Richardson, 2007-01-01 Renaissance art history is traditionally identified with Italian centers of production and Florence in particular Instead this book explores the dynamic interchange between European artistic centers and artists and the trade in works of art It also considers the impact of differing locations on art and artists and some of the economic political and cultural factors crucial to the emergence of an artistic center During c 1420 1520 no city or court could succeed in isolation and so artists operated within a network of interests and local and international identities The case studies presented in this book portray the Renaissance as an exciting international phenomenon with cities and courts inextricably bound together in a web of economic and political interests Journal of the Society of Arts Royal Society of Arts (Great Britain), 1904 Journal of the Society of Arts , 1904 Modern Perspectives in Western Art History W. Eugene Kleinbauer, Medieval Academy of America, 1989-01-01 A collection of essays that reflect the breadth of twentieth century scholarship in art history Kleinbauer has sought to illustrate the variety of methods scholars have developed for conveying the unfolding of the arts in the Western world Originally published by Holt Rinehart and Winston 1971 World's Work and Play , 1905 A Biographical History of the Five Arts being memoirs of the lives and works of eminent painters, engravers, sculptors and architects... SPOONER, 1867 Legends of the Monastic Orders as Represented in the Fine Arts Mrs. Jameson (Anna), 1876 The Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science, Art, and Finance , 1874 The Art Interchange , 1896 The Craft of Art Georgia Museum of Art, 1995 In this collection of nine essays some of the preeminent art historians in the United States consider the relationship between art and craft between the creative idea and its realization in Renaissance and Baroque Italy The essays all previously unpublished are devoted to the pictorial arts and are accompanied by nearly 150 illustrations Examining works by such artists as Michelangelo Titian Volterrano Giovanni di Paolo and Annibale Carracci along with aspects of the artists creative processes work habits and aesthetic convictions the essayists explore the ways in which art was conceived and produced at a time when collaboration with pupils assistants or independent masters was an accepted part of the artistic process The consensus of the contributors amounts to a revision or at least a qualification of Bernard Berenson's interpretation of the emergent Renaissance ideal of individual genius as a measure of original artistic achievement we must accord greater influence to the collaborative appropriative conventions and practices of the craft workshop which persisted into and beyond the Renaissance from its origins in the Middle Ages. Consequently we must acknowledge the sometimes rather ordinary beginnings of some of the world's great works of art and admission say the contributors that will open new avenues of study and enhance our understanding of the complex connections between invention and execution. With one exception these essays were delivered as lectures in conjunction with the exhibition The Artists and Artisans of Florence Works from the Horne Museum hosted by the Georgia Museum of Art in the fall of 1992.
