Service Industries And Asia Pacific Cities:

Service Industries and Asia Pacific Cities Peter W. Daniels, Kong Chong Ho, Thomas A. Hutton, Tom Hutton, 2005-04

During the second half of the twentieth century development in the Asia Pacific region has been dominated by industrialization. However, at the beginning of the twenty first century services in particular finance, information and creative services have become deeply embedded in the processes of urban growth. In Asia Pacific the rise of service industries has led to national modernization programmes and globalization strategies. Services are also driving change in the internal form of city regions and are being actively deployed as instruments of metropolitan reconfiguration and land use changes. These changes have created problems such as social polarization and the displacement of traditional industries and residential districts. Also, there are tensions between local and global processes in the development of service industries and between the imperatives of competitive advantage and sustainable development. Service Industries and Asia-Pacific Cities brings together a multi disciplinary team of experts to explore and illustrate the theoretical, conceptual and practical issues arising from the transformation of Asia Pacific cities by service industries. Service Industries and Asia-Pacific Cities P. The Handbook of Service Industries J. R. Bryson, P. W. Daniels, 2007-01-01. It contains an impressive array of important and useful material that should be familiar to anyone interested in economic growth and change. The potential value to be gained from these collected works is great. James E. Pratt. Growth and Change. Service activities are now acknowledged as key players in economic development, societal change and public policy worldwide. This exciting Handbook not only contributes to ongoing conceptual debates about the nature of service led economies and societies, it also pushes back the frontiers of current critical thinking about the role of service activities in urban and regional development and the important research agendas that remain to be addressed. Drawing on both theory and case studies, the contributors are international experts who have written original and stimulating chapters from a number of different disciplinary perspectives. Each chapter seeks to raise awareness of and to provoke debates about the opportunities and challenges presented by the shift to service employment Providing a truly interdisciplinary analysis The Handbook of Service Industries will be invaluable to scholars specializing in services research as well as students and researchers in the areas of economics geography business and management sociology public policy and planning The policy making community will also find the Handbook a relevant and useful resource

Services and Economic Development in the Asia-Pacific P.W. Daniels,J.W. Harrington,2016-04-01 Until the 1990s industrialization was the dominant development paradigm for the Asia Pacific region Since then advanced services finance business or producer services information and creative services have become deeply embedded in the processes of economic growth and change in the region This rapid tertiary expansion is fundamentally restructuring national and regional economies and urban form in line with the introduction of advanced production systems national modernization programmes and the globalization strategies of governments Services are being actively deployed as instruments of metropolitan reconfiguration and land use change This book explores various aspects of the relationship between service industries and economic development in Japan South Korea China Taiwan Singapore India Australia and New Zealand It provides new sector oriented and regional and national perspectives on services and development

Producer Services in China Anthony Yeh,Fiona Yang,2013-02-11 In the past three decades China has experienced an unprecedented pace of economic and urban development It s economy is now transforming from one based on manufacturing industries towards the producer services with the importance of these services in the national and regional economy being recognized by economists and policy makers alike With growing demand and policy support producer services are expected to expand rapidly leading to a new wave of economic and urban development in China This groundbreaking volume is one of the first to address questions related to the development of these services in China The contributions explore a wide range of associated topics including the characteristics of the growth of producer services and how this is related to China s economic and urban transition the distribution of these services amongst Chinese cities as well as drawing comparison between producer service development in China and Western counterparts This volume also discusses the dynamics of the development of these services in China and how the political economic embeddedness of China has shaped the development of producer services Finally the consequences of this growth and how the economy and urban space have change in response is explored as well as the challenges Chinese cities face in moving towards a service economy and how this can inform future public policies This volume addresses the pressing need to understand the economic and urban changes in post industrial China to allow appropriate strategies and policies to formulated to facilitate future development in China The text is rich with statistical data and diagrams providing original contributions and a cutting edge overview This timely publication will be of interest to upper level undergraduates postgraduates and researchers interested in China Urban Studies and Economic Development

