sociolinguistics      Language Contact Kelechukwu U Ihemere, 2014-09-18 Since the inception of modern contact linguistics through the works of Weinreich 1953 and Haugen 1953 numerous investigators have studied the manifestations of language contact across different disciplines naturally adopting varied perspectives and approaches relevant to their particular field of inquiry In spite of the many approaches and interests quite simply when speakers of different languages interact closely it is typical for their languages to influence each other The influence could be as common as the exchange of words or what is termed vocabulary borrowing in the literature It can also go deeper extending to the exchange of even basic characteristics of a language such as morphology and grammar In some cases the result of the contact of two languages can be the replacement of one by the other This is most common in asymmetric relationships between languages and sometimes leads to language shift and death The present volume is unique in that it brings together research by distinguished scholars and other highly talented investigators from across the world to offer a multidimensional exploration of the field The individual chapters present contemporary discussions and analyses of the topics grouped into three parts      Interdialectal Lexical Compatibility in Arabic F. J. Cadora, 1979      Tunisian and Libyan Arabic Dialects: Common Trends - Recent Developments - Diachronic Aspects Ritt-Benmimoun, Veronika (ed.), 2017-05-26 This tripartite volume with 18 contributions in English and French is dedicated to Tunisian and Libyan Arabic dialects which form part of the so-called Maghrebi or Western group of dialects There are ten contributions that investigate aspects of Tunisian dialects five contributions on Libyan dialects and three comparative articles that go beyond the geographical and linguistic borders of Tunisia and Libya The focus of Tunisian and Libyan Arabic Dialects is on linguistic aspects but a wider range of topics is also addressed in particular questions regarding digital corpora and digital humanities These foci and other subjects investigated such as the syntactic studies and the presentation of recently gathered linguistic data bear reference to the subtitle Common Trends Recent Developments Diachronic Aspects      From Eastern to Western Arabic Margaret Kleffner Nydell, 1974      Arabic Language and Linguistics Reem Bassiouney, E. Graham Katz, 2012-04-13 Arabic one of the official languages of the United Nations is spoken by more than half a billion people around the world and is of increasing importance in today's political and economic spheres The study of the Arabic language has a long and rich history earliest grammatical accounts date from the 8th century and include full syntactic morphological and phonological analyses of the vernaculars and of Classical Arabic In recent years the academic study of Arabic has become increasingly sophisticated and broad This state of the art volume presents the most recent research in Arabic linguistics from a theoretical point of view including computational linguistics syntax semantics and historical linguistics It also covers sociolinguistics applied linguistics and discourse analysis by looking at issues such as gender urbanization and language ideology Underlying themes include the changing and evolving attitudes of speakers of Arabic and theoretical approaches to linguistic variation in the Middle East      Arabic Historical Dialectology Clive Holes, 2018-08-30 This book by a group of leading international scholars outlines the history of the spoken dialects of Arabic from the Arab Conquests of the seventh century up to the present day It specifically investigates the evolution of Arabic as a spoken language in contrast to the many existing studies that focus on written Classical or Modern Standard Arabic The volume begins with a discursive introduction that deals with important issues in the general scholarly context including the indigenous myth and probable reality of the history of Arabic Arabic dialect geography and typology types of internally and externally motivated linguistic change social indexicalisation and pidginization and creolization in Arabic speaking communities Most chapters then focus on developments in a specific region Mauritania the Maghreb Egypt the Levant the Northern Fertile Crescent the Gulf and South Arabia with one exploring Judaeo Arabic a group of varieties historically spread over a wider area The remaining two chapters in the volume examine individual linguistic features of particular historical interest and controversy specifically the origin and evolution of the b verbal prefix and the adnominal linker an in The volume will be of interest to scholars and students of the linguistic and social history of Arabic as well as to comparative linguists interested in topics such as linguistic typology and language change      Perspectives on Arabic Linguistics Mustafa A. Mughazy, 2007-02-13 This volume includes twelve papers selected from the Twentieth Annual Symposium on Arabic Linguistics held in 2006 at Western Michigan University Kalamazoo The papers in this volume address a broad range of theoretical issues pertaining to Arabic particularly in the areas of phonology morphology syntax pragmatics computationallinguistics and psycholinguistics These contributions represent the emerging trend of interface research where linguistic phenomena are investigated using the techniques methodologies and theoretical frameworks of different academic fields
