The Politics of Memoir and the Northern Ireland Conflict Stephen Hopkins, 2013 This book examines memoir writing by many of the key political actors in the Northern Irish Troubles 1969-1998 and argues that memoir has been a neglected dimension of the study of the legacies of the violent conflict It investigates these sources in the context of ongoing disputes over how to interpret Northern Ireland's recent past A careful reading of these memoirs can provide insights into the lived experience and retrospective judgments of some of the main protagonists of the conflict The period of relative peace rests upon an uneasy calm in Northern Ireland Many people continue to inhabit contested ideological territories and in their strategies for shaping the narrative telling of the conflict key individuals within the Protestant Unionist and Catholic Irish Nationalist communities can appear locked into exclusive and self-justifying discourses In such circumstances while some memoirists have been genuinely self-critical many others have utilised a post-conflict language of societal

Judo Memoirs of Jigoro Kano Brian N. Watson, 2008-10-03 In 1882 Kano opened his Kodokan dojo in Tokyo where he taught jujutsu to his first class of nine students His choice of the name Kodokan symbolizes precocity in one so young and is highly significant for it means the institute where one is guided along the road to follow in life that is to say a road that one travels as a means of self-cultivation which Kano regarded as the optimum way to live one's life This cultivation however can only be attained following long years of training made with vigorous exertion in an effort to reach the ultimate goal self-perfection At the age of twenty-four Kano abruptly gave up the teaching of this ancient and altogether brutal activity and never taught jujutsu again In his attempt to create for the modern age a non-violent spiritually inspiring antagonistic art he carried out research on several styles of jujutsu Primarily in the interests of both safety and practicality he altered and added his own devices to the techniques that he was later to incorporate into his newly conceived system of skills which he named Kodokan judo In lectures Kano often stated the following The ultimate object of studying judo is to train and cultivate body and mind through practice in attack and defense and by thus mastering the essentials of the art to attain perfection of oneself and bring benefits to the world He had sought to create in judo therefore something positive out of something largely negative

The Empire of Depression Jonathan Sadowsky, 2020-10-22 Depression has colonized the world Today more than 300 million of us have been diagnosed as depressed But 150 years ago depression referred to a mood not a sickness Does that mean people weren't sick before only sad Of course not Mental illness is a complex thing part biological part social its definition dependent on time and place But in the mid-twentieth century even as European empires were crumbling new Western clinical models and treatments for mental health spread across the world. In so doing, depression began to displace older ideas like melancholia, the Japanese utsushi, or the Punjabi sinking heart syndrome. Award-winning historian Jonathan Sadowsky tells this global story, chronicling the path-breaking work of psychiatrists and pharmacists and the intimate sufferings of patients. Revealing the continuity of human distress across time and place, he shows us how different cultures have experienced intense mental anguish and how they have tried to alleviate it. He reaches an unflinching conclusion: the devastating effects of depression are real. A number of treatments do reduce suffering, but a permanent cure remains elusive. Throughout the history of depression, there have been overzealous promoters of particular approaches, but history shows us that there is no single way to get better that works for everyone. Like successful psychotherapy, history can liberate us from the negative patterns of the past.
