SERVICE – SERVILITY – SERVITUDE

3 – 6 DECEMBER, 2023

Labour history has long been framed through the 'free/unfree' divide. Moreover, slavery as well as wage labour, indentured work and convict labour, as well as other labour relations, have traditionally been studied in isolation from each other. In the last decades, however, labour historians have highlighted the need to move beyond the 'free/unfree' divide (van der Linden and Brass, 1997; van der Linden 2008), expanded the range of labour relations under study, and insisted on the relevance of a processual perspective (De Vito, Schiel and van Rossum, 2020; Schiel and Heinsen, forthcoming). Especially the latter approach highlights the complex making of labour coercion, and offers the possibility to rethink key concepts, e.g. the 'working class', and periodisations in labour history.

Building on these new insights, the summer school foregrounds the potential of the concepts of 'service', 'servility' and 'servitude' to provide further entry points into this expanded labour history. At the same time, it seeks to uncover the historical importance of service and servile forms of labour that have been marginalized through discourses that focus on 'free/unfree' labour, or have been addressed within isolated fields of research.

We think of labour regimes as diverse as family labour or domestic service, we look at shopworkers sharing work-spaces as well as close social ties in an Asian 'bazaar', we address inmates who worked in private households, or doing service as a punishment for certain crimes, workers in 'informal' backyard manufacturing units, farm hands living on

Servility And Service:

The Safeguard of the Sea N A M Rodger, 2004-10-07 Throughout Britain's history one factor above all others has determined the fate of the nation its navy N A M Rodger's definitive account reveals how the political and social progress of Britain has been inextricably intertwined with the strength and weakness of its sea power from the desperate early campaigns against the Vikings to the defeat of the great Spanish Armada Covering policy strategy ships recruitment and weapons this is a superb tapestry of nearly 1 000 years of maritime history No other historian has examined the subject in anything like the detail found here The result is an outstanding example of narrative history Barry Unsworth Sunday Telegraph

The Victorian Novel, Service Work, and the Nineteenth-Century Economy Joshua Gooch, 2015-08-13 This book offers a much needed study of the Victorian novel's role in representing and shaping the service sector's emergence Arguing that prior accounts of the novel's relation to the rise of finance have missed the emergence of a wider service sector it traces the effects of service work's many forms and class positions in the Victorian novel

From Products to Services Laurie Young, 2008-05-05 During the last thirty years a wide range of product companies throughout the Western economies have considered moving into or setting up service businesses Some have rejected the idea after careful consideration some have wandered into competitive services without any real idea of what is involved and others have deliberately executed a carefully considered strategic manoeuvre Included in this debate are some of the most famous business names in the western world Unisys Ericsson Michelin Nokia and HP For IBM it was Lou Gerstener's big bet at GE it was one of former CEO Jack Welch's four major strategies and at General Motors the financial services arm was its most profitable business for many years Yet very little has been published on this profound transition As a result myths and idiocies abound Some routinely claim that the evolution from products through services to solutions is inevitable Others think that manufacturing is being outsourced to China and India while American or European teenagers face a career in hamburger stalls The truth is much more fascinating To succeed in a service business most functions of a product company need to change Operations management recruitment finance sales new product development and marketing must all be adjusted So the move into service therefore involves huge risk caused by disruptive and radical change What has pushed realistic business people in such widely different industrial sectors to take so large a risk Does their experience contain lessons or warnings for others Is the trend likely to continue and affect other parts of the world as their economies develop Will India China or other developing economies need to learn how to export service once their manufacturing industries mature Written by a successful businessman who has been at the heart of these changes in several companies and with case studies from companies like IBM Unilever BT Michelin Ericsson and Nokia this book explores the experience of those who have made the transition and some who have resisted it It covers in depth subjects such as strategic focus change management service operations branding a service business service sales and service marketing It is the first major work on
