Literature and the Law of Nations, 1580-1680 Christopher N. Warren, 2015-05-28 Literature and the Law of Nations 1580 1680 is a literary history of international law in the age of Shakespeare Milton Grotius and Hobbes Seeking to revise the ways scholars understand early modern English literature in relation to the history of international law it argues that scholars of law and literature have tacitly accepted specious but politically consequential assumptions about whether international law is real law Literature and the Law of Nations shows how major writers of the English Renaissance deployed genres like epic tragedy comedy tragicomedy and history to solidify the canonical subjects and objects of modern international law By demonstrating how Renaissance literary genres informed modern categories like public international law private international law international legal personality and human rights the book over its seven chapters and conclusion helps early modern literary scholars think anew about the legal entailments of genre and scholars in law and literature long accustomed to treating all law with a single broad brush better confront the distinct complexities fault lines and variegated histories at the heart of international law Dramatic Publication in England, 1580-1640 Evelyn May Albright, 1927 Appendix to the House and Senate Journals ... Missouri. General Assembly, 1897 Consists of reports of state officers and departments issued as appendices to the House journals and the Senate journals from 1840 to 1867

Pfeiffer,2020-09-03 How did we first come to believe in a correspondence between writers lives and their works When did the person of the author both as context and target of textual interpretation come to matter so much to the way we read This book traces the development of author centrism back to the scholarship of early Renaissance humanists Working against allegoresis and other traditions of non historicizing textual reception they discovered the power of engaging ancient works through the speculative reconstruction of writers personalities and artistic motives To trace the multi lingual and eventually cross cultural rise of reading for the author this book presents four case studies of resolutely experimental texts by and about writers of high ambition in their respective generations Lorenzo Valla on the forger of the Donation of Constantine Erasmus on Saint Jerome the poet George Gascoigne on himself and Fulke Greville on Sir Philip Sidney An opening methodological chapter and exhortative conclusion frame these four studies with accounts of the central lexicon character intention ethos persona and the range of genre evidence that contemporaries used to discern and articulate authorial character and purpose Constellated throughout with examples from the works of major contemporaries including John Aubrey John Hayward Galileo Machiavelli and Shakespeare this volume resurrects a vibrant culture of biographism continuous with modern popular practice and yet radically more nuanced in its strategic reliance on the explanatory power of probabilism and historical conjecture the discursive middle ground now obscured from view by the post Enlightenment binaries of truth and fiction history and story fact and fable Comic Spenser Victoria Coldham-Fussell,2020-03-10 Comic Spenser explains how the deep rooted cultural bias against humour has skewed interpretation of The Faerie Queene since its first publication As well as bringing a comic perspective to new areas of the poem this study explores profound connections between humour faith and allegory Census Reports: Population United States.
