Making Of Ireland:

The Making of Ireland and Its Undoing, 1200-1600 Alice Stopford Green, 1920 Migration and the Making of Ireland Bryan Fanning, 2021-11-02 Ireland has been shaped by centuries of emigration as millions escaped poverty famine religious persecution and war But what happens when we reconsider this well worn history by exploring the ways Ireland has also been shaped by immigration From slave markets in Viking Dublin to social media use by modern asylum seekers Migration and the Making of Ireland identifies the political religious and cultural factors that have influenced immigration to Ireland over the span of four centuries A senior scholar of migration and social policy Bryan Fanning offers a rich understanding of the lived experiences of immigrants Using firsthand accounts of those who navigate citizenship entitlements gender rights and religious and cultural differences in Ireland Fanning reveals a key yet understudied aspect of Irish history Engaging and eloquent Migration and the Making of Ireland provides long overdue consideration to those who made new lives in Ireland even as they made Ireland new Making Ireland British, 1580-1650 Nicholas P. Canny, 2001 This pioneering study is the first to examine all the English settlements attempted in Ireland during the years 1580 1650 The author looks at the arguments in favour of a plantation policy and Irish responses to it in practice He places what happened in Ireland in the context of events in England Scotland Continental Europe and England's Atlantic colonies From back cover

Making Ireland Irish Eric G. E. Zuelow, 2009-03-01 From the dark shadow of civil war to the pastel painted towns of today Making Ireland Irish provides a sweeping account of the evolution of the Irish tourist industry over the twentieth century Drawing on an extensive array of previously untapped or underused sources Eric G E Zuelow examines how a small group of tourism advocates inspired by tourist development movements in countries such as France and Spain worked tirelessly to convince their Irish compatriots that tourism was the secret to Ireland's success Over time tourism went from being a national joke to a national interest Men and women from across Irish society joined in eager to help shape their country and culture for visitors eyes The result was Ireland as it is depicted today a land of blue skies smiling faces pastel towns natural beauty ancient history and timeless traditions With lucid prose and vivid detail Zuelow explains how careful planning transformed Irish towns and villages from grey and unattractive to bright and inviting sanitized Irish history to avoid offending Ireland's largest tourist market the English and supplanted traditional rural fairs revolving around muddy animals and featuring sexually suggestive ceremonies with new family friendly festivals and events filling today's tourist calendar By challenging existing notions that the Irish tourist product is either timeless or the consequence of colonialism Zuelow demonstrates that the development of tourist imagery and Irish national identity was not the result of a handful of elites or a postcolonial legacy but rather the product of an extended discussion that ultimately involved a broad cross section of society both inside and outside Ireland Tourism he argues played a vital role in making Ireland Irish The Making of Ireland James F. Lydon, 1998 Making Ireland British 1580-1650 Nicholas Canny, 2001-05-03 This is the first comprehensive study of all the plantations that were attempted in Ireland during the years 1580 1650 It examines the arguments advanced by successive political figures for a plantation policy and the responses which this policy elicited from different segments of the population in Ireland The book opens with an analysis of the complete works of Edmund Spenser who was the most articulate ideologue for plantation The author argues that all subsequent advocates of plantation ranging from King James VI and I to Strafford to Oliver Cromwell were guided by Spenser s opinions and that discrepancies between plantation in theory and practice were measured against this yardstick The book culminates with a close analysis of the 1641 insurrection throughout Ireland which it is argued steeled Cromwell to engage in one last effort to make Ireland British Ireland Thomas

Delaney,2026-01-02 A radical new interpretation of the course of modern Irish history which explores the Irish encounter with the modern world The Reconstruction of the Church of Ireland John McCafferty,2007-07-26 Thomas Wentworth landed in Ireland in 1633 almost 100 years after Henry VIII had begun his break with Rome The majority of the people were still Catholic William Laud had just been elevated to Canterbury A Yorkshire cleric John Bramhall followed the new viceroy and became in less than one year Bishop of Derry This 2007 study which is centred on Bramhall examines how these three men embarked on a policy for the established Church which represented not only a break with a century of reforming tradition but which also sought to make the tiny Irish Church a model for the other Stuart kingdoms Dr McCafferty shows how accompanying canonical changes were explicitly implemented for notice and eventual adoption in England and Scotland However within eight years the experiment was blown apart and reconstruction denounced as subversive Wentworth Laud and Bramhall faced consequent disgrace trial death or exile

Fortification and Its Discontents from Shakespeare to Milton Adam N. McKeown,2019-01-08 Fortification and Its Discontents from Shakespeare to Milton gives new coherence to the literature of the early modern Atlantic world by placing it in the context of radical changes to urban space following the Italian War of 1494 1498 The new walled city that emerged in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries on both sides of the Atlantic provided an outlet for a wide range of humanistic fascinations with urban design composition and community organization but it also promoted centrality of control and subordinated the human environment to military functionality Examining William Shakespeare Edmund Spenser John Winthrop and John Milton this volume shows how the literature of England and New England explores and challenges the new walled city as England struggled to define the sprawling metropolis of London translate English urban spaces into Ireland and North America and later survive a long civil war

The Roots of English Colonialism in Ireland John Patrick Montaña, 2011-08-11 This book is a major study of the cultural foundations of the Tudor plantations in Ireland and of early English imperialism more generally John Patrick Montaña traces the roots of colonialism in the key relationship of cultivation and civility in Tudor England and shows the central role this played in Tudor strategies for settling civilising and colonising Ireland The book ranges from the role of cartography surveying and material culture houses fences fields roads and bridges in manifesting the new order to the place of diet leisure language and hairstyles in establishing cultural differences as a site of conflict between the Irish and the imperialising state and as a justification for the civilising process It shows that the ideologies and strategies of colonisation which would later be applied in the New World were already apparent in the practices material culture and hardening attitude towards barbarous customs of the Tudor regime
