Oystercatcher From Individuals To Populations:

The Oystercatcher John Goss-Custard, 1996 This book reviews what is known about the behavior and population ecology of a popular shorebird from a scientific conservation perspective The plight of this bird highlights the many conflicts of interest in coastal zones between human activities such as shellfishing land reclamation barrage construction and industrial pollution and the needs of wildlife for food and suitable habitats As well as detailing Oystercatcher natural history including the well known specialization in feeding technique shown by individuals the authors use their field studies of individual variations in behaviour to produce population models This novel approach provides tools for predicting how populations will respond to the many environmental changes to which the coastal zone is subject It thus can play a role in coastal management schemes that seek to balance the needs of people and wildlife and suggests that the same methods can be applied in other situations The volume contains fifteen well integrated chapters by an international team of contributors and is fully referenced

Advances in the Study of Behavior, 2014-05-16 Advances in the Study of Behavior was initiated over 40 years ago to serve the increasing number of scientists engaged in the study of animal behavior That number is still expanding This volume makes another important contribution to the development of the field by presenting theoretical ideas and research to those studying animal behavior and to their colleagues in neighboring fields Initiated over 40 years ago to serve the increasing number of scientists engaged in the study of animal behavior Makes another important contribution to the development of the field Presents theoretical ideas and research to those studying animal behavior and to their colleagues in neighboring fields

Shorebirds Jan van de Kam, Bruno Ens, Theunis Piersma, Leo Zwarts, 2017-03-27 Shorebirds are the most visible inhabitants of coastal wetlands worldwide Many undertake spectacularly long flights between their wintering and breeding grounds embodying the miracle of long distance migration in a profound way In this illustrated behavioural ecology the migration feeding and breeding of these birds are explained in a comprehensive but simple and visually stunning form The core of the book is based on studies of shorebirds and other waterbirds such as ducks geese and gulls that migrate along the East Atlantic Flyway The emphasis is on those using the Dutch German and Danish Wadden Sea examples from the rest of the world are also included The authors are experts in the fields of bird migration shorebird behaviour and intertidal ecology and have contributed much to our current understanding of these subjects The 300 magnificent portraits of waterbirds in action were taken by Jan van de Kam one of The Netherlands foremost wildlife photographers

Bioeconomic Modelling and Valuation of Exploited Marine Ecosystems J.C.J.M. van den Bergh, J. Hoekstra, R. Imeson, P.A.L.D. Nunes, A.T. de Blaeij, 2006-06-19 Economic dimensions have been somewhat neglected in research on nature policy and management of marine ecosystem exploitation The current book aims to fill this gap It examines the mismatches of natural socio economic and regulatory processes and regimes in time and space This involves dealing with the complexity and uncertainty that are inherent to the interaction of marine ecosystems and economic systems The approach adopted is based on the idea that the design of sustainability policies requires an integration of insights from resource environmental and ecological economics on the one hand and marine biology and environmental sciences on the other hand. For this purpose use is made of integrated assessment on the basis of theoretical and applied mathematical models. The book is the result of a large project hosted by the Department of Spatial Economics of the Free University in Amsterdam under the supervision of the first author. The project received funding from the Netherlands Organisation for Scientific Research (NWO) through a priority program titled Sustainable Use and Conservation of Marine Living Resources which was initiated and coordinated by Prof. Wim Wolff of the University of Groningen. The work reported here has greatly benefited from external advice given by marine biologists who participated in this research program.

From Individual Behaviour to Population Ecology William J. Sutherland, 1996. Population dynamics and animal behaviour are two subjects which have developed almost independently despite widespread acceptance of their interrelationship. This study aims to provide a framework for combining both fields of research. It also considers a range of conservation issues.

Behaviour and Conservation L. Morris Gosling, William J. Sutherland, 2000-02-24. Shows how an understanding of behaviour is essential in the conservation of animals.

