Making Music Modern Carol J. Oja, 2000-11-16 New York City witnessed a dazzling burst of creativity in the 1920s In this pathbreaking study Carol J Oja explores this artistic renaissance from the perspective of composers of classical and modern music who along with writers painters and jazz musicians were at the heart of early modernism in America She also illustrates how the aesthetic attitudes and institutional structures from the 1920s left a deep imprint on the arts over the 20th century Aaron Copland George Gershwin Ruth Crawford Seeger Virgil Thomson William Grant Still Edgar Var se Henry Cowell Leo Ornstein Marion Bauer George Antheil these were the leaders of a talented new generation of American composers whose efforts made New York City the center of new music in the country They founded composer societies such as the International Composers Guild the League of Composers the Pan American Association and the Copland Sessions Concerts to promote the performance of their music and they nimbly negotiated cultural boundaries aiming for recognition in Western Europe as much as at home They showed exceptional skill at marketing their work Drawing on extensive archival material including interviews correspondence popular periodicals and little known music manuscripts Oja provides a new perspective on the period and a compelling collective portrait of the figures puncturing many longstanding myths American composers active in New York during the 1920s are explored in relation to the Machine Age and American Dada the impact of spirituality on American dissonance the crucial behind the scenes role of women as patrons and promoters of modernist music cross currents between jazz and concert music the critical reception of modernist music especially in the writings of Carl Van Vechten and Paul Rosenfeld and the international impulse behind neoclassicism The book also examines the persistent biases of the time particularly anti Semitism gender stereotyping and longstanding racial attitudes Making Aboriginal Men and Music in Central Australia Ase Ottosson, 2020-05-31 This detailed ethnographic study explores the intercultural crafting of contemporary forms of Aboriginal manhood in the world of country rock and reggae music making in Central Australia Focusing on four different musical contexts an Aboriginal recording studio remote Aboriginal settlements small non indigenous towns and tours beyond the musicians homeland the author challenges existing scholarly political and popular understandings of Australian Aboriginal music men and related indigenous matters in terms of radical social cultural and racial difference Based on extensive anthropological field research among Aboriginal rock country and reggae musicians in small towns and remote desert settlements in Central Australia the book investigates how Aboriginal musicians experience and articulate various aspects of their male and indigenous sense of selves as they make music and engage with indigenous and non indigenous people practices places and sets of values Making Aboriginal Men and Music is a highly original intimate study which advances our understanding of contemporary indigenous and male identity formation within Aboriginal Australian society Providing new analytical insights for scholars and students in fields such as social and cultural anthropology cultural studies popular music and gender studies this engaging text makes a significant contribution to the study of indigenous identity formation in remote Australia and beyond What to Expect: The Second Year Heidi

The War on Music John Mauceri, 2022-04-26 A prominent conductor explores how aesthetic criteria masked the political goals of countries during the three great wars of the past century This book offers a major reassessment of classical music in the twentieth century John Mauceri argues that the history of music during this span was shaped by three major wars of that century World War I World War II and the Cold War Probing why so few works have been added to the canon since 1930 Mauceri examines the trajectories of great composers who following World War I created voices that were unique and versatile but superficially simpler He contends that the fate of composers during World War II is inextricably linked to the political goals of their respective governments resulting in the silencing of experimental music in Germany Italy and Russia the exodus of composers to America and the sudden return of experimental music what he calls the institutional avant garde as the lingua franca of classical music in the West during the Cold War

Music for Inclusion and Healing in Schools and Beyond Pete Dale, Pamela Burnard, Raphael Travis, 2023 Contemporary popular musics such as hip hop techno grime EDM drill house and so on are among the most listened to in the world and yet typically they are barely covered in the music classroom if at all This needs to be better reflected in educational cultural and social terms In wider society these musics are often treated as if they are the causative for the social dysfunction that in fact they merely reflect At the same time projects programmes and practices of such contemporary popular musics can and have supported wellness and healing Editors Pete Dale Pamela Burnard and Raphael Travis Jr argue that there is huge potential here for enhanced inclusion Music for Inclusion and Healing in Schools and Beyond explains that when this music is included in the school curriculum or utilised in therapeutic contexts huge leaps in healing and wellness can be achieved as well as educational attainment and enjoyment in school contexts This unique book seeks to account for those positive impacts theorise them and help to extend and advance their impact Contributing authors invite readers to re think the possibilities and potentials for contemporary popular musics to gain the prestige that their actual popularity would suggest they should already command The various contributors of this book are from diverse ethnic social and academic backgrounds and this title includes several chapters from practitioners who have not written about the work they do before now Readers will learn not only about the impact of projects that utilize such music but also ideas about how that impact can best be measured
