Service Learning In Technical And Professional Communication:

Service-learning in Technical and Professional Communication Melody A. Bowdon, J. Blake Scott, 2003 Grounded in the practices of ethical deliberation and civic action this text creates a resource for helping technical and professional communication students and teachers implement service learning projects in campus and larger communities Designed for a wide ranging audience Service Learning in Technical and Professional Communication address both advanced and beginning students and both veteran service learning teachers and those trying it for the first time The text begins with three chapters that define and explain the authors approach to service learning and develop a rhetorical toolbox for implementing this approach The remainder of the book is loosely organized around the process of developing executing and evaluating service learning projects These process chapters teach rhetorical strategies ethical concerns genre conventions and style principles in an integrated contextualized way Discussions of rhetoric and ethics are supplemented with heuristics for analyzing the larger cultural effects of service learning projects The Routledge Handbook of Ethics in Technical and Professional Communication Derek G. Ross, 2025-03-06 Featuring specially commissioned chapters from scholars and practitioners across the field this handbook serves as a touchstone for those who wish to do ethical technical and professional communication in its myriad forms Offering an overview of what ethics in technical and professional communication looks like what being ethical entails and what it means to do ethical work this handbook is divided into five interrelated parts and an Afterword Why Ethics Foundations What Are Ethics and How Do They Fit into Technical and Professional Communication Local Application What Does Being Ethical Mean to the Individual Institutional Application What Does Being Ethical Mean at the Institutional Level The Future of Ethics in Technical Communication What Happens Next The first of its kind this accessibly written handbook explores descriptive normative applied and meta ethics It will be an indispensable resource for researchers and students in the fields of Technical and Professional Communication Writing Studies Rhetoric and Design Teaching Content Management in Technical and Professional Communication Tracy Bridgeford, 2020-01-31 This collection offers a comprehensive overview of approaches to teaching the complex subject of content management The 12 chapters define and explain content management and its accompanying competencies providing teaching examples in areas including content strategy topic based writing usability studies and social media The book covers tasks associated with content management such as analyzing audiences and using information architecture languages including XML and DITA It highlights the communal aspects of content management focusing on the work of writing stewardship and project management and the characteristics of content management in global contexts It concludes with a look to the future and the forces that shape content management today The editor situates the collection within a pedagogical exigency providing sound instructional approaches to teaching content management from a rhetorical perspective The book is an essential resource for both instructors new to teaching technical and professional communication and experienced instructors who are interested in upgrading their pedagogies to include content management Citizenship and Advocacy in Technical Communication Godwin Y. Agboka, Natalia Matveeva, 2018-06-22 In Citizenship and Advocacy in Technical Communication teachers researchers and practitioners will find a variety of theoretical frameworks empirical studies and teaching approaches to advocacy and citizenship Specifically the collection is organized around three main themes or sections considerations for understanding and defining advocacy and citizenship locally and globally engaging with the local and global community and introducing advocacy in a classroom The collection covers an expansive breadth of issues and topics that speak to the complexities of undertaking advocacy work in TPC including local grant writing activities cosmopolitanism and global transnational rhetoric digital citizenship and social media use strategic and tactical communication and diversity and social justice The contributors themselves representing fifteen academic institutions and occupying various academic ranks offer nuanced definitions frameworks examples and strategies for students scholars practitioners and educators who want to or are already engaged in a variegated range of advocacy work More so they reinforce the inherent humanistic values of our field and discuss effective rhetorical and current technological tools at our disposal Finally they show us how through pedagogical approaches and everyday mundane activities and practices we can advocate either actively or passively colleges and universities to meet their goals for student learning while making unique contributions to addressing unmet local national and global needs However in order to realize these benefits service learning must be thoughtfully designed and carefully implemented This easy to use volume contains everything faculty leaders and staff members need to know about service learning to enhance communities improve higher education institutions and educate the next generation of citizens scholars and leaders Service-Learning to Advance Access & Success Travis T. York, Alan S. Tinkler, Barri E.

Tinkler, 2018-11-01 Throughout the 90s and early 2000s service learning research was intensely focused on the student outcomes That body of research has effectively brought service learning from the fringes into the mainstream of institutionalized pedagogies In the past decade service learning research has experienced an infusion of exploration in three distinct ways first large scale quantitative methodologies second a proliferation of research that has explored how different sub groups of students experience the pedagogy differently thusly resulting in variation among outcomes and third a focus on the experiences and outcomes associated for communities and community partners engaged in service learning In an effort to support these movements this volume of the Advances in Service Learning Research series Service Learning to Advance Access Success Bridging Institutional and Community Capacity focuses on how service learning can advance access and success Not simply access and success of students but the ways that service learning can advance access and success for all through bridging institutional and community capacity building The chapters in this volume serve as a testament to the ways in which service learning research continue to be advanced by thoughtful scholar practitioners The 12 chapters included in this volume are organized into three sections The first section focuses on how institutional and community partnerships can be leveraged to build community capacity The second section focuses on how institutions might build their own capacity to effect change for the good of society The third and final section focuses on six studies exploring the relationship service learning pedagogy has with access and success for students Of the six studies three are situated within the context of teacher preparation programs Civic Engagement and Technical Communication James M. Dubinsky, J. Harrison

Carpenter, 2023-04-14 This special issue on civic engagement and technical communication focuses on the ways educators can help students become actively engaged members of society particularly a rhetorical democracy The first essay examines the concept of community as a locus for civic engagement and question some of the definitions of community seen embedded in current pedagogical practices The next article seeks to shape understanding of practice The tension of developing students civic awareness and engagement is the topic of the third paper The fourth article helps students gain skills and organization awareness and improves the perceived relevance of the work The final two essays approach the issue of civic engagement from slightly different angles one examining the role of teacher as both rhetor and instructor and the other looking to the past for possible solutions for the future By continuing the conversation about the relationship between technical communication and the public good and focusing specifically on pedagogical strategies and their theoretical and historical underpinnings the authors in this special issue clarify roles that technical communication and technical communicators play in civil society as well as ways curricula can be shaped to prepare students to fill those roles Assessment in Technical and Professional Communication Margaret Hundleby, Jo Allen, 2017-07-05 A collection of essays that focuses on both how and why assessment serves as a key element in the teaching and practice of technical and professional communication It offers teachers students scholars and practitioners evidence of the increasingly valuable role of assessment in the field as it supports and enriches our thinking and practice The Routledge Handbook of Social Justice in Technical and Professional Communication Natasha N.