Behavioural Ecology John R. Krebs, Nicholas B. Davies, 2009-07-17. Intended for graduate and upper level undergraduate courses in behavioural ecology where students are already familiar with the basic ideas, this book continues to define the subject. A completely new set of contributions has been brought together once more to take account of the many exciting new developments in the field. Each chapter presents a balanced view of the subject integrating a clear exposition of the theory with a critical discussion of how predictions have been tested by experiments and comparative studies. In addition, the book points to unreconciled issues and possible future developments. Edited by two of the most highly regarded experts in the field, this new volume contains contributions from an international authorship and continues the tradition of clarity and accessibility established by the three previous editions. The latest edition of a classic in behavioural ecology. Divided into three sections: Mechanisms and Individual Behaviour; From Individual Behaviour to Social Systems and Life Histories; Phylogenies and Populations. Contributions from the world's leading researchers.

Temporal Dimensions of Landscape Ecology John A. Bissonette, Ilse Storch, 2007-08-08. Over the past twenty-five years the effects of the spatial distribution and scaling of resources on animal populations have been increasingly studied in wildlife biology, landscape ecology, conservation biology and related fields. However, spatial patterns change over time. In Temporal Dimensions of Landscape Ecology, Wildlife Responses to Variable Resources, the authors discuss the effects that temporal changes in resources have on animal populations. Resource availability and quality are not distributed homogeneously over time, depending for example on predictable changes in seasons, mating and birthing cycles, unpredictable resource pulses and weather-related phenomena, ecological disturbances and historical legacies. Temporal Dimensions of Landscape Ecology brings together chapters that address the idea of current as well as historical temporal influences on resource availability quality and distribution The authors draw attention to the neglected temporal issues so important to understanding species and community responses This book will be of interest to both wildlife and conservation students and practitioners working with temporal and spatial scale issues Effect of Habitat Loss and Change on Waterbirds Moisés Armando Luis Martínez, Centre for Ecology and Hydrology (Great Britain), 1997 Handbook of Bird Biology Irby J. Lovette, John W. Federal Register, 2013-04 Population Limitation in Birds Ian Newton, 1998-04-08 This book meets the demand for a comprehensive introduction to understanding the processes of population limitation. Recognized world-wide as a respected biologist and communicator, Dr Ian Newton has now written a clear and detailed treatise on local-scale population-limiting factors in birds. It is based almost entirely on results from field studies though it is set in a contemporary theoretical framework. The 16 chapters fall under three major section headings: Behavior and Density Regulation, Natural Limiting Factors and Human Impacts. Population Limitation in Birds serves as a needed resource expanding on Dr David Lacks' research in this area of ornithology in the 1950s. It includes numerous line diagrams and beautiful illustrations by acclaimed wildlife artist Keith Brockie. Provides a sorely needed introduction to a long-established core subject in ornithology. Focuses on local-scale factors. Written by a well-known biologist and effective communicator. Includes numerous line diagrams and beautiful illustrations by acclaimed wildlife artist Keith Brockie.

Challenges in Estuarine and Coastal Science John Humphreys, Sally Little, 2022-03-07 Estuarine and coastal waters are acknowledged centres for anthropogenic impacts. Superimposed on the complex natural interactions between land, rivers and sea are the myriad consequences of human activity, a spectrum ranging from locally polluting effluents to some of the severest consequences of global climate change. For practitioners, academics and students in the field of coastal science and policy, this timely book examines and exemplifies current and future challenges from upper estuaries to open coasts and adjacent seas from tropical to temperate latitudes from Europe to Australia. This authoritative volume marks the 50th anniversary of the Estuarine and Coastal Sciences Association. Drawing on the expertise of more than 60 specialist contributors, individual chapters address coastal erosion and deposition, open shores to estuaries and deltas, marine plastics, coastal squeeze and habitat loss, tidal freshwater saline incursion and estuarine squeeze, restoration, management using remote data collection, carbon storage, species distribution and non-natives, shorebirds, modelling environmental change, physical processes such as sediments and modelling sea level rise and estuarine tidal dynamics, estuaries as fish nurseries, policy versus reality in coastal conservation, developments in estuarine, coastal and marine management. In addition to providing an overview of current scientific understanding, the material gathered here offers a clear-eyed perspective on what needs to be done to protect these fragile and vital ecosystems.

Waterbirds Around the World G. C. Boere, Colin A. Galbraith, David A. Stroud, 2006 This book is the outcome of a major international conference on waterbirds held in Edinburgh in April 2004.
