Curtis, 2023-08-01 This collection argues that the romanticized conflation of childhood and innocence in American culture has been on a steady decline at least since the 1960s largely due to postmodern critiques of overarching narratives involving both the child and the innocence of childhood. Additionally, this collection highlights and analyzes examples of children's literature and culture throughout the 20th century and into the 21st which pointedly defy traditional idealized notions of childhood. Such an analysis serves to reiterate the idea that the romanticized notion of childhood which has pervaded American culture for over two centuries is little more than a cultural construction that bears little to no resemblance to the actual lived experience of American children.

Twain, Alcott, and the Birth of the Adolescent Reform Novel Roberta S. Trites, 2009-11. Trites argues that Twain and Alcott wrote on similar topics because they were so deeply affected by the Civil War by cataclysmic emotional and financial losses in their families by their cultural immersion in the tenets of Protestant philosophy and by sexual tensions that may have stimulated their interest in writing for adolescents. Trites demonstrates how the authors participated in a cultural dynamic that marked the changing nature of adolescence in America, provoking a literary sentiment that continues to inform young adult literature. Both intuited that the transitory nature of adolescence makes it ripe for expression about human potential for change and reform.

Coming of Age in Children's Literature Margaret Meek Spencer, Victor Watson, 2003-11-27. Edited by Morag Styles and written by an international team of acknowledged experts, this series provides jargon-free critical discussion and a comprehensive guide to literary and popular texts for children. Each book introduces the reader to a major genre of children's literature, covering key authors, major works, and contexts in which those texts are published. Margaret Meek and Victor Watson provide a profound and revealing examination of the treatment of personal development, maturation, and rites of passage in literature written for children and adolescents. Including a broad survey of the theme across a number of genres and an in-depth analysis of the work of key writers, the authors work towards an answer to the question: What is a classic? Margaret Meek is Reader Emeritus at the Institute of Education in London. Victor Watson is Assistant Director of Research at Homerton College, Cambridge.
