Rebuilding Crime Prevention Through Environmental Design Rachel Armitage,Paul Ekblom,2019-02-11 Crime Prevention Through Environmental Design CPTED is a practice oriented approach to reduce the risk of offences such as burglary and fear of crime by modifying the built environment In recent years this approach has been criticised for duplicating terminology and for failing to integrate successfully with other approaches Rebuilding Crime Prevention Through Environmental Design explores and extends the common ground between CPTED and situational crime prevention another traditional approach in the field of crime prevention and security via the latter s evolution into the field of crime science Drawing on international research to develop new interdisciplinary perspectives this volume explores how situational crime prevention and environmental criminological theories relate to those of Crime Prevention Through Environmental Design and considers how crime science can be reformulated to merge different approaches or at least articulate them better Rebuilding Crime Prevention Through Environmental Design will appeal to students applied academic researchers and practitioners who wish to deepen their understanding and contribute in turn to the ongoing revitalisation of the field

general design data on human dimensions and space requirements The Metric Handbook provides an invaluable resource for solving everyday design and planning problems Towns and Cities: Function in Form Julian Hart,2016-03-09 Challenging existing assumptions about how our towns and cities are structured and formed Julian Hart provides an engaging and thought provoking alternative theory of urban design This is not urban design in the sense of the practice of design rather it is a theory of the form of the town at all scales why towns and cities happen to be structured the way they are as a result of the social political legal and especially economic forces that create them The shape of the city at every scale from the internal configuration of dwellings all the way up to the superstructure of the whole city can be seen to arise from the interplay between three antagonistic socio economic tensions In going about our daily business and in championing particular political objectives we collectively fashion our cities in terms of their structure and form This leads to various new ways of understanding how and why our cities so happen to be configured the way they are The book makes a step change from any other comparable studies by understanding our towns and cities in terms of function in form This helps us to appreciate why every town is a recognisable town wherever it is Different urban environments in different parts of the world past and present can come to be seen according to their similarities instead of their differences Furthermore by appreciating how the economic influences of everyday life structure our towns and cities we can in turn begin to understand better how the shape of towns and cities affects the quality of life of inhabitants and the cohesiveness of communities In covering all scales from inside the home to macrostructure of the city the book encapsulates urban design through to town planning and does not seek to distinguish between the various design disciplines Design Against Crime Caroline L. Davey,Andrew B. Wootton,2017-02-17 Design Against Crime will aid the design profession to meet the challenges presented by the competing needs and complex systems around crime and security It proposes that designers should use their creative talents to develop innovative solutions to security problems that contribute to the ongoing fight against crime The authors first explain the design against crime approach to security and security They go on to provide practical advice on addressing crime and insecurity within the design process and offer practical examples of design being applied to security and safety They also examine crime victimisation from a global perspective highlighting the benefits worldwide of reducing opportunities for crime including issues of national security such as terrorism and natural disasters A design led human centred approach provides a way forward that is both aspirational and practical The book is aimed primarily at design professionals educators and students interested in safety and security from all design disciplines including product design architecture service design and communication design The book should also be read by crime prevention experts planners local authorities managers of urban environments and policymakers Affordability and the Supply of Housing Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: ODPM: Housing, Planning, Local Government and the Regions Committee,2006-03-20 Affordability and the supply of Housing Session 2005 06 Vol 2 Oral and written Evidence Environmental Criminology and Crime Analysis Richard Wortley, Michael Townsley, 2016-11-01 Environmental criminology is a term that encompasses a range of overlapping perspectives. At its core the many strands of environmental criminology are bound by a common focus on the role that the immediate environment plays in the performance of crime and a conviction that careful analyses of these environmental influences are the key to the effective investigation, control and prevention of crime. This new edition brings together leading theorists and practitioners in the field to provide a comprehensive integrative coverage of the field of environmental criminology and crime analysis. This book is divided into three sequential parts. Understanding the crime event explores routine activity approach, crime pattern theory, the rational choice perspective and situational precipitators of crime. Analysing crime patterns discusses crime mapping, offender mobility, repeat victimisation, geographic profiling and crime scripts. Preventing and controlling crime covers topics including problem oriented policing, situational crime prevention and environmental design. Fully updated and including new chapters on crime scripts and offender mobility, a scene setting introductory overview and critical thinking questions at the end of each chapter, this text is an essential and comprehensive resource for practitioners and students taking courses on environmental criminology, crime analysis and crime prevention.

