Regret The Persistence Of The Possible:

Regret Janet Landman, 1993 Drawing from psychology economics philosophy anthropology and classic works of literature Landman provides an insightful anatomy of regret what it is how you experience it and how it changes you At best regret is a dynamic changing process one can transcend regret and thus transform the self Regret Janet Landman, 2023 Examines the experience of regret from a variety of sources ranging from psychology economics and philosophy to classic works of literature The author examines four views of regret the Romantic the Tragic the Comic and the Ironic as exemplified in such novels as Great Expectations Regret Paddy McQueen, 2024 Philosopher Paddy McQueen provides a detailed examination of the nature of regret and its role in decision making Additionally he explores how experiences of regret are shaped by social discourses especially those about gender and parenthood The Moral Psychology of Regret Anna Gotlib, 2019-10-21 What kind of an emotion is regret What difference does it make whether how and why we experience it and how does this experience shape our current and future thoughts decisions goals Under what conditions is regret appropriate Is it always one kind of experience or does it vary based on who is doing the regretting and why How is regret different from other backward looking emotions In The Moral Psychology of Regret scholars from several disciplines including philosophy gender studies disability studies law and neuroscience come together to address these and other questions related to this ubiquitous emotion that so many of us seem to dread And while regret has been somewhat under theorized as a subject worthy of serious and careful attention this volume is offered with the intent of expanding the discourse on regret as an emotion of great moral significance that underwrites how we understand ourselves and each other

Regretting Motherhood Orna Donath, 2017-07-11 A provocative and deeply important study of women's lives women's choices and an unspoken taboo that questions the societal pressures forcing women into motherhood Women who opt not to be mothers are frequently warned that they will regret their decision later in life yet we rarely talk about the possibility that the opposite might also be true that women who have children might regret it Drawing on years of research interviewing women from a variety of socioeconomic educational and professional backgrounds sociologist Orna Donath treats regret as a feminist issue as regret marks the road not taken we need to consider whether alternative paths for women currently are blocked off She asks that we pay attention to what is forbidden by rules governing motherhood time and emotion including the cultural assumption that motherhood is a natural role for women for the sake of all women not just those who regret becoming mothers If we are disturbed by the idea that a woman might regret becoming a mother Donath says our response should not be to silence and shame these women rather we need to ask honest and difficult questions about how society pushes women into motherhood and why those who reconsider it are still seen as a danger to the status quo Groundbreaking thoughtful and provocative this is an especially needed book in our current political climate as women's reproductive rights continue to be at the forefront of national debates Moral Engines Cheryl Mattingly, Rasmus Dyring, Maria Louw, Thomas

Schwarz Wentzer, 2017-10-01 In the past fifteen years there has been a virtual explosion of anthropological literature arguing that morality should be considered central to human practice Out of this explosion new and invigorating conversations have emerged between anthropologists and philosophers Moral Engines Exploring the Ethical Drives in Human Life includes essays from some of the foremost voices in the anthropology of morality offering unique interdisciplinary conversations between anthropologists and philosophers about the moral engines of ethical life addressing the question What propels humans to act in light of ethical ideals Emotion Theory: The Routledge Comprehensive Guide Andrea
