Wood, 2020-04-23 Viewing the subsistence farm as primarily a demographic enterprise to create and support a family this book offers an integrated view of the demography and ecology of preindustrial farming Taking an interdisciplinary perspective it examines how traditional farming practices interact with demographic processes such as childbearing death and family formation It includes topics such as household nutrition physiological work capacity health and resistance to infectious diseases as well as reproductive performance and mortality The book argues that the farming household is the most informative scale at which to study the biondemography and physiological ecology of preindustrial non commercial agriculture It offers a balanced appraisal of the farming system considering its strengths and limitations as well as the implications of viewing it as a demographic enterprise rather than an economic one A valuable resource for graduate students and researchers in biological and physical anthropology cultural anthropology natural resource management agriculture and ecology Seeking a Richer Harvest Tina Thurston, Christopher T Fisher, 2006-11-25 Subsistence intensification innovation and change have long figured prominently in explanations for the development of social complexity among foragers and horticulturalists and the rise of chiefly societies and archaic states yet there is considerable debate over the actual mechanisms that promote these processes Traditional approaches to the intensification question emphasize population pressure climate change bureaucratic management or even land degradation as prerequisites for the onset of new or changing strategies or the construction and maintenance of agricultural landscapes Most often these factors are modeled as external forces outside the realm of human decision making but recent archaeological research presents an alternative to this suggesting that subsistence intensification is the result of human driven strategies for power prestige and status stemming from internal conditions within a group When responding to environmental adversity human groups were less frequently the victims as they have been repeatedly portrayed Instead human groups were often vigorous actors responding with resilience ingenuity and planning to flourish or survive within dynamic and sometimes unpredictable social and natural milieux Water Histories and Spatial Archaeology Michael J.

broad range of past Northern Iroquoian societies The research in this volume represents a new wave of spatial research exploring beyond settlement patterning to the process and the meaning behind spatial arrangement of past communities and people and describes new approaches being used for better understanding of past Northern Iroquoian societies Addressing topics ranging from household task scapes and gender relations to bioarchaeology and social network analysis Process and Meaning in Spatial Archaeology demonstrates the vitality of current archaeological research into ancestral Northern Iroquoian societies and its growing contribution to wider debates in North American archaeology This cutting edge research will be of interest to archaeologists globally as well as academics and graduate students studying Northern Iroquoian societies and cultures geography and spatial analysis Contributors Kathleen M S Allen Jennifer A Birch William Engelbrecht Crystal Forrest John P Hart Sandra Katz Robert H Pihl Aleksandra Pradzynski Erin C Rodriguez Dean R Snow Ronald F Williamson Rob Wojtowicz Pastoralist Landscapes and Social Interaction in Bronze Age Eurasia Michael David Frachetti,2009-01-05 Offering a fresh archaeological interpretation this work reconceptualizes the Bronze Age prehistory of the vast Eurasian steppe during one of the most formative and innovative periods of human history Michael D Frachetti combines an analysis of newly documented archaeological sites in the Koksu River valley of eastern Kazakhstan with detailed paleoecological and ethnohistorical data to illustrate patterns in land use settlement burial and rock art His investigation illuminates the practical effect of nomadic strategies on the broader geography of social interaction and suggests a new model of local and regional interconnection in the third and second millennia B C E Frachetti further argues that these early nomadic communities played a pivotal role in shaping enduring networks of exchange across Eurasia Classic Maya Politics of the Southern Lowlands Damien B. Marken,James L. Fitzsimmons,2015-11-02 Classic Maya Politics of the Southern Lowlands investigates Maya political and social structure in the southern lowlands assessing comparing and interpreting the wide variation in Classic period Maya polity and city composition development and integration Traditionally discussions of Classic Maya political organization have been dominated by the debate over whether Maya polities were centralized or decentralized With new largely unpublished data from several recent archaeological projects this book examines the premises strengths and weaknesses of these two perspectives before moving beyond this long standing debate and into different territory The volume examines the articulations of the various social and spatial components of Maya polity the relationships strategies and practices that bound households communities institutions and dynasties into enduring or short lived political entities By emphasizing the internal negotiation of polity the contributions provide an important foundation for a more holistic understanding of how political organization functioned in the Classic period The Cambridge World History: Volume 2, A World with Agriculture, 12,000 BCE-500 CE Graeme Barker,Candice Goucher,2015-04-16 The development of agriculture has often been described as the most important change in all of human history Volume 2 of the Cambridge World History series explores the origins and impact of agriculture and agricultural communities and also discusses issues associated with pastoralism and hunter fisher gatherer economies To capture the patterns of this key change across the globe the volume uses an expanded timeframe from 12 000 BCE 500 CE beginning with the Neolithic and continuing into later periods Scholars from a range of disciplines including archaeology historical linguistics biology anthropology and history trace common developments in the more complex social structures and cultural forms that agriculture enabled such as sedentary villages and more elaborate foodways and then present a series of regional overviews accompanied by detailed case studies from many different parts of the world including Southwest Asia South Asia China Japan Southeast Asia and the Pacific sub Saharan Africa the Americas and Europe Housework Kenneth G.

