Relations Between Defence And Civil Technologies:

The Relations between Defence and Civil Technologies Philip Gummett, Judith Reppy, 2013-03-09 This book arises from a meeting held at Wiston House Sussex UK in September 1987 The meeting brought together academic governmental and industrial experts from eight countries to discuss the increasingly important subject of the relations between civil and defence technologies It was primarily funded under the Advanced Research Workshops Programme of NATO's Scientific Affairs Division and was the first science policy workshop funded by the Programme Additional financial support came from the Leverhulme Trust The choice of topic of speakers and finally of papers to be published was entirely ours The conclusions reached were our own and those of the participants They were not in any way guided by NATO nor do they represent NATO policy We speak for all the participants in offering our thanks to the NATO Scientific Affairs Division especially Secretary General Durand and Dr Craig Sinclair for their generosity and encouragement Without them this book would not exist We thank the Leverhulme Trust for enabling assistance to be provided to the Workshop Directors in the form of Iain Bate who himself played a major part in the success of the meeting The staff of Wiston House must also be thanked for providing an admirable environment for the meeting For secretarial support prior to the meeting we thank Gill Miller and Lesley Price Finally we offer special thanks to Mrs Yvonne Aspinall for converting all the papers in whatever state they were presented into camera ready copy with such professionalism and good humour

Beyond Spinoff John A. Alic, 1992 In a rapidly changing world there needs to be a critical reappraisal of traditional military industry relationships This book packed with data industry specific case studies and sophisticated analysis is such an appraisal It will be required reading for technology managers and policymakers in industry and government as well as those concerned with technological and economic competitiveness

Military Production and Innovation in Spain Jordi Molas-Gallart, 1992 Military Production and Innovation in Spain extends the scope beyond the traditional analysis of arms producers to include components and sub systems manufacturers It combines a description of the changes experienced by Spanish military production with an analysis of its deeply rooted structural characteristics The book provides an in depth exploration of the Spanish military related industry its links with the rest of the economy and its potential role as a technological engine for the Spanish economy

Technology Transfer Dietrich Schroer, Elena, 2018-02-06 This title was first published in 2000 The theme of this collection of essays is technology transfer The topic has three major aspects the interchange of technologies between military and civilian applications spin off dual use conversion and diversification fall under this heading the proliferation of military arms which could occur either through arms races between developed nations or through the transfer of military technology from developed arms industries to less developed nations proliferation arms races and arms control agreements fall under this heading and the transfer of civilian technologies from developing nations to less developed nations The expression North South transfer and the idea of development come under this final section The essays offer examination of all three aspects

E. Hawkesworth,Maurice Kogan,1992 "Rich Nation, Strong Army" Richard J. Samuels,2018-08-06 Since World War II Japan has become not only a model producer of high tech consumer goods but also despite minimal spending on defense a leader in innovative technology with both military and civilian uses In the United States nearly one in every three scientists and engineers was engaged in defense related research and development at the end of the Cold War but the relative strength of the American economy has declined in recent years What is the relationship between what has happened in the two countries And where did Japan s technological excellence come from In an economic history that will arouse controversy on both sides of the Pacific Richard J Samuels finds a key to Japan s success in an ideology of technological development that advances national interests From 1868 until 1945 the Japanese economy was fired by the development of technology to enhance national security the rallying cry Rich Nation Strong Army accompanied the expanded military spending and aggressive foreign policy that led to the disasters of the War in the Pacific Postwar economic planners reversed the assumptions that had driven Japan s industrialization Samuels shows promoting instead the development of commercial technology and infrastructure By valuing process improvements as much as product innovation the modern Japanese system has built up the national capacity to innovate while ensuring that technological advances have been diffused broadly through industries such as aerospace that have both civilian and military applications Struggling with the uncertainties of a post Cold War economy the United States has important lessons to learn from the way Japan has subordinated defense production yet emerged as one of the most technologically sophisticated nations in the world The Japanese like the Venetians and the Dutch before them show us that butter is just as likely as guns to make a nation strong but that nations cannot hope to be strong without an ideology of technological development that nourishes the entire national economy Restructuring of Arms Production in Western Europe Stockholm International Peace Research Institute,1992

Profound changes are occurring in the structure of arms production in Western Europe Concentration is increasing at a fast pace Small producers are disappearing and even large ones are opting out of the market The various national arms industries long operating in protective environments are rapidly internationalizing Three factors combine to bring about this change East West detente the creation of the Single European Market and the constant pressure of increasingly complex technology In this book experts describe how the framework for producing arms in Western Europe is altered and how various actors firms governments and trade unions are adapting to the new situation The book presents detailed analyses of all the arms producing countries in Western Europe In addition to describing recent changes the authors speculate on the implications of these for the balance of power in Western Europe the relations between Western Europe and the United States arms exports to the Third World and problems of converting from military to civilian production The appendices include the SIPRI list of the 50 largest arms producing companies in Western Europe data on mergers and acquisitions procurement expenditure and exports of major weapons selections from treaties and other official documents relevant to current and future regulation of West European arms production and a select bibliography
