Congress. House. Committee on Armed Services, 1962 Dog Soldier of "Los Cerrillos" J.C. Cantle, 2015-08-26 In the 1900s technology was advancing at a speed which was at that time in Santa Fe as well as everywhere else not only very new but confusing and scary to many especially for the older folks that were comfortable with the way things were. Particularly it seemed so in most of New Mexico where tradition was fossilized in a state of maana tomorrow. What's the hurry? Like everything else with time people accepted what was new in their life and soon found these new technologies a real need. From small and large companies to each individual new electronic gadgets became both lifesavers as well as hindrances at times. Dog Soldier of Los Cerrillos encompasses the life of some old military combat veterans and their tributes to freedom as well as their unhealed wounds. For many the thousand yard stare stayed with them for years. Combat made many soldiers chain smoke, use drugs, and drink themselves drunk in hopes of reducing the pressure of always being in that life or death situation through every mission that would as time went on manifest itself into a lifetime of addiction. Cecil Franklin was no different. As a civilian who constantly fought his alcoholism, falling off of the wagon came and went as life's pressures grew or ebbed. Being Cheyenne and raised on the reservation in his early years was to teach him the old ways, but as he became a young man he had searched out a trade in hopes of assimilating into modern society and move from the poverty of the reservation. He was as were many other young men serving in the military and the war in Vietnam. By a stroke of luck he became the handler of a black Labrador called Jet and one of a five man tracker team that searched and hunted in what was sometimes called Indian Country behind enemy lines. After his service Cecil married, had a daughter, divorced, and raised his daughter on his own after moving to Santa Fe, New Mexico where his life took many turns. Comanche Ethnography Thomas W. Kavanagh, 2008 In the summer of 1933 in Lawton, Oklahoma a team of six anthropologists met with eighteen Comanche elders to record the latter's reminiscences of traditional Comanche culture. The depth and breadth of what the elderly Comanches recalled provides an inestimable source of knowledge for generations to come both within and beyond the Comanche community. This monumental volume makes available for the first time the largest archive of traditional cultural information on Comanches ever gathered by American anthropologists. Much of the Comanches' earlier world is presented here: religious stories, historical accounts, autobiographical remembrances, cosmology, the practice of war, everyday games, birth rituals, funerals, kinship relations, the organization of camps, material culture, and relations with other tribes. Thomas W. Kavanagh tracked down all known surviving notes from the Santa Fe Laboratory field party and collated and annotated the records, learning as much as possible about the Comanche elders who spoke with the anthropologists and when possible attributing pieces of information to the appropriate elders. In addition, this volume includes Robert H. Lowie's notes from his short 1912 visit to the Comanches The result stands as a legacy for both Comanches and those interested in learning more about them Herpetological Communities Norman J. Scott, 1982 Wildlife Research Report , 1972
