Simon, Harold Kincaid, 2016-10-04 The Routledge Companion to Philosophy of Medicine is a comprehensive guide to topics in the fields of epistemology and metaphysics of medicine It examines traditional topics such as the concept of disease causality in medicine the epistemology of the randomized controlled trial the biopsychosocial model explanation clinical judgment and phenomenology of medicine and emerging topics such as philosophy of epidemiology measuring harms the concept of disability nursing perspectives race and gender the metaphysics of Chinese medicine and narrative medicine Each of the 48 chapters is written especially for this volume and with a student audience in mind For pedagogy and clarity each chapter contains an extended example illustrating the ideas discussed This text is intended for use as a reference for students in courses in philosophy of medicine and philosophy of science and pairs well with The Routledge Companion to Bioethics for use in medical humanities and social science courses Cultural Fault Lines in Healthcare Michael C.

Brannigan, 2012-02-16 Healthcare in the U S faces two interpenetrating certainties First with over 66 racial and ethnic groupings our American Mosaic of worldviews and values unavoidably generates clashes in hospitals and clinics Second our public increasingly mistrusts our healthcare system and delivery One certainty fuels the other Conflicts in the clinical encounter particularly with patients from other cultures often challenge dominant assumptions of morally appropriate principles and behavior In turn lack of understanding misinterpretation stereotyping and outright discrimination result in poor health outcomes compounding further mistrust To address these cultural fault lines healthcare institutions have initiated efforts to ensure cultural competence Yet these efforts become institutional window dressing without tackling deeper issues issues having to do with attitudes understanding and most importantly ways we communicate with patients These deeper issues reflect a fundamental original fault line the ever widening gap between serving our own interests while disregarding the concerns of more vulnerable patients those on the margins those Others who remain disenfranchised because they are Other This book examines this and how we must become the voice for these Others whose vulnerability and suffering are palpable The author argues that as a vital and necessary condition for cultural competency we must learn to cultivate the virtue of Presence of genuinely being there with our patients Cultural competency is less a matter of acquiring knowledge of other cultures Cultural competency demands as a prerequisite for all patients not just for those who seem different genuine embodied Presence Genuine interpersonal embodied presence is especially crucial in our screen centric and Facebook world where interaction is mediated through technologies rather than through authentic face to face engagement This is sadly apparent in healthcare where we have replaced interpersonal care with technological intervention Indeed we are all potential patients When we become ill we too will most likely assume roles of vulnerability We too may feel as invisible as those on the margins These are not armchair reflections Brannigan s incisive analysis comes from his scholarship in healthcare and intercultural ethics along with his longstanding clinical experience in numerous healthcare settings with patients their families and healthcare professionals

Introducing Medical Anthropology Merrill Singer, Hans Baer, Debbi Long, Alex Pavlotski, 2019-03-20 The third edition of Introducing Medical Anthropology A Discipline in Action provides students with a first exposure to the growing field of medical and health anthropology The narrative is guided by unifying themes First health oriented anthropologists are very involved in the process of helping to varying degrees to change the world around them through their work in applied projects policy initiatives and advocacy Second the authors present the fundamental importance of culture and social relationships in health and illness by demonstrating that illness and disease involve complex biosocial processes and that resolving them requires attention to a range of factors beyond biology Third through an examination of the issue of health inequality this book underlines the need for an analysis that moves beyond cultural or even ecological models of health toward a comprehensive biosocial approach Such an approach integrates biological cultural and social factors in building unified theoretical understandings of the origin of ill health while contributing to the building of effective and equitable national health care systems NEW TO THIS EDITION All chapters have been updated or expanded NEW Chapter 8 The Biopolitics of Life Biotechnology Biocapital and Bioethics Revised text style for crisper language and livelier phrasing Added a brief signposting of chapter content at the beginning of each chapter and review questions about the key issues and concepts at the end of each chapter Expanded discussion of Zika Ebola gender and health PTSD and psychological anthropology geriatric health the contemporary vaccine controversy the internet and health and the health impacts of fracking and nuclear energy development Concluding chapter examines anthropologically informed strategies and visions for a healthier world

Proceedings of the Tenth Seminar of the IATS, 2003. Volume 10: Soundings in Tibetan Medicine, 2007-10-15 In this volume for the first time Tibetan Medicine is approached from a combination of anthropology and history These two disciplines appear to be vital to come to understand Tibetan medical knowledge and practice as being complex diverse and dynamic phenomena which reflect changing social and historical conditions at the same time while also appealing to or preserving an older canon of traditions Part One examines the impacts of various modernities in Tibet the Himalayan borderlands and the Tibetan exile including standardisation and scientization of Tibetan medicine Part Two investigates the transmission and professionalisation of medical knowledge and its role in identity construction Part Three traces connections between various body images practices and cosmologies in Tibetan societies and how mental and physical illnesses are understood Part Four critically presents new or little known histories commentarial practices textual narratives and oral sources for investigating the history of Tibetan medicine

