Moral Enterprise Literature and Education in Antebellum America by Derek Pacheco investigates an important moment in the history of professional authorship Pacheco uses New England literary reformers Horace Mann Nathaniel Hawthorne Elizabeth Peabody and Margaret Fuller to argue that writers came to see in educational reform and the publication venues emerging in connection with it a means to encourage popular authorship while validating literary work as a profession Although today s schools are staffed by systematically trained and institutionally sanctioned teachers in the unregulated decentralized world of antebellum America literary men and women sought the financial stability of teaching while claiming it as moral grounds for the pursuit of greater literary fame Examining the ethically redemptive and potentially lucrative definition of antebellum author as educator this book traces the way these literary reformers aimed not merely at social reform through literature but also at the reform of literature itself by employing a wide array of practices authoring editing publishing and distributing printed texts brought together under the aegis of modern democratic education Moral Enterprise identifies such endeavors by their dual valence as bold reformist undertakings and economic ventures exploring literary texts as educational commodities that might act as entry points into and ways to tame what Mann characterized as the Alexandrian library of American print culture      Utopian Imaginings Victoria W. Congress. House. Committee on the Judiciary. Subcommittee on Immigration and Claims,1999      Child Care Justice Maurice Sykes,Kyra Ostendorf,2022 Join the authors of this book in starting a movement of hope and possibility for an antiracist child care and early childhood education system This volume disrupts mental models regarding where the work of early care and education began with enslaved African women and how the stigma of that beginning relegates present day child care workers to a low status low wage field of practice Expert authors contribute their wisdom experience research and practical knowledge on issues related to equity and social justice They examine the oppressive historical political economic educational and cultural systems that continue to oppress early care educators and by extension racialized children and children in poverty The interrogation and litigation of past and

Patrick Heidkamp, John Morrissey, 2018-09-28 Coastal zones represent a frontline in the battle for sustainability as coastal communities face unprecedented economic challenges Coastal ecosystems are subject to overuse loss of resilience and increased vulnerability This book aims to interrogate the multi scalar complexities in creating a more sustainable coastal zone Sustainability transitions are geographical processes which happen in situated particular places However much contemporary discussion of transition is either aspatial or based on implicit assumptions about spatial homogeneity This book addresses these limitations through an examination of socio technological transitions with an explicitly spatial focus in the context of the coastal zone The book begins by focusing on theoretical understandings of transition processes specific to the coastal zone and includes detailed empirical case studies The second half of the book appraises governance initiatives in coastal zones and their efficacy The authors conclude with an implicit theme of social and environmental justice in coastal sustainability transitions Research will be of interest to practitioners academics and decision makers active in the sphere of coastal sustainability The multi disciplinary nature encourages accessibility for individuals working in the fields of Economic Geography Regional Development Public Policy and Planning Environmental Studies Social Geography and Sociology

Innovation and Economic Development Mario Cimoli, Andre A. Hofman, Nanno Mulder, 2010-01-01 This book is the fruit of the research ECLAC has amassed with ten chapters detailing the great strides that have been made of late in ICT A distinguishing feature of this book is its multi disciplinary approach to measuring the economic effects of these technologies which incorporates the neo classical growth accounting approach and the evolutionary structuralist approach These approaches are noteworthy because much like the primary message of ECLAC they exemplify the pivotal importance of technical progress productivity and structural transformation in economic growth Innovation and Economic Development identifies several opportunities and challenges for bringing about a more dynamic role of ICT in the process of structural change and productivity growth and contends that accelerating the adoption and efficient use of ICT is essential to any strategy for further success

The U.S. and Canadian Army Strategies: Failures in Understanding Stephen Brent Appleton, Organizational conception and business practice share much in common with military strategy The two areas of study have had a mutually supportive relationship for decades Particularly since the commencement of the 20th century the business community has borrowed freely from and refined military thinking This practice has been in large part credited with the enormous success of the industrial expansion of the United States and Canada Many of today's multinationals gained global prominence from adopting and employing military concepts and people But the phenomenon has not been altogether one-sided Since the 1970s the military profession has in turn embraced organizational thinking and business practices This paper will focus on the military's attempt to assimilate aspects of management and organizational theory as well as business experience to bring direction and meaning to its present and future placement in the 21st century More specifically the author will examine the formal strategies of both the U.S. and Canadian Armies within the context of present organizational thinking as taught by leading institutions and utilized by Corporate North America The author will argue that the penchant of both armies to internalize business concepts and strategies has left the two nations' armies in a perilous situation pertaining to strategy formulation and direction Using current management and organizational models the author intends to identify the fundamental weaknesses within the two armies' strategies More importantly as both armies engage enterprise-wide transformation the author will demonstrate how this fundamental weakness in cognition and application has the very real possibility of jeopardizing the relevancy of both nations' land forces

Design for Services Anna Meroni, Daniela Sangiorgi, 2016-04-08 In Design for Services Anna Meroni and Daniela Sangiorgi articulate what Design is doing and can do for services and how this connects to existing fields of knowledge and practice Designers previously saw their task as the conceptualisation, development and production of tangible objects In the twenty-first century a designer rarely designs something but rather designs for something in the case of this publication for change, better experiences and better services The authors reflect on this recent transformation in the practice, role and skills of designers by organising their book into three main sections The first section links Design for Services to existing models and studies on services and service innovation Section two presents multiple service design projects to illustrate and clarify the issues, practices and theories that characterise the discipline today using these case studies the authors propose a conceptual framework that maps and describes the role of designers in the service economy The final section projects the discipline into the emerging paradigms of a new economy to initiate a reflection on its future
