The Unaffordable Price of Static Decision-making Models Fouad El Ouardighi, Gustav Feichtinger, 2025-07-01 At the 15th Viennese Workshop on Optimal Control and Dynamic Games held in July 2022 experts in economics and the management sciences identified a concerning trend static decision making models while less effective than dynamic ones are becoming increasingly prevalent This book aims to address the economic and social costs associated with reliance on static models and to demonstrate the advantages of applying dynamic approaches Static models may be easier to formulate but they often overlook the long term consequences of decisions promoting myopic practices that can lead to poor outcomes In contrast dynamic models foster a more comprehensive perspective enabling foresight in decision making which is crucial for issues involving stock variables such as pollution reputation and inventory The book explores the limitations of static models including their inability to capture long term outcomes history dependent solutions and the impact of abrupt contextual changes It also highlights recent advances in dynamic modeling techniques that can enhance accuracy and help adapt to complex decision making environments By promoting the shift from static to dynamic models this book aspires to open new research opportunities and provide valuable insights for researchers students policymakers and managers in the fields of economics and the management sciences

Selection of Decision-Making Models in Intergovernmental Organizations: A Poliheuristic Approach to Political Regime Type Influence Timothy Tamutana Tamunang, 2021-03-15 Until recently Political Psychology of International Relations has attracted very few scholars attention in explaining states behaviors and attitudes as a juridical person In reality international relations scholarly works especially related to Intergovernmental organizations have shown that rational structural and functional accounts have failed to fully capture the underline nature of these institutions A poliheuristic approach doesn t only solve these theoretical shortcomings but also allows for the close examination of states attitudes and behaviors in making choices that would serve as tools for expected interests This gives a chance to retrospect how were these bodies created what were the environmental factors that led to their formations and the nature of founders Since organizations are adepts of metamorphosis it is interesting to watch their overall changes This book present not only the existing views within the subject but also provides additional information

which the author has proven to be relevant

How to Make a Clipper Ship Model E. Armitage McCann,1995-06-01 Create a model of the Sovereign of the Seas Directions for fashioning the hull creating deck furnishings and other touches Dynamics of decision making: from evidence to preference and belief Erica Yu,David A. Lagnado,2014-10-24 At the core of the many debates throughout cognitive science concerning how decisions are made are the processes governing the time course of preference formation and decision From perceptual choices such as whether the signal on a radar screen indicates an enemy missile or a spot on a CT scan indicates a tumor to cognitive value based decisions such as selecting an agreeable flatmate or deciding the guilt of a defendant significant and everyday decisions are dynamic over time Phenomena such as decoy effects preference reversals and order effects are still puzzling researchers For example in a legal context jurors receive discrete pieces of evidence in sequence and must integrate these pieces together to reach a singular verdict From a standard Bayesian viewpoint the order in which people receive the evidence should not influence their final decision and yet order effects seem a robust empirical phenomena in many decision contexts Current research on how decisions unfold especially in a dynamic environment is advancing our theoretical understanding of decision making This Research Topic aims to review and further explore the time course of a decision from how prior beliefs are formed to how those beliefs are used and updated over time towards the formation of preferences and choices and post decision processes and effects Research literatures encompassing varied approaches to the time scale of decisions will be brought into scope a Speeded decisions and post decision processes that require the accumulation of noisy and possibly non stationary perceptual evidence e g randomly moving dots stimuli within a few seconds with or without temporal uncertainty b Temporally extended value based decisions that integrate feedback values e g gambling machines and internally generated decision criteria e g when one switches attention selectively between the various aspects of several choice alternatives c Temporally extended belief based decisions that build on the integration of evidence which interacts with the decision maker s belief system towards the updating of the beliefs and the formation of judgments and preferences as in the legal context Research that emphasizes theoretical concerns including optimality analysis and mechanisms underlying the decision process both neural and cognitive is presented as well as research that combines experimental and computational levels of analysis