Hirth,2010-02-15 Households are without question the most important social units in human society They are interactive social units whose primary concern is the day to day well being of their kith and kin Households reproduce themselves and provide their members with the economic psychological and social resources necessary to live their lives Although households vary enormously in size and organization they are the fundamental social settings in which families are defined and cultural values are transmitted through a range of domestic activities and rituals Despite their many functions it is the range and productivity of their economic activities that determine the success survival and well being of their members Households are the primary production and consumption units in society and provide the vehicle through which resources are pooled stored and distributed to their members Survival and reproduction is their business and the work they do determines their success Africa Tony Binns, Etienne Nel, Alan Dixon, 2012-01-11 For many Africa is regarded as a place of mystery and negative images where reports of natural disasters and civil strife dominate media attention with relatively little publicity given to any of the continent's more positive attributes Africa has at last begun to receive the depth of interest it has long deserved in the shape of debates about trade aid and debt the Make Poverty History campaign and the UK's Commission on Africa But behind the superficial media facade Africa is a diverse complex and dynamic place with a rich history and a colonial engagement that although short lived was fundamental in determining the long term future of the continent At the start of the second decade of the twenty first century when the world is engulfed in a major financial crisis Africa has the dubious distinction of being the world's poorest continent This book introduces and demystifies Africa's diversity and dynamism and considers how its peoples and environments have interacted through time and space The background and diversity of Africa's social cultural economic political and environmental systems is examined as well as key development issues which have affected Africa in the past and are likely to be significant in shaping the future of the continent These include the impact of HIV AIDS sources of conflict and post conflict reconstruction the state and governance the nature of African economies in a global context and future development trajectories Africa Diversity and Development is a refreshing interdisciplinary text which enhances understanding of the background to Africa's current position and clarifies possible future scenarios It is richly illustrated throughout with diagrams and plates and contains a wealth of detailed case

Grounding Education in Environmental Humanities Lucas Johnston, Dave Aftandilian, 2018-11-05 This edited volume draws together educators and scholars to engage with the difficulties and benefits of teaching place based education in a distinctive culture laden area in North America the United States South Despite problematic past visions of cultural homogeneity the South has always been a culturally diverse region with many historical layers of inhabitation and migration each with their own set of religious and secular relationships to the land Through site specific narratives this volume offers a blueprint for new approaches to place based pedagogy with an emphasis on the intersection between religion and the environment By offering broadly applicable examples of pedagogical methods and practices this book confronts the need to develop more sustainable local communities to address globally significant challenges The Archaeology of Household

Activities Penelope Allison, 2013-05-13 This pioneering collection engages with recent research in different areas of the archaeological discipline to bring together case studies of the household material culture from later prehistoric and classical periods The book provides a comprehensive and accessible study for students into the material records of past households aiding wider understanding of our own domestic development Ethnicities, Community Making, and Agrarian Change

Hsain Ilahiane, 2004-11-19 This ethnography studies how when and under what circumstances culture change occurs It is author Hsain Ilahiane s conviction that culture change directly affects resource use and community building processes This study investigates the relationship between ethnicity and agricultural production at the household level as well as the result of recent ethnic transformations in the restructuring of patterns of land access and social mobility within ethnically stratified communities Ilahiane focuses specifically on the intensive farming systems of Morocco s Ziz Oasis a 250 km long expanse watered by the Ziz River Surrounded by Saharan desert the valley houses a dense rapidly grown and ethnically diverse population of Arabs Berbers and Haratine blacks The author employs a varied body of data collected during fieldwork including ethnographic accounts oral histories and colonial archival records and socio economic and ecological findings based on a household questionnaire strategy
