Harris,2009-01-01 Landing Native Fisheries reveals the contradictions and consequences of an Indian land policy premised on access to fish on one hand and a program of fisheries management intended to open the resource to newcomers on the other Beginning with the first treaties signed on Vancouver Island between 1850 and 1854 Douglas Harris maps the connections between the colonial land policy and the law governing the fisheries In so doing Harris rewrites the history of colonial dispossession in British Columbia offering a new and nuanced examination of the role of law in the consolidation of power within the colonial state      Makúk John Sutton Lutz,2009-01-01 John Lutz traces Aboriginal people s involvement in the new economy and their displacement from it from the arrival of the first Europeans to the 1970s Drawing on an extensive array of oral histories manuscripts newspaper accounts biographies and statistical analysis Lutz shows that Aboriginal people flocked to the workforce and prospered in the late nineteenth century He argues that the roots of today s widespread unemployment and welfare dependency date only from the 1950s when deliberate and inadvertent policy choices what Lutz terms the white problem drove Aboriginal people out of the capitalist wage and subsistence economies offering them welfare as compensation      Landings and Receipts of Fishery Products at Seattle, Washington and Certain Pacific Coast Ports , rent are being lost because of inadequate management and major rebuilding of fishery resources is called for This book draws together the latest economic theory of the management of these resources at both the national and the international levels and highlights areas where further research is urgently required The emphasis is on world capture fisheries rather than fisheries of specific regions and examples are drawn upon from both developed and developing countries It combines economic theory and empirical testing with an examination and analysis of resource policy options with particular emphasis on fisheries management policies at the international level where some of the most difficult resource management problems are found The authors maintain that capture fishery resources are properly viewed as a part of society's portfolio of natural capital assets Consequently a central theme of the book is that managing such resources should be viewed as asset management through time Written by two leading authorities this accessible textbook has been specially developed to meet the needs of students taking courses on fisheries management as well as professionals working in this area for governments and international organisations

Roy, 2011-11-01 Patricia Roy's latest book The Oriental Question continues her study into why British Columbians and many Canadians from outside the province were historically so opposed to Asian immigration Drawing on contemporary press and government reports and individual correspondence and memoirs Roy shows how British Columbians consolidated a white man's province from 1914 to 1941 by securing a virtual end to Asian immigration and placing stringent legal restrictions on Asian competition in the major industries of lumber and fishing While its emphasis is on political action and politicians the book also examines the popular pressure for such practices and gives some attention to the reactions of those most affected the province's Chinese and Japanese residents The Oriental Question is a critical investigation of a troubling period in Canadian history It will be of vital interest to scholars of British Columbian and Canadian history and politics and of Asian diaspora ethnicity and immigration studies NOAA Omnibus Authorization
