Making Of Canada:

Making Canada New Dean Irvine, Vanessa Lent, Bart Vautour, 2017-01-01 An examination of the connections between modernist writers and editorial activities Making Canada New draws links among new and old media collaborative labour emergent scholars and scholarships and digital modernisms In doing so the collection reveals that renovating modernisms does not need to depend on the fabrication of completely new modes of scholarship Rather it is the repurposing of already existing practices and combining them with others whether old or new print or digital that instigates a process of continuous renewal Critical to this process of renewal is the intermingling of print and digital research methods and the coordination of more popular modes of literary scholarship with less frequented ones such as bibliography textual studies and editing Making Canada New tracks the editorial renovation of modernism as a digital phenomenon while speaking to the continued production of print editions The Making of Canada (Classic Reprint) A. G. (Arthur Granville) 1850 Bradley, 2016-08-28 Pulp and Paper Magazine of Canada ,1929 The Global Politics of Poverty in Canada Will Langford, 2021-01-16 In the 1960s and 1970s in the midst of the Cold War and an international decolonization movement development advocates believed that poverty could be ended at home and abroad The Global Politics of Poverty in Canada explores the relationship between poverty democracy and development during this remarkable period Will Langford analyzes three Canadian development programs that unfolded on local regional and international scales He reveals the interconnections of anti-poverty activism carried out by the Company of Young Canadians among M tis in northern Alberta and francophones in Montreal by the Cape Breton Development Corporation and by Canadian University Service Overseas in Tanzania In dialogue with the New Left liberal reformers committed to development programs they believed would empower the poor to confront their own poverty and thereby foster a more meaningful democracy However democracy and development proved to be fundamentally contested and development programs stopped short of amending capitalist social relations and the inequalities they engendered The Global Politics of Poverty in Canada explores how Canadians engaged in informal and formal politics in the course of their everyday lives locally and transnationally Langford provides an enduring record of otherwise fleeting anti poverty programs and their effects the lived activism and opinions of development workers Canada James M. too often gave way to the drudgery of doing the chores necessary to make the schools self sustaining Child neglect was institutionalized and the lack of supervision created situations where students were prey to sexual and physical abusers Legal action by the schools former students led to the creation of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada in 2008 The product of over six years of research the Commission's final report outlines the history and legacy of the schools and charts a pathway towards reconciliation Canada's Residential Schools The History Part 2 1939 to 2000 carries the story of the residential school system from the end of the Great Depression to the closing of the last remaining schools in the late 1990s It demonstrates that the underfunding and unsafe living conditions that characterized the early history of the schools continued into an era of unprecedented growth and prosperity for most Canadians A miserly funding formula meant that into the late 1950s school meals fell short of the Canada Food Rules Overcrowding poor sanitation and a failure to adhere to fire safety rules were common problems throughout this period While government officials had come to view the schools as costly and inefficient the churches were reluctant to countenance their closure It was not until the late 1960s that the federal government finally wrested control of the system away from the churches Government plans to turn First Nations education over to the provinces met with opposition from Aboriginal organizations that were seeking Indian Control of Indian Education Following parent led occupation of a school in Alberta many of the remaining schools came under Aboriginal administration The closing of the schools coincided with a growing number of convictions of former staff members on charges of sexually abusing students These trials revealed the degree to which sexual abuse at the schools had been covered up in the past Former students who came to refer to themselves as Survivors established regional and national organizations and provided much of the leadership for the campaign that led to the federal government issuing in 2008 an apology to the former students Meeting of the Canada-United States Interparliamentary Group United States. Pammett, Christopher Dornan, 2022-09-15 Media pundits and students of Canadian politics alike have strived to interpret the relevance of the 2021 federal election held in the midst of a global pandemic and reinforcing the existing parliamentary balance of power This timely volume explains the election s import offering an insightful account of Canadian democracy in an age of increasing rancour and polarization and explaining why the Liberals did not win a majority government In a unique collaboration some of the country s most distinguished political scientists pollsters and journalists examine the parties issues machinery and media of Canadian electoral politics teasing out the complexities and nuances of what was seen to be a premature federal election The Canadian Federal Election of 2021 analyzes the campaigns of the major parties and the patterns of voting behaviour A special feature of this book is its focus on issues of diversity and difference in the partisan theatre the voting patterns of gendered Indigenous and newly immigrant Canadians as well as the millennial generation These chapters offer important lessons for the present and for the election to come A must read for students journalists those working at affiliated think tanks and institutes and engaged citizens this thoughtful expos will interest international observers and anyone following the Canadian political landscape

Constitutional Predicament Curtis Cook,1994-05-16 Canada's fifth effort at mega constitutional politics was a period of popular discussion and leadership negotiation that ran from the defeat in 1990 of the Meech Lake Accord through the Charlottetown Accord and the referendum of 26 October 1992 Constitutional Predicament explores the referendum in relation to the democratic process nationalism Canadian Aboriginal Qu b cois and pluralism principles of constitutionalism constitution making and popular participation in constitution making the role of the Charter and Supreme Court future constitutional efforts and worldwide trends The contributors agree that Canadian voters rejected the Charlottetown proposals because they disapproved of both their content and the procedure by which they were drawn up They conclude that while Quebec remains the chief problem for the Canadian constitution Quebec was not the sole constitutional issue or the sole issue which determined how Canadians voted The constitutional process did help make it apparent that Canada is multinational and that each of the three major nations has valid claims on the political system The contributors offer contrasting views on how the Charlottetown Accord came to read as it does why negotiators at Charlottetown so misjudged public opinion and the prognosis for further constitution making Readers may also see the referendum vote as a preview of the vote in the general election of October 1993 which unseated the Tories one year later almost to the day Taken together with the accompanying provocative commentaries the essays will be of specific interest to students of Canadian politics and constitutional affairs The complete text of the Charlottetown Accord is included in an appendix The contributors and commentators are Janet Ajzenstat Alan C Cairns Curtis Cook Barry Cooper Peter Emberley David Hendrickson Robert J Jackson Juan Lindau F L Morton Alain No l and James Tully