Economic Geography Sharmistha Bagchi-Sen,Helen Lawton-Smith,2006-09-27 The impact of economic geography both within and beyond the wider field of geography has been constrained in the past by its own limitations Drawing together the work of several eminent geographers this superb collection assesses the current state of knowledge in the sub discipline and its future direction In doing so the contributors show how economic geographers have offered explanations that affect places and lives in the broader context of the global economy Offering a discussion of theoretical constructs and methodologies with the purpose to show the need to combine different approaches in understanding spatial inter dependencies contributors also demonstrate the need to engage with multiple audiences and within this context they proceed to examine how geographers have interfaced with businesses and policy This excellent collection moves economic geography from a preoccupation with theory towards more rigorous empirical research with greater relevance for public policy With excellent breadth of coverage it provides an outstanding introduction to research topics and approaches

Future Asian Space Erwin Viray, Davis Boontharm, Limin Hee, 2012-01-01 Rapid technological economic social and cultural changes are transforming the idea of Asian space With the shift to a global economy and an urban population explosion Asian cities have become a mainstay of progress national pride identity and positioning on the global stage The extraordinary pace and intensity of the changes have created a situation unique in the history of urban development Despite the immense diversity of Asian countries Asia ness is often treated as a distinctive quality that has emerged from unique recent circumstances affecting Asian urbanizations as a whole In Future Asian Space 15 authors explore broad concepts relating to the creation and re creation of Asian space and contemporary Asian identity and their examination of different sites and research approaches highlights the difficulty of pinpointing what Asia ness is or might become Appropriate design and planning of cities is a critical element in building a sustainable future and coping with environmental social and cultural problems Future Asian Space is designed to stimulate interests and engagement in discussions of the Asian city and its trajectories in architecture and urbanism but the authors conclusions will intrigue anyone interested in the future of cities and urban life in Asia

Knowledge-Based Services, Internationalization and Regional Development Peter Daniels, 2017-05-15 The acquisition and management of information is central to the operation and marketing of many service providing firms and other organizations Their varied knowledge requirements influence approaches to organizational structure relationships to other organizations the location of operations and entry into new markets In this book an international and interdisciplinary team of leading scholars examines the attributes of knowledge acquisition and diffusion within and across service providing organizations Using a variety of case examples they pay particular attention to the processes of internationalization and the ways in which service providing organizations affect regional economic development

Services in the International Economy Robert Mitchell Stern, 2001 Examines the growing role of services in the world economy Dynamics of Economic Spaces in the Global Knowledge-based Economy Sam Ock Park, 2014-09-19 This book addresses how economic spaces dynamically change within the context of the global knowledge-based economy. Specifically, it centers the discussion on integrated views of understanding and conceptualizing dynamic changes of global economy under the global megatrends of globalization, knowledge-based economy, information society, service world, climate change, and population aging. Focusing on East Asia, especially on Korea, it deals with case studies regarding the processes and patterns of these global dynamics, looking at economic spaces of various spatial scales and types of economic actors. This book develops a theoretical model for understanding and analysing the dynamics of economic spaces that are being reshaped within the larger global economy. It also emphasizes the analysis of empirical studies at the level of firm, region, and state by considering an evolutionary perspective over time. In developing its theoretical framework, this book examines regional resilience, intangible assets, service innovation, path dependence, and other notions related to the evolution of economic spaces and incorporates these elements into real-world case studies. The integrated theoretical framework examined here contributes a new perspective on spatial disparities in the global economy. An integral model of service innovation, the integration of path dependence and regional resilience, the interaction between firm and region for the accumulation of intangible assets, and the roles of governments and global firms, these are all essential to understanding the dynamics of economic spaces in East Asia. The theoretical model and case studies in this book suggest policy implications for developing countries, especially in the Asian and African regions, with regard to regional development and innovation policies.
