author of Consider the Fork Why do we eat toast for breakfast and then toast to good health at dinner What does the turkey we eat on Thanksgiving have to do with the country on the eastern Mediterranean Can you figure out how much your dinner will cost by counting the words on the menu In The Language of Food Stanford University professor and MacArthur Fellow Dan Jurafsky peels away the mysteries from the foods we think we know Thirteen chapters evoke the joy and discovery of reading a menu dotted with the sharp eyed annotations of a linguist Jurafsky points out the subtle meanings hidden in filler words like rich and crispy zeroes in on the metaphors and storytelling tropes we rely on in restaurant reviews and charts a microuniverse of marketing language on the back of a bag of potato chips The fascinating journey through The Language of Food uncovers a global atlas of culinary influences With Jurafsky's insight words like ketchup macaron and even salad become living fossils that contain the patterns of early global exploration that predate our modern fusion filled world From ancient recipes preserved in Sumerian song lyrics to colonial shipping routes that first connected East and West Jurafsky paints a vibrant portrait of how our foods developed A surprising history of culinary exchange a sharing of ideas and culture as much as ingredients and flavors lies just beneath the surface of our daily snacks soups and suppers Engaging and informed Jurafsky's unique study illuminates an extraordinary network of language history and food The menu is yours to enjoy

The Food Section Kimberly Wilmot Voss, 2014-04-24 Food blogs are everywhere today but for generations information and opinions about food were found in the food sections of newspapers in communities large and small Until the early 1970s these sections were housed in the women's pages of newspapers where women could hold an authoritative voice The food editors often a mix of trained journalist and home economist reported on everything from nutrition news to features on the new chef in town They wrote recipes and solicited ideas from readers The sections reflected the trends of the time and the cooks of the community The editors were local celebrities judging cooking contests and getting calls at home about how to prepare a Thanksgiving turkey They were consumer advocates and reporters for food safety and nutrition They helped make James Beard and Julia Child household names as the editors wrote about their television appearances and reviewed their cookbooks These food editors laid the foundation for the food community that Nora Ephron described in her classic 1968 essay The Food Establishment and eventually led to the food communities of today Included in the chapters are profiles of such food editors as Jane Nickerson Jeanne Voltz and Ruth Ellen Church who were unheralded pioneers in the field as well as Cecily Brownstone Poppy Cannon and Clementine Paddleford who are well known today an analysis of their work demonstrates changes in the country's culinary history The book concludes with a look at how the women's pages folded at the same time that home economics saw its field transformed and with thoughts about the foundation that these women laid for the food journalism of today
