The Humanists versus the Reactionary Avant Garde Charles Siegel, 2016-02-09 Modernist architects were part of a larger social movement that believed technology would bring a better future Today we can see that we need to make selective use of technology using technologies that are beneficial and controlling those that are destructive Beginning in the 1970s postmodern architects were part of a larger social movement to use technology for human purposes But today s avant gardists have rejected this humanist impulse and regressed to the modernist fascination with technology for its own sake even if their designs are cold and sterile and even if their designs are so antihuman that they make people feel sick The avant gardists are conservatives celebrating the status quo of our technological economy Neotraditional architects are the real progressives trying to humanize our economy With its new view of the history of architecture its hilarious examples of antihuman avant gardist designs and its inspiring examples of designs that learn from traditional models this book will convince you that the emperors of today s architecture have no clothes Among the books on this topic that I have read yours is by far the most sophisticated and the most up to date Andres Duany principal of DPZ Partners Siegel makes a clear and intelligent case based not on romantic nostalgia but on the pressing issues of contemporary society I recommend this book in the strongest possible terms Prof Nikos Salingaros author of A Theory of Architecture

City-County Consolidation and Its Alternatives: Reshaping the Local Government Landscape J.B. Carr,Richard C. Feiock,2016-07-08 City country consolidation builds upon the Progressive tradition of favoring structural reform of local governments This volume looks at some important issues confronting contemporary efforts to consolidate governments and develops a theoretical approach to understanding both the motivations for pursuing consolidation and the way the rules guiding the process shape the outcome Individual chapters consider the push for city county consolidation and the current context in which such decisions are debated along with several alternatives to city county consolidation The transaction costs of city county consolidation are compared against the costs of municipal annexation inter local agreements and the use of special district governments to achieve the desired consolidation of services The final chapters compare competing perspectives for and against consolidation and put together some of the pieces of an explanatory theory of local government consolidation

Reforming Suburbia Ann Forsyth,2005-03-14 The new community movement of the 1960s and 1970s attempted a grand experiment in housing It inspired the construction of innovative communities that were designed to counter suburbia s cultural conformity social isolation ugliness and environmental problems This richly documented book examines the results of those experiments in three of the most successful new communities Irvine Ranch in Southern California Columbia in Maryland and The Woodlands in the suburbs of Houston Texas Based on new research and interviews with developers designers and residents Ann Forsyth traces the evolution the successes and the shortcomings of these experiments in urban innovation Where they succeeded in areas such as community identity and open space preservation they provide support for current smart growth proposals Where they did not in areas such as housing affordability and transportation choices they offer important insights for today s planners designers developers civic leaders and others interested in incorporating new forms of development into their designs

Planning in the USA J. B. Cullingworth, Roger W. Caves, 2009 This revised edition continues to provide a comprehensive introduction to the policies and practices of planning Discussing land use urban planning and environmental protection policies the text explains the nature of the planning process
