Metropolitan Governance and Spatial Planning Willem Salet, Anton Kreukels, 2002 Metropolitan Governance and Spatial Planning W. G. M. Salet, Anton Kreukels, 2002 Governance and City Regions Karsten Zimmermann, Patricia Feiertag, 2021-12-24 City regions are areas where the daily journeys for work shopping and leisure frequently cross administrative boundaries They are seen as engines of the national economy but are also facing congestion and disparities Thus all over the world governments attempt to increase problem solving capacities in city regions by institutional reform and a shift of functions This book analyses the recent reforms and changes in the governance of city regions in France Germany and Italy It covers themes such as the impact of austerity measures territorial development planning and state modernisation The authors provide a systematic cross country perspective on two levels between six city regions and between the national policy frameworks in these three countries They use a solid comparative framework which refers to the four dimensions functions institutions and governance ideas and space They describe the course of the reforms the motivations and the results and consequently they question the widespread metropolitan fever or resurgence of city regions and provide a better understanding of recent changes in city regional governance in Europe The primary readership will be researchers and master students in planning urban studies urban geography political science and governance studies especially those interested in metropolitan regions and or decentralisation Due to the uniqueness of the work the book will be of particular interest to scholars working on the comparative European dimension of territorial governance and planning The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license Metropolitan Regions, Planning and Governance Karsten Zimmermann, Daniel Galland, John Harrison, 2019-10-24 The aim of this book is to investigate contemporary processes of metropolitan change and approaches to planning and governing metropolitan regions To do so it focuses on four central tenets of metropolitan change in terms of planning and governance institutional approaches policy mobilities spatial imaginaries and planning styles The book's main contribution lies in providing readers with a new conceptual and analytical framework for researching contemporary dynamics in metropolitan regions It will chiefly benefit researchers and students in planning urban studies policy and governance studies especially those interested in metropolitan regions The relentless pace of urban change in globalization poses fundamental questions about how to best plan and govern 21st century metropolitan regions The problem for metropolitan regions especially for those with policy and decision making responsibilities is a growing recognition that these spaces are typically reliant on inadequate urban economic infrastructure and fragmented planning and governance arrangements Moreover as the demand for more appropriate i.e. more flexible networked and smart forms of planning and governance increases new expressions of territorial cooperation and conflict are emerging around issues and agendas of development infrastructure expansion and the collective provision of services European Dimension of Metropolitan Policies Carola Fricke, 2019-03-23 This book questions how policies for the metropolis become Europeanised The book analyses how spatial concepts and political ideas permeate the European multi level system Through an interpretive comparison of five contexts the book provides an overview of the European orientation tracing two interdependent developments First the book examines references to Europe in national and subnational policies In French and German policies metropolitan regions are increasingly framed as being central not only for inter municipal coordination but also as nodes within the European space Moreover Europeanised metropolitan regions such as Lyon and Stuttgart develop European strategies The second development shows how metropolitan regions appear as actors and issues in the European policy arena contributing to a tentative and implicit metropolitan dimension This multi scalar analysis is of interest for scholars and practitioners specialised in metropolitan regions European urban and regional policies geography and related areas

Metropolitan Governance Hubert Heinelt, Eran Razin, Karsten Zimmermann, 2011-05-09 Metropolregionen gelten als Motoren konomischen Wachstums Ihre politisch administrativen Strukturen ber cksichtigen die enge Verflechtung der Ballungsr ume zumeist jedoch nicht So kommt es dass die Umlandgemeinden wirtschaftlich kraftvoller und politisch selbstbewusster geworden sind w hrend die Kernst dte durch die gro r umige Zersiedelung zunehmend belastet werden In sieben Fallstudien aus Israel und Deutschland analysiert der Band die Herausforderungen f r eine Metropolenpolitik

Sustainable City Regions: Tetsuo Kidokoro, Noboru Harata, L.P. Subanu, J. Jessen, A. Motte, E.P. Seltzer, 2008-08-27 How should regional cities develop regional development strategies for their sustainable future How can such strategies work effectively Regional cities are now at a crossroads will they decline or be regenerated under the impacts of globalization Their sustainable regeneration as creative regional centers will play a decisive role in their sustainable development as a whole but only with viable regional spatial strategies that strengthen the network of cities and their hinterlands The concern here lies in urban regeneration and strategic spatial planning at the city region level This book records observations of 12 dynamically changing regional cities in Asia Europe and the United States The form of the city region urban regeneration and strategic spatial planning as well as the local and regional governance of each city are examined Through this empirical and comparative analysis essential lessons are drawn which will add a new perspective to discussions on the sustainable future of regional cities in an age of globalization

