Cultural Memory in the Icelandic Contemporary Sagas Lucie Korecká, 2025-02-17 The objective of this book is to analyse the Old Icelandic sagas dealing with the twelfth to fourteenth centuries the secular contemporary sagas and the bishops sagas from the perspective of cultural memory studies This approach foregrounds their function as sources of the late medieval Icelanders collective identity shaped by the narrative tradition and the current concerns It is argued here that the intertextual relations between the Old Icelandic historiographical texts extend beyond the literary level and influence the perception of the past itself The accounts of events from the settlement to the fourteenth century form a coherent narrative that acknowledges the historical development but accentuates the themes and values that continued to define the collective identity Within this framework the book presents a detailed analysis of how this function of the narrative shaped the sagas depicting the time when Iceland was gradually integrated into the Norwegian kingdom As such it contributes to a more nuanced understanding of how this culturally significant period of medieval Icelandic history was perceived when the memory of it was still crossing the boundary between common knowledge and foundational history

Old Norse-Icelandic Literature Carol J. Clover, John Lindow, 2019-06-30 The current revival of interest in the rich and varied literature of early Scandinavia has prompted a corresponding interest in its background its origins social and historical context and relationship to other medieval literatures Even readers with a knowledge of Old Norse and Icelandic have found these subjects difficult to pursue however for up to date reference works in any language are few and none exist in English To fill the gap six distinguished scholars have contributed ambitious new essays to this volume The contributors summarize and comment on scholarly work in the major branches of the field Eddie and skaldic poetry family and kings sagas courtly writing and mythology Taken together their judicious and attractively written essays each with a full bibliography make up the first book length survey of Old Norse literature in English and a basic reference work that will stimulate research in these areas and help to open up the field to a wider academic readership

Dating the Sagas Else Mundal,2013-05-15 The Icelandic genre known as the Family Sagas Sagas of Icelanders or Sagas about early Icelanders consists of anonymous works and the genre as well as the individual sagas are therefore difficult to date This literature is also difficult to date since sagas are stories that were transformed both during oral and scribal transmission The authors of the present book address methodological problems and discuss the dating of individual sagas and the genre itself Focusing their attention on an important period in the history of Icelandic literature the authors are particularly concerned with the several new written genres which developed in Iceland in the thirteenth century of which the Sagas about early Icelanders is regarded as the most important The articles gathered in this volume show that the dating of the beginning of this written genre and of individual sagas belonging to it is crucial to the understanding of the development of literary history in thirteenth century Iceland Else Mundal is professor of Old Norse Philology at the Centre for Medieval Studies University of Bergen She has published widely on Old Norse saga literature Eddic and skaldic poetry on Old Norse mythology women in Old Norse society as well as on the relationship between the oral and the written literature and the impact of Christianization on the Old Norse culture Emotional Alterity in the Medieval North Sea World Erin

Sebo,Matthew Firth,Daniel Anlezark,2023-08-24 This book addresses a little considered aspect of the study of the history of emotions in medieval literature the depiction of perplexing emotional reactions Medieval literature often confronts audiences with displays of emotion that are improbable physiologically impossible or simply unfathomable in modern social contexts The intent of such episodes is not always clear medieval texts rarely explain emotional responses or their motivations The implication is that the meanings communicated by such emotional display were so obvious to their intended audience that no explanation was required This raises the question of whether such meanings can be recovered This is the task to which the contributors to this book have put themselves In approaching this question this book does not set out to be a collection of literary studies that treat portrayals of emotion as simple tropes or motifs isolated within their corpora Rather it seeks to uncover how such manifestations of feeling may reflect cultural and social dynamics underlying vernacular literatures from across the medieval North Sea world Approaches to the Medieval Self Stefka G. Eriksen,Karen Langsholt

Holmqvist,Bjørn Bandlien,2020-09-21 The main aim of this book is to discuss various modes of studying and defining the medieval self based on a wide span of sources from medieval Western Scandinavia c 800 1500 such as archeological evidence architecture and art documents literature and runic inscriptions The book engages with major theoretical discussions within the humanities and social sciences such as cultural theory practice theory and cognitive theory The authors investigate how the various approaches to the self influence our own scholarly mindsets and horizons and how they condition what aspects of the medieval self are visible to us Utilizing this insight we aim to propose a more syncretic approach towards the medieval self not in order to substitute excellent models already in existence but in order to foreground the flexibility and the complementarity of the current theories when these are seen in relationship to each other The self and how it relates to its surrounding world and history is a main concern of humanities and social sciences Focusing on the theoretical and methodological flexibility when approaching the medieval self has the potential to raise our awareness of our own position and agency in various social spaces today

High-Ranking Widows in Medieval Iceland and Yorkshire Philadelphia Ricketts, 2010-09-24 This book provides an evocative insight into the property power remarriage and identity of high ranking widows in two fundamentally different societies Iceland and Yorkshire The legal position of widows in each region is examined in light of evidence from charters royal records and sagas to establish a detailed picture of practice Comparison and family reconstruction are important elements enabling the book to emphasize the placement of widows within the context of society and its institutions and to consider fully the impact of individual circumstances on the widows opportunities for action The result offers a fresh approach that tests widely accepted generalizations about widows independence highlights differences between regions and suggests the need to reconsider traditional rigid definitions of kinship systems

Tools of Literacy Guðrún Nordal, 2001-01-01 A thorough and ground breaking examination of thirteenth century skaldic verse linking the poets of the time with leading families and with ecclesiastical and secular learning

A History of Old Norse Poetry and Poetics Margaret Clunies Ross, 2005 This is the first book in English to deal with the twin subjects of Old Norse poetry and the various vernacular treatises on native poetry that were a conspicuous feature of medieval intellectual life in Iceland and the Orkneys from the mid twelfth to the fourteenth centuries Its aim is to give a clear description of the rich poetic tradition of early Scandinavia particularly in Iceland where it reached its zenith and to demonstrate the social contexts that favoured poetic composition from the oral societies of the early Viking Age in Norway and its colonies to the devout compositions of literate Christian clerics in fourteenth century Iceland The author analyses the two dominant poetic modes eddic and skaldic giving fresh examples of their various styles and subjects looks at the prose contexts in which most Old Norse poetry has been preserved and discusses problems of interpretation that arise because of the poetry's mode of transmission She is concerned throughout to link indigenous theory with practice beginning with the pre Christian ideology of poets as favoured by the god dinn and concluding with the Christian notion that a plain style best conveys the poet's message Margaret Clunies Ross is McCaughey Professor of English Language and Early English Literature and Director of the Centre for Medieval Studies at the University of Sydney
