Off Limits James Lingwood, 2002 Surveying 40 projects realised over the past decade by film makers writers visual artists composers choreographers and performers this text provides a unique overview of the special alchemy generated when a location becomes central to the development of a work of art Off Limits James Lingwood, Michael Morris, 2002 Surveying 40 projects realised over the past decade by film makers writers visual artists composers choreographers and performers this text provides a unique overview of the special alchemy generated when a location becomes central to the development of a work of art Artangel and Financing British Art Charlotte Gould, 2018-07-11 The Artangel Trust has been credited with providing artists with all the money and logistics they need to create one off dream projects An independent art commissioning agency based in London it has operated since 1985 and is responsible for producing some of the most striking ephemeral and site specific artworks of the last decades from Rachel Whiteread's House to Jeremy Deller's The Battle of Orgreave Artangel's existence spans three decades which now form a coherent whole in terms of both art historical and political periodisation It was launched as a reaction to the cuts in funding for the visual arts introduced by the Thatcher government in 1979 and has since adapted in a distinctive way to changing cultural policies Its mixed economic model the recourse to public private and corporate funds is the result of the more general hybridisation of funding encouraged by successive governments since the 1980s and offers a contemporary case study on broader questions concerning the specificities of British art patronage This book aims to demonstrate that the singular way its directors have responded to the vagaries of public funding and harnessed new national attitudes to philanthropy has created a sustainable independent model but also that it has been reflected more formally in their approach to site The locational art produced by the agency has indeed mirrored new distinctions between public and private spaces it has reflected the social and economic changes the country has gone through and accompanied the new cultural geographies shaping London and the United Kingdom Looking into whether their funding model might have had a formal incidence on the art they helped produce and on its relation to notions of publicness and privacy the study of Artangel gives a fresh insight into new trends in British site specific art

Theatre in the Expanded Field Alan Read, 2013-12-05 Theatre in the Expanded Field is a fiercely original bold and daring exploration of the fields of theatre and performance studies and the received narratives and histories that underpin them Rich with interdisciplinary reference international eclectic and broad ranging in its examples it offers readers a compelling and provocative reassessment of the disciplines one that spans pre history to the present day Sixty years ago in 1962 Richard Southern wrote a remarkable book called The Seven Ages of the Theatre It was unusual in its time for taking a trans disciplinary new historical and avowedly internationalist approach to its subject nothing less than a totalizing view of its field Theatre in the Expanded Field does not attempt to mimic Southern's work but rather takes his spirit of adventure and ambition as its frame for the contemporary moment of performance and its diverse pasts Identifying seven ways of exploring the performance field from pre history to postdramatic theatre the book presents studies of both contemporary and historical works not as a chronological succession but in keeping with their coeval qualities as movements or generations of connection and interaction dissensus and interruption It does this with the same purpose as Richard Southern's original work to provide for the planning of responsive performance spaces now Illustrated throughout with line drawings Theatre in the Expanded Field is as richly rewarding as it is ambitious and expansive in its vision
