to modernism via the employment of various types of primary source material correspondence manuscripts and drafts memoirs and production notes reading notes and marginalia and all manner of useful contextualising sources like news reports or judicial records While having much to say to literary criticism more broadly this volume is closely focused upon key modernist figures and emergent themes in light of the discipline's archival turn termed in a unifying introduction archivalism An essential ingredient separating the above recent tendency from a much older and better established new historicism in modernist studies at least is that the literary canon remains an important starting point Whereas new historicism is interested in history as represented and recorded in written documents and tends toward a parallel study of literature and non literary texts archival criticism tends toward recognised oftentimes canonical or critically lauded writers presented in Part 1 Sidestepping the vicissitudes of canon formation manuscript scholars tend to gravitate toward leading modernist authors James Joyce Ezra Pound Virginia Woolf Gertrude Stein T S Eliot and Samuel Beckett Part of the reason is obvious known authors frequently leave behind sizeable literary estates which are then acquired by research centres A second section then applies the same empirical methodology to key or emergent themes in the study of modernism including queer modernism spatial modernism little magazines and online finding aids structuring them and the role of faith and or emotions in the construction of modernism as we know it