Globalization and Urban Implosion Remo Dalla Longa, 2009-12-03 In the past twenty years, globalization has rendered many economic and social urban functions obsolete. Large cities face a form of implosion which necessitates a rethinking of both contents and containers. This book will mainly concentrate on the latter aspect. Thus, the need to replace old functions with new ones is clear, especially within complex urban areas where the connections between public and private assets are strongest. In this context, new forms of urban models, Public Private Partnerships, tools and drivers, various decision makers who have to operate within complex urban areas have to be considered. Hence, the creation or destruction of values depends on how new functions replace old ones. This also explains new and important forms of competitive advantage among large globalized cities. This book presents a model of complex urban interventions. Based on a literature review, the model integrates different forms of Public Private Partnerships, PPPs, new tools and instruments associated with governance issues, challenges and new profiles of public drivers. By analyzing a number of European urban centers, this book illustrates the implementation of the general model in specific case studies and furthermore shows the essential differences between post-socialist and Western cities.

Cities in Transition Nirmala Rao, 2008-01-07 This is an up-to-date and topical treatment of how six major cities in Europe, North America and Asia are coping with the new demands on urban government. Population expansion, the migration of new peoples and disparities between cities and suburbs are longstanding features of the urban crisis. Today, city governments also face demands for popular participation and better public services while they struggle to position themselves in the new world economy. While each of the cities is located in its unique historical setting, the emphasis of the book is upon the common dilemmas raised by major planning problems and the search for more suitable approaches to governance and citizen involvement. A principal theme is the re-engineering of institutional structures designed to foster local responsiveness and popular participation The discussion is set in the context of the globalizing forces that have impacted to different degrees at different times upon London Tokyo Toronto Berlin Hyderabad and Atlanta Cities in Transition is a major and original addition to the comparative literature on urban governance OECD Territorial Reviews: Venice, Italy 2010

OECD,2010-06-17 This Review of Venice Italy offers a comprehensive assessment of the city region s economy and the extent to which its land use labour market and environmental policies embrace a metropolitan vision Overcoming

Fragmentation in Southeast Europe Panayiotis Getimis,2017-11-28 With the expansion of the European Union the countries of Southeast Europe have finally been brought together within one socio political entity The restructuring of these economies following globalization and neoliberalization has meant that this region has become much more open to geopolitical shifts and trends While the various countries have all entered into the slow process of European integration the historic fragmentation of this region has led to various conflicts and contradictions in the restructuring and transition of national economies This volume provides a theoretical and comparative overview which examines the prospects for spatial cohesion in this region With the need to handle persisting problems and conflicts from the past while coping with new economic and political structures Southeast Europe proves to be a challenging yet fruitful testing ground for how best to overcome fragmentation and establish a long term process of social and economic integration Territorial Governance

Governance in Transition Ján Buček,Andrew Ryder,2015-04-15 This book looks at experience in government restructuring and devolution from a variety of national and international perspectives both within the European Union and elsewhere focusing on lessons learned and ways forward Since the 1980s there has been a global trend to give more power to local governments Even in Korea and the United Kingdom the most centralised countries in the OECD local government powers have increased with substantial economic benefits Within the European Union the principle of subsidiarity has enshrined the idea of devolution New member states particularly in central and eastern Europe have significantly created new and self sufficient local and regional governments However this process has been complicated Devolution is not a panacea in its own right and need not lead to economic growth While it can encourage savings through collaboration it can also lead to confused lines of authority and can complicate policy formation and implantation Devolution can strain local budgets forcing local governments to rely on their own sources of finance rather than central government transfers Suburbanisation rural depopulation the growth of some regions and the decline of others have raised new problems particularly related to inter governmental cooperation among local governments and different levels of government In many cases an increased number of governments has increased administrative costs

Employment Deconcentration in European Metropolitan Areas Eran Razin,Martin Dijst,Carmen Vázquez,2007-09-06 European metropolitan areas have experienced a marked reorganization associated with the processes of globalization and the European integration of economic activities on various spatial scales Much of this change is particularly evident at the edge of central cities further away at suburban locations and on the fringes of expanding metropolitan areas These spatial processes of urban expansion sprawling development and employment deconcentration present constant challenges to urban quality of life raising concerns about excessive consumption of land and energy traffic congestion and so forth These concerns prompt the formulation of public policies at various levels of government European Union agencies national and sub national public authorities The challenges posed by the spatial reorganization of economic activities within European metropolitan areas and their implications for the quality of life inspired the research project sponsored by the European Commission 5th Framework entitled Spatial Deconcentration of Economic Land Use and Quality of Life in European Metropolitan Areas SELMA The primary goal of SELMA was to design urban planning and management strategies to ensure the maintenance of the quality of life in European metropolitan areas To this end three broad activities were defined The first focused on the identification and analysis of the driving forces and dynamics behind the process of economic land use deconcentration in metropolitan areas An analysis of the impacts of these processes on urban quality of life formed the heart of the second activity
