California, Its History and Romance John Steven McGroarty,1911 Grizzly Bear ,1921 Herringshaw's American Statesman and Public Official Year-book ,1914 Herringshaw's American Blue-book of Biography ,1914 Designing Hollywood Christian Esquevin,2023-08-29 Since the 1920s fashion has played a central role in Hollywood As the movie going population consisted largely of women studios made a concerted effort to attract a female audience by foregrounding fashion

Magazines featured actresses like Jean Harlow and Joan Crawford bedecked in luxurious gowns selling their glamour as enthusiastically as the film itself. Whereas actors and actresses previously wore their own clothing, major studios hired costume designers and wardrobe staff to fabricate bespoke costumes for their film stars. Designers from a variety of backgrounds, including haute couture and art design, were offered long-term contracts to work on multiple movies. Though their work typically went uncredited, they were charged with creating an image for each star that would help define an actor both on and off screen. The practice of working long-term with a single studio disappeared when the studio system began unraveling in the 1950s. By the 1970s, studios had disbanded their wardrobe departments and auctioned off their costumes and props.

In Designing Hollywood: Studio Wardrobe in the Golden Age, Christian Esquevin showcases the designers who dressed Hollywood's stars from the late 1910s through the 1960s and the unique symbiosis they developed with their studios in creating iconic looks. Studio by Studio, Esquevin details the careers of designers like Vera West, who worked on Universal productions such as Phantom of the Opera (1925), Dracula (1931), and Bride of Frankenstein (1931); William Travilla, the talent behind Marilyn Monroe's dresses in Gentleman Prefer Blondes (1953) and The Seven Year Itch (1955); and Walter Plunkett, the Oscar-winning designer for film classics like Gone with the Wind (1939) and An American in Paris (1951). Featuring black and white photographs of leading ladies in their iconic looks as well as captivating original color sketches, Designing Hollywood takes the reader on a journey from drawing board to silver screen.

Historical Dictionary of Latin American Literature and Theater, Richard Young, Odile Cisneros, 2010-12-18. The Historical Dictionary of Latin American Literature and Theater provides users with an accessible, single-volume reference tool covering Portuguese-speaking Brazil and the 16 Spanish-speaking countries of continental Latin America: Argentina, Bolivia, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Ecuador, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Uruguay, and Venezuela. Entries for authors ranging from the early colonial period to the present give succinct biographical data and an account of the author's literary production, with particular attention to their most prominent works and where they belong in literary history. The introduction provides a review of Latin American literature and theater as a whole, while separate dictionary entries for each country offer insight into the history of national literatures. Entries for literary terms, movements, and genres serve to complement these commentaries, and an extensive bibliography points the way for further reading. The comprehensive view and detailed information obtained from all these elements will make this book of use to the general interest reader, Latin American studies students, and the academic specialist.

Origins of Futuristic Fiction, Paul K. Alkon, 2010-08-01. For nearly two thousand years, the future was a realm reserved for prophets, poets, astrologers, and practitioners of deliberative rhetoric. Then, in 1659, the French writer Jacques Guttin published his romance Epigone, which carried the subtitle The History of the Future Century. Unlike the stories of space travel that were popular at the time or the tales of travel to distant earthly lands, which had long been a familiar literary genre, Guttin's romance described human societies displaced by time as well as by space and heroes.

not of his own day but of a future age Paul Alkon's Origins of Futuristic Fiction examines the earliest works of prose fiction set in future time the forgotten writings of the seventeenth eighteenth and nineteenth centuries that are the precursors of such well known masterpieces of the form as H G Wells's The Time Machine Aldous Huxley's Brave New World and George Orwell's 1984 The first secular story to break the imaginative barrier against tales of the future Epigone marked the emergence of a form unknown to classical medieval or renaissance literature Guttin's courageous displacement of narrative into future time was followed by writers such as Samuel Madden Louis Sebastien Mercier Cousin de Granville Mary Shelley and Emile Souvestre who wrote books with such titles as Memoirs of the Twentieth Century The Year 2440 The Last Man and The World As It Will Be Most extraordinary though may be Felix Bodin's great metafictional Le roman de l'avenir the novel of the future Both a narrative of the future and a poetics of the new genre this book identified in the previous isolated works set in future time a situation rarely encountered in literary history in which the possibility for a new form clearly existed without yet being altogether achieved In the introduction to his uncompleted novel Bodin presented his vision of the futuristic novel as a literature of realism morality and fantasy His remarkably astute attempt to define the aesthetics of a major transformation in the relation between literature and time still stands as the basis for the poetics of futuristic fiction Tracing the early literary history of what became a major form of modern fiction Origins of Futuristic Fiction examines the key works of the earliest writers of the genre not for what they betray of past expectations but for what they reveal about the formal problems that needed to be resolved before tales of the future could achieve their full power in the works of later novelists