Planning the Night-time City Marion Roberts, Adam Eldridge, 2012-11-12 The night time economy represents a particular challenge for planners and town centre managers. In the context of liberalised licensing and a growing culture around the 24 hour city, the desire to foster economic growth and to achieve urban regeneration has been set on a collision course with the need to maintain social order. Roberts and Eldridge draw on extensive case study research undertaken in the UK and internationally to explain how changing approaches to evening and night time activities have been conceptualised in planning practice. The first to synthesise recent debates on law, health, planning and policy, this research considers how these dialogues impact upon the design, management, development and the experience of the night time city. This is incisive and highly topical reading for postgraduates, academics and reflective practitioners in Planning, Urban Design and Urban Regeneration.

The Routledge Handbook of Place Tim Edensor, Ares Kalandides, Uma Kothari, 2020-05-26 The handbook presents a compendium of the diverse and growing approaches to place from leading authors as well as less widely known scholars, providing a comprehensive yet cutting edge overview of theories, concepts and creative engagements with place that resonate with contemporary concerns and debates. The volume moves away from purely western based conceptions and discussions about place to include perspectives from across the world. It includes an introductory chapter which outlines key definitions, draws out influential historical and contemporary approaches to the theorisation of place and sketches out the structure of the book, explaining the logic of the seven clearly themed sections. Each section begins with a short introductory essay that provides identifying key ideas and contextualises the essays that follow. The original and distinctive contributions from both new and leading authorities from across the discipline provide a wide, rich and comprehensive collection that chimes with current critical thinking in geography. The book captures the dynamism and multiplicity of current geographical thinking about place by including both state of the art in depth critical overviews of theoretical approaches to place and new explorations and cases that chart a framework for future research It charts the multiple ways in which place might be conceived situated and practised This unique comprehensive and rich collection will be an essential resource for undergraduate and graduate teaching for experienced academics across a wide range of disciplines and for policymakers and place marketers It will provide an invaluable and up to date guide to current thinking across the range of disciplines such as Geography Sociology and Politics and interdisciplinary fields such as Urban Studies Environmental Studies and Planning

Living Architecture, Living Cities Christopher Day,Julie Gwilliam,2019-11-08 It is widely accepted that our environment is in crisis Less widely recognized is that three quarters of environmental damage is due to cities the places where most of us live As this powerful new book elucidates global sustainability is therefore directly dependent on urban design In Living Architecture Living Cities Christopher Day and Julie Gwilliam move beyond the current emphasis on technological change They argue that eco technology allows us to continue broadly as before and only defers the impending disaster In reality most negative environmental impacts are due to how we live and the things we buy Such personal choices often result from dissatisfaction with our surroundings As perceived environment has a direct effect on attitudes and motivations improving this can achieve more sustainable lifestyles more effectively than drastic building change with its notorious performance gap limitations As it is in places that our inner feelings and material reality interact perceived environment is place based Ultimately however as the root cause of unsustainability is attitude real change requires moving from the current focus on buildings and technology to an emphasis on the non material Featuring over 400 high quality illustrations this is essential reading for anyone who believes in the value and power of good design Christopher Day's philosophy will continue to inspire students with an interest in sustainable architecture urban planning and related fields

Designing Sustainable Cities Rachel Cooper,Graeme Evans,Christopher Boyko,2009-11-24 This book offers practical solutions to achieving sustainable urbandesign and development and helps designers communicate thesesolutions effectively to planners developers and policy makers Addressing sustainability issues in relation to the design andplanning of the urban environment is a complex multi disciplinaryissue and solutions never arrive from a single perspective Theauthors use design as a facilitating factor to consider when and bywhom decisions that contribute to sustainability are made and through three major city centre case studies London Manchester and Sheffield they consider social environmental and economic factors and examine their relationship to the decision making process Designing Sustainable Cities begins by identifying the key processes and lead decision makers The following chapters develop an understanding of the dimensions of sustainability presenting the tools by which the dimensions can be analysed Later chapters illustrate the trade offs and the relationships between the dimensions of sustainability with case study examples as well as the use of IT in making design decisions Finally the book makes recommendations for future approaches to the design development and on going management of urban environments Designing Sustainable Cities covers latest research data on the urban environment and the interaction between social economic and environmental issues methods of understanding the context in which urban design takes place guidance on the codes of practice process maps to help understand the context make trade offs and develop design solutions that allow for change methods for testing the consequences of design proposals and monitoring outcomes