Introducing Health Anthropology Merrill Singer, Hans A. Baer, Debbi Long, Alex Pavlotski, 2025-03-12 With a new title that reflects the broad scope and primary concerns of the field Introducing Health Anthropology A Discipline in Action Fourth Edition provides students with a first look at the dynamic discipline of medical and health anthropology The narrative is guided by four unifying themes First health anthropologists are heavily involved in the process of helping to better understand and change the world through their work in applied projects policy initiatives and advocacy Second the book presents the fundamental importance of culture and social relationships in health and sickness by demonstrating that experienced illness and diagnosed disease involve complex biosocial processes and that resolving them requires attention to a range of factors beyond biology Third through an examination of health inequality the book highlights the need for research and analyses that move beyond cultural or even ecological models of health toward comprehensive and holistic biosocial frameworks Finally the authors emphasize that physical and mental health are intimately related to the health of the environment on which humans depend for air food and the other resources that make life possible Introducing Health Anthropology gives students the tools to rethink how to achieve healthier populations effective and fully accessible healthcare systems and a sustainable world New to this Edition New Chapter 4 Human Evolution and Health examines the respective roles of genetics and sociocultural factors in health to navigate the welter of public misinformation on genetic determinism race and sex and gender minorities Significantly expanded discussion of reproductive health sex and gender and gender equity throughout the book reflects current and controversial issues in the U S Up to date examination of the relationship of climate change to health and social wellbeing offers students insights on how our physical world is changing and the causes of those changes Discussion of the global impact of COVID 19 throughout the text explores the enduring changes wrought by the pandemic on human societies      Mainstreaming the Marginalised Seemita Mohanty, 2021-09-06

This book offers a comprehensive view of the relationship between the Indian tribes and the mainstream. It covers key topics such as health, education, development, livelihood, disability, and culture, and presents new insights by focusing on the perspective of the 21st-century tribal youth of the country. The volume explores inclusive education for scheduled tribes, children, mainstreaming tribal children, mental health, and superstition, ageing and morbidity, and psychological distress among elderly tribal population, empowerment via handicraft livelihoods via non-timber forest products, the Forest Rights Act, the tribal sub-plan approach, tribal cuisine, and issues of food identity, myths, and feminism. The book combines fresh research viewpoints with ideas on implementable solutions that would facilitate a more inclusive development for one of the most marginalized communities while highlighting critical issues and concerns. An important intervention, this book will be useful to scholars and researchers of tribal studies, sociology, rural sociology, development studies, social anthropology, political sociology, politics, ethnic studies, sociolinguistics, education, and public policy and administration.

An Anthropology of Biomedicine Margaret M. Lock, Vinh-Kim Nguyen, 2011-09-09 An Anthropology of Biomedicine is an exciting new introduction to biomedicine and its global implications. Focusing on the ways in which the application of biomedical technologies bring about radical changes to societies at large, cultural anthropologist Margaret Lock and her co-author, physician and medical anthropologist Vinh Kim Nguyen, develop and integrate the thesis that the human body in health and illness is the elusive product of nature and culture that refuses to be pinned down. Introduces biomedicine from an anthropological perspective, exploring the entanglement of material bodies with history, environment, culture, and politics. Develops and integrates an original theory that the human body in health and illness is not an ontological given but a moveable, malleable entity. Makes extensive use of historical and contemporary ethnographic materials around the globe to illustrate the importance of this methodological approach. Integrates key new research data with more classical material covering the management of epidemics, famines, fertility, and birth by military doctors from colonial times on. Uses numerous case studies to illustrate concepts such as the global commodification of human bodies and body parts, modern forms of population, and the extension of biomedical technologies into domestic and intimate domains. Winner of the 2010 Prose Award for Archaeology and Anthropology.

Critical Medical Anthropology Merrill Singer, Hans Baer, 2018-10-26 The purpose of this book is to provide an introduction and overview to the critical perspective as it has evolved in medical anthropology over the last ten years. Standing as an opposition approach to conventional medical anthropology, critical medical anthropology has emphasized the importance of political and economic forces, including the exercise of power, in shaping health, disease, illness, experience, and health care.

Cultural Anthropology Richard H. Robbins, Rachel A. Dowty Beech, 2020-07-16 Now with SAGE Publishing. In a first of its kind format, Cultural Anthropology: A Problem-Based Approach is organized by problems and questions rather than topics, creating a natural discussion of traditional anthropological concerns such as kinship, caste, gender roles and religion This brief text promotes critical thinking through meaningful exercises case studies and simulations Students will learn how to analyze their own culture and gain the tools to understand the cultures of other societies The Eighth Edition has been thoroughly updated and reorganized to emphasize contemporary issues around social and economic inequality gender identity and more Included with this title The password protected Instructor Resource Site formally known as SAGE Edge offers access to all text specific resources including a test bank and editable chapter specific PowerPoint slides

Psychosocial Interventions for Health and Well-Being Girishwar Misra, 2018-07-27 This volume provides multifaceted and multidisciplinary insights into the growing field of health studies Providing inputs from the behavioural sciences as well as social sciences it discusses the issues of recovery from illness and growth and wellbeing as situated in social and eco cultural contexts and addresses the modalities of health related interventions in diverse contexts The specific themes taken up by the contributors are post trauma growth resilience gender and health distress and wellness indigenous healing counselling and psychotherapy disability related interventions self healing as well as health issues of special groups like adolescents and the elderly cancer patients and those suffering from other chronic illnesses Till recently the medical model has prevailed as the chief form of understanding health and illness This has led to marginalization of the context localization of all health and wellness components within the individual and to biological reductionism The contributions to this volume propose corrective measures and provide diverse approaches in a balanced manner This volume is useful for researchers and practitioners interested in health studies including the behavioural sciences social work medical anthropology and public health
